BOOTS FOR BUSINESS.

GRAPE RUBBER SOLES

It matters so much to the business man that his boots should be smart yet a comfortable fit for he generally has to wear them all day long without any chance of a change and they must above all be pleasant and easy to walk in. Yet he will not put up with anything "sloppy"—he must have a trim stylish boot, as good as it looks and of the right quality to stand the "rush and bustle" of everyday business life. We make just the proper foot wear to meet these requirements.

Prompt Reporting

The following select opinions speak for themselves as to the Superior merit of the Journal

The Hon'ble Justice SIR ABDUR RAHIM, Kt Says

Mr V C Seshachariar Vakil of the Madras High Court, was good enough to supply me with a copy of his valuable journal 'The Law Weekly' since it was first started. As was to be expected from a gentleman of Mr Seshachariar's energy and enterprise, his paper has been always up to date in the reports of the decided cases and I found his editorial notes dealing with varied topics concerning laws, lawyers and administration of justice generally, specially interesting. While Mr Seshachariar never scrupled to express freely his opinion about men and matters it must be said to his credit that he never had an unkind or uncharitable word to say regarding the Judges whose decisions he naturally had often to criticise."

The Hon'ble Justice SIR CHARLES SPENCER, Kt, Says

"I perused with interest your article on Mr Norton's Jubilee at the Bar. I first became acquainted with him in 1902 when I was acting as District Judge of Madura and he has been my friend ever since.

I have always admired the good sense which has characterized the conduct of the Law Weekly, the excellent quality of the type and the general get up of this journal, the punctuality of its appearance and its freedom from all kinds of partiality and prejudice.

I took it and read it from its first issue up to the date of my quitting the Bench."

The Hon'ble Justice SIR C V KUMARASWAMI SASTRIAR, Kt, Says

I have been a subscriber to the Madras Law Weekly from the time when it was started in 1914 and have always found that the journal maintained a high standard of efficiency. No case of any importance has failed to find a place in the reports. The reporting has been prompt and the head notes clear. The articles and notes on legal and other topics have been always interesting.

I wish the learned editor and proprietor Mr V C Seshachariar every success and hope the Law Weekly will find a place in the library of every Court and lawyer."

We have for sale medicines like Makaradhwaja prepared in accordance with the recipes found in ancient books that date back to the time of the Vedas. PREFACE.

This is the 127th Edition of the Asylum Press Almanack & Directory

We desire to express our thanks to the Government and the Public for the increasing support accorded to us, which has made it possible for us to embody in this issue several new features

Special efforts have continued to be made to incorporate all the very latest information—the several sections in the book having been developed and improved—and we have done our best to make the book as perfect as can be done

To facilitate easy Reference, the Index has been printed in Colour Paper The Alphabetical List of Trades in Calcutta, Bombay, Dacca and Rangoon will be found just before the Index.

To maintain its accuracy and completeness, we will be glad to receive information of any error or omission which may be discovered, as well as suggestions for any alterations or additions to be made in the different Sections of the Almanack & Directory.

THERMOMETER

There are three kinds of thermometers, Fahrenheit, Reaumur and Centigrade. The scales of their comparison are noted below.

Freezing Point:—32°F = 0°C = 0°R.

Boiling Point:—212°F = 100°C = 80°R.

To convert one kind into another, use one of the following formulae

Let F represent Fahrenheit, C Centigrade and R Reaumur

$$\text{Then } F = \frac{9C}{5} + 32 = \frac{9R}{4} + 32 \quad C = \frac{5(F-32)}{9} \quad R = \frac{4(F-32)}{9} = \frac{4}{5}C$$

PHENOMENA.

Mercury —Is one of the inferior planets having its orbit nearer the Sun than that of the Earth. It is the smallest in size but swiftest in motion. It has a brilliant white light. It goes round the Sun in about 88 days. It assumes all the phases of the Moon during its revolution round the Sun. When in superior conjunction it appears perfectly round but very small not more than 5" in diameter but when near inferior conjunction it presents like a slender but brilliant crescent of not more than 18" in diameter. In superior conjunction with the Sun on 9th January, 3rd May, 16th August and 18th December; and inferior conjunction on 24th February, 29th June and 24th October, at Greatest Elongation (East) 9th February, 3rd June and 28th September; at Greatest Elongation (West) 22nd March, 21st July and 9th November. Stationary on 16th February, 7th March, 16th June, 10th July, 12th October, and 1st November. It is in North Declination from 14th April to 6th September and in the South Declination during the other portions of the year.

Venus —Another inferior planet next in rank to Mercury. It has a very pleasant silvery light, which at times surpasses the Moon. During its greatest brilliancy it is visible to the naked eye during the day. In about 224 days it revolves round the Sun during which period it assumes all the phases of the Moon. In about 8 years it forms conjunctions with the Sun in the same part of the heavens. It is in superior conjunction on 1st July and in North Declination from 14th April to 6th September and in South Declination during the other periods of the year.

Mars —An ancient superior planet next to the Earth in order of distance from the Sun. In about 686 days it goes round the Sun. It rotates on its axis in about 24 hours 37 minutes. When in opposition to the Sun it comes within 47 millions of miles from the Sun and rising about the time of sunset it surpasses us by its splendour and magnitude. It has a deep red colour and fiery aspect. It has two satellites which revolve about it in 7½ and 80½ hours roughly. The appearance which the inner satellite would present if seen from Mars is interesting. As it revolves much faster than the primary it would be seen to rise in the West and set in the East twice during the night. The outer Moon would appear to revolve slowly in the opposite direction from East to West. The inner is eclipsed often at opposition and would appear to tan it the Sun's disc often at conjunction. It is stationary on 12th November and in opposition to the Sun on 21st December. It is in South Declination from January to 21st May and in North Declination afterwards to the end of the year.

Jupiter —Another superior planet distinguished for its great magnitude. It revolves round the Sun in about 11½ years. It has round it a number of belts which are very interesting for examination. It has nine satellites which not only eclipse each other but are also eclipsed by the primary. With the exception of the 8th and 9th all the other satellites keep usual direction in going round their primary. It is stationary on 30th August and 30th December and in opposition to the Sun on 22nd October. It is in South Declination from the beginning of the year to 6th February and in the North Declination during the rest of the year.

Saturn —This is next in size to Jupiter. It goes round the Sun in about 29½ years. It has belts on its surface and is attended by nine satellites. It has wonderful rings which when viewed with powerful telescopes are found to consist of two concentric rings separated from each other by a dash space. These rings will be best seen at the time of opposition. It will regain its place in about 27½ days. The 9th satellite has a retrograde motion and this seems to be the rule for very distant satellites. It is stationary on 28th March and 17th August and in opposition on 6th June and in conjunction with the Sun on 18th December. It is in South Declination throughout the year.

Uranus —A superior planet discovered by Sir William Herschel in 1781. It is attended by four satellites at least and these possess the remarkable peculiarity of revolving in a plane nearly perpendicular to the ecliptic and in a retrograde direction. It revolves round its orbit in about 84 years. It is in conjunction with the Sun on 24th March, stationary on 18th July and 14th December, and in opposition to the Sun on 28th September. It is in North Declination from 21st February to the end of the year and in South Declination at other periods.

Neptune —A superior planet most distant from the Sun. It revolves in its orbit in about 165 years. The discovery of this planet is remarkable. It has only one satellite moving in a retrograde direction in a plane inclined to the ecliptic. It is in opposition to the Sun on 17th February, stationary on 4th December and in conjunction with the Sun on 22nd August. It is in North Declination throughout the year.

Minor planets —The supposition that a great number of planets lie between Mars and Jupiter, led some astronomers to find out the truth. There are over 1000 such planets discovered lying between Mars and Jupiter. The period times of revolution of these planets vary considerably but their average is about 16.6 days.

GENERAL GARDENING CALENDAR FOR INDIA

By H. E. HOGGARTH, F.R.S., &c.

General Gardening Calendars are given for the Plains and Hills so that they may be universally useful to the general body of Amateur Gardeners who live in the vast Indian Empire.

The great diversity of climates makes it impossible, in the limited space available, to give full details as to the exact time of sowing etc., but as the native Mahis know the proper time for sowing seeds in their own towns, or districts, the information given in the Calendars and in the Cultural Notes for growing vegetables and flowers, will enable Amateurs to instruct their Mahis what garden ing operations they ought to undertake from month to month, according to the nature of the weather. The times mentioned in the Calendar, I think, are generally suitable.

THE PLAINS.

KITCHEN GARDENS

January—This month belongs to the cold season and little or no rain falls; if it falls, the soil coverage is about 3 inches, but dews are abundant.

In places where there is a heavier rainfall or when the weather is otherwise favourable, a last but little of European vegetables should be made of the kinds that mature early, such as Beans, Cress seeds, (Peas, Mustard, Radishes, Tomatoes, Turnips, Vegetable Marrow and even Fennel. Where there is perfection of the rain or the season is unfavourable, it will be a waste of time and labour to sow Vegetable seeds.

In most consequence of the weather becoming too warm before they mature) they will not attain any direct rays, or be worth sowing.

Equal places careful watering will have to be done, but it should not be done while the sun's rays are on the plants the early morning, or the evening is the best time for watering.

Weak plants should be liberally watered Celery should be earthed up for blanching.

Round the liquid manure should be applied once, or twice a week to growing crops and the ground.

Sow and kept constantly hoed and weeds eradicated.

Fig trees country vegetables that may be required.

looked after and Grape Vines should be pruned and Goutard Apples, Pomegranates and Plantains.

Collect and transfer all waste vegetable matter to the leaf manure pit.

February—This is the last of the cold weather months, towards the end it gradually warms up.

There is no rain but a fair amount of dew in the mornings, but little can be done with European vegetables.

Lettuces, liquid manure. All crops in the ground that are maturing should be freely watered.

Mustard Cress Country Radishes, Cucumber and Gourds can be made. Sowings of Vegetable Marrow to growing crops will be of benefit. Destroy insects Sow Parsley in pots for hot left decayed supply it also makes a fine foliage plant. Keep the garden clear of decayed leaves may be required during this month, especially the cabbage tribe give out a most disagreeable odour if collecting See that arrangements are made to keep up a supply of such Country vegetables as

March—required Watering will invariably be requisite throughout the month commence the morning manure for the next season.

European—It is the first of the hot weather months, no rain falls and there is but little dew in vegetables. Watering must be done carefully and freely.

Sweet Potatoes European vegetables can no longer be grown with satisfaction, the cultivation of such native grown and as may be required should be attended to. Bottle and Snake Gourds, Cucumber, Squashes, Herb potatoes (American kinds for preference), Spinach, Tomatoes, Goe, or Double Beans may be Beet and Parsley in pots in a shady place.

Heavy crops will be ready for cutting and drying.

Carrots and Onions should be lifted and stored in pots of dry sand.

soil. vacant spaces in the garden should now be dug and thrown up in ridges (this is applicable to soils) so as to expose the soil to the influence of the sun during the hot weather. Where the is light, let it be dug over level; collect manure without delay if composed of heating materials.

will require to be watered and turned over frequently; be sure this matter is not overlooked.

discourage Fig trees to go to rest by watering sparingly, attend to watering lately planted Mango trees, support the stems securely against high winds. Store Yams in sand or dry oil.

April—In this month a little rain sometimes falls and the dew in the mornings gradually disappears. The crops of European vegetables will have come to an end and only Country vegetables can be grown Cucumbers, Gourds, Squashes and Melons may be sown and protected from the sun until established, and then watered freely. Yams and Jerusalem Artichokes may be put down to grow. Peas, which will be in fruit, must be carefully attended to.

If any digging work remains unfinished complete without further delay, attend to general cleaning up.

Collect leaves for the leaf manure pit.

May—Although a few light showers may fall, at stations that get the October to December monsoon, European vegetables cannot be grown, so continue to grow Country vegetables.

Arrowroot, Taro and sweet Potatoes may be planted; continue to attend to Pineapples.

KITCHEN GARDENS—(Contd.).

Dig over waste places, to make water channels and roads, and repair buildings and working implements. Water carefully and liberally. Prepare manure.

At the stations where the rain begins at the end of this month or about the June to September monsoon, if there are indications of early setting in of rains, get ready to sow Cabbage, Knolkhol, Onions, Peas, French Beans, Carrots, Lettuce, Tomatoes, Mince and Peas.

June.—At non-monsoon places, although rain may fall, this is the midsummer month, except acclimatised Maize and Country vegetables, nothing else can be sown.

Work indicated last month, remaining unfinished should be completed. Make sure that the supply of manure is sufficient and in a condition to be used next month, if necessary.

At south-west monsoon stations, during the fine weather that succeeds the first burst of the monsoon, any kind of European vegetables can be sown, and successive sowings can go on until November.

Plant out such seedlings as were raised last month. Plant the crowns of Pineapples.

Look out for noxious insects that attack all kinds of the Cabbage tribe, Cauliflower, Knolkhol, Turnip, etc.

July.—In consequence of the June to September monsoon some rain may fall at the non monsoon places, but no attempt to sow vegetable seeds should be made, everything should be in preparation for sowing in August, if the weather is at all favourable.

If frequent light showers fall towards the end of the month, Celery and Parsley may be sown.

The manure heap should be in fit condition for immediate use.

At south-west monsoon stations, Cabbages, &c. sown last month will now be infested with greenfly which should be destroyed; attend to weeding and hoeing soil round growing crops. Make successive sowings of European vegetables.

August.—If the weather has cooled down by the rain that has fallen last month, and what falls during the month, let a first sowing be made in boxes, or pots, of European vegetables. Sow Celery, Parsley, French Beans, Carrots and Radishes and a first sowing of Peas at the end of the month. Of Country vegetables sow Brinjals, Gourds, Cucumbers, Khesels, Greens, Spinach, Beans, Okhills, Snake Gourds, &c., plant Yams and Jerusalem Artichokes. Attend to top-dressing Asparagus beds, make a fresh bed of Water-cresses in a shady spot near a well or tank, where they can be easily supplied with water twice a day. Put in suckers of Pineapples, prepare stock of Mangoes for grafting. Let the garden soil be levelled, well-manured and dug over; make sure the manure is well looked after and mixed with lime and ashes before using.

September.—As the north west monsoon is due next month, this is the proper time to sow a succession of Peas. French beans and Spinach may be put in every week during the month, continue to sow vegetables of all kinds; Onions and Leeks in light rich soil in beds, protected from the rain by mats tied over movable bamboo frame-work. Attend to the seedlings raised last month; some of which will be ready for transplanting. Knolkhol and Cabbage, if any were sown early in July will be ready for final transplanting in the garden beds, in rows. Let them be lifted carefully; disturb the roots as little as possible. Encourage the growth of Celery by slight waterings of liquid manure, look after insects, a slight sprinkling of lime over and under the leaves will arrest their ravages; if this is not used, let them be picked by hand every morning. Lime will in nowise injure the tenderest vegetation if slaked and cool. Native vegetables sown at the beginning of last month will be fit for planting out. Commence to graft mangoes make preparations such as digging trenches, &c. to prevent the garden being flooded during the monsoon, which should commence about 15th October. Manure Pineapples, remove the suckers and put them into root.

At south-west monsoon stations continue to sow Cauliflower, Cabbage Turnip and Knolkhol for main crop, if this was not done last month.

October.—Transplant all vegetables that are large enough into the beds, or drills where they are to grow. Trenches should be ready to receive Celery plants, shade if the weather is clear; look after Tomatoes, Onions, Leeks, Carrots and Beetroot let them be thinned out to proper distances from each other the thinnings may be planted if required. Continue to sow a few varieties of vegetable seeds. Peas may be sown every week. Let the drills in which they are sown be raised above the surface level; continue to sow a succession of French beans. Keep up a supply of Salads, such as Lettuce, Endive, Mustard, Water-cress, &c. Finish early in the month preparations for planting out vegetables; do not wait till wanted, as the soil may not be workable from rain. Let everything about the garden be neat and clean, eradicate weeds on their first appearance. If the weather during the month should prove dry, Peas and the Cabbage tribe will suffer much. A supply of water will be requisite to prevent the crops sustaining a check which would prove very detrimental. When water is applied, let it be in the morning very early if possible, when it is cool; frequent hoeing up the soil amongst the crops will require to be looked to. If activity is not displayed during the early part of this month in forwarding operations, there is but little chance of success for the season. Take particular care that the crops are not planted on the same place of ground they were grown last year; alternate them yearly if possible. Graft Mangoes and plant Pineapples.

At south-west monsoon stations, continue sowings similar to last month, also sow Cucumber and Parsley.

November.—Attend to transplanting seedlings. Peas and French beans may be sown, every week, or ten days; the main crop must be looked for from seeds sown this month, as Peas sown later may not be good. Sow a small quantity of Cabbage, Knol-khol, Cauli-flowers, Tomatoes, &c., likewise a few Salads. Cauli-flowers sown during the first week of the month, if well attended to, may flower during February. Attend to transplanting Onions and Leeks. Thin out Turnips and Carrots to proper distances from each other.

Plant Celery in trenches; look after all details such as cleanliness, digging trenches to carry off the heavy run water; put in cuttings of Cabbage sprouts for use during the hot season. Graft Man goes put in cuttings of Figs and Vines. Plant Onion for salad.

At south-west monsoon stations, sowings of imported vegetables may be put in for a late crop. Plant out seedlings of previous months' sowings.

December—Continue to plant out all vegetables on hand during the first week. Plant Celery in trenches and earth up such as may require it. Keep the soil amongst the growing crops hoed, and eradicate weeds on their first appearance. Blanch Lettuce and Endive by tying up the leaves. Thin out the branches of Tomatoes. Look after insects amongst Cabbage and Cauli flower. Use slaked lime freely on all crops attacked; it will prove a beneficial check. During the month sow Cucumbers, Vegetable-marrow, Country vegetables, &c. Early planted vegetables will be fit for use towards the end of the month. French beans and Salads should be in abundance. Attend to staking of Peas, Beans &c. Continue to make up a manure heap for the coming season; let nothing be lost in the shape of vegetable matter. The main work of this month is attention to growing crops and looking to early grafted Mangoes; make incisions gradually on the branches above the grafts.

At south west monsoon stations attention should be given to growing crops, thinning out crops to give them more space to grow in. Earth up Celery plants and give water freely if days are clear.

FLOWER GARDENS

January—The flower garden should be gay with flowers grown from the seeds of European annuals sown after the rains. Final sowings of the most hardy of these annuals should be made to supply out flowers late in the season, Browallias, Cosmos, Gaillardias, Sanflowers, Balsams, Tagetes, Torenias, Zinnias (of which there are several improved kinds) and similar annuals, will grow during the hot weather months.

Carnations, Geraniums, Salvias and similar plants will strike readily if cuttings are put in. The following should be pruned—Allamandas, Hibiscus, Loraea, Bigonias, Lagerstrœmias, Quisqualis, Tecomas, &c. The other garden operations consist in keeping everything clean and in perfect order using the knife amongst the shrubs where required. Attend to the young shoots of creepers so that they may be properly trained, cut back all plants that may have grown over the edges of the beds, or walks; this should be done neatly, so that the use of the knife may not be discovered, nothing looks worse than plants abruptly cut round the edge of flower beds. Such cuttings of shrubs and roses as have rooted, should be planted out in beds and well watered and shaded for a few days. Attend to plants in pots; Roses in flower bud will be improved by frequent watering with liquid manure, it will increase the size of the flowers. Shade tender plants from the mid-day sun. Attend to clipping hedges, keeping the walks in proper trim and mow and roll the lawns.

February—The directions for January are also suitable for this month; little more can be done than attending to watering and cleanliness. Protect tender plants in pots from the mid-day sun. During the course of the month remove and put in pots a good supply of Verbenas and such like, to preserve them during the hot season. Chrysanthemums will have finished flowering, let them rest, or divide them and plant them in a bed or in small pots.

Several orchids flower in this month; see that the syringe is used with care. Attend to plants in pots frequently stirring up the soil on the surface. If worms are troublesome, a little clear lime water used occasionally will remove them; keep walks in proper order, mow and roll the lawns.

March—Pay attention to cleanliness, watering shrubs, Roses, &c., freely such beds as are empty should be neatly dug over; look to the roots of Dahlias, let them be stored in pots of sand, or in the pots they were grown in if the soil is dry. In any case they must be kept dry. Amaryllis, Lilies, Gloriosa, Aeschines, Caladiums and all bulbs that have flowered require the same treatment; plants growing in pots should be placed, if possible, so that they may receive the morning sun but be shaded during the mid-day.

Prune shrubs that have flowered do any repotting that may be required. The lawn grass will have stopped growing in the absence of heavy dew; mow and roll the lawns if necessary.

April—Aeschines and late kinds of Amaryllis also some Orchids flower this month; store away any bulbs that have died down, examine bulbs already put to rest to see they are not damaged by vermin. Cease to excite Roses to flower. Clean up garden generally.

Water liberally ornamented plants and shrubs in the ground. If you are watering your lawn, use mower and roller, or the grass will grow long and will have to be cut by hand. See that your manure supply for the next season is sufficient.

May—Where the monsoon is not expected, hot winds prevail, and nothing can be done by amateurs. Order flower pots and have old empty pots well washed; prepare compost for pot plants.

Repair plant houses, trellis work, and see that the lawn mower, garden pumps, watering cans, &c., are serviceable.

Where the monsoon is expected at the end of this month or beginning of next, annuals such as Kollyhocks, Balsams, Browallias, Gaillardias, Cosmos, Zinnias, &c., may be sown, and if temperature falls, sow other half-hardy annuals. Be prepared to re-pot bulbous plants as they commence growth, prune and manure Roses, watch Orchids and syringe them after they begin to grow, until the monsoon rains fall.

June.—At non-monsoon stations, pits for planting trees and shrubs may be dug, low places in the lawns levelled up, and any of the unfinished operations commenced last month completed.

At south-west monsoon stations rain having fallen, sowings of half hardy annuals may be made, except Pansy and the better kinds of Petunias. If seedlings, from seed sown last month are strong enough, transplant them.

Make cuttings of Roses and shrubs and plant them for striking

Weed your lawns and move the grass, roll lawns and roadways and keep them clear of weeds.

July.—At non monsoon stations, if the weather is still too hot, little can be done during the month further than preparing for the ensuing seed time, let composts be in a perfect state for use before the end of the month. Take care not to be carried into too active operations by good showers of rain but Hollyhocks, Brownella Calliopsis Cosmas Galliardias, Sunflowers, Tagetes, Torenias and Zinnias may survive the heat. At south west monsoon stations make up grass edgings with turf. Do not prune Roses unless they show signs of growth, this can be easily discovered by the swelling and bursting of the buds; if they show signs, prune and manure, though washing till the following month would be more judicious. Look to the roots of Dahlias Glorinas and Achimenes that may have commenced to grow; retard them as much as possible, but bring them to the light; as Dahlias are very impatient their roots should be divided towards the end of the month into as many divisions as possible with a sharp knife; they should have one shoot upon each division.

Seedlings of annuals transplanted last month will now be ready to go into their flowering pots, or into beds that will not be waterlogged. Transplant Chrysanthemums into their flowering pots, continue to sow seeds of such annuals as you require to keep the beds and the demand for cut flowers going.

Weed the garden thoroughly and attend to cleaning generally. Weed, mow, and roll the lawns, bury all weeds in a pit, they will make good manure for the following season.

August.—At south west monsoon stations look after growing crops, hoe and weed daily, continue to sow vegetables put in seed for main crop.

Sow seeds of those flowers that are most suitable for the climate; be careful how small seeds are sown and watered, look to the roots of Dahlias, Glorinas &c they should be set agrowing in good soil. If no plan has been definitely fixed upon to secure a good supply of flowers now is the time to look to it; there is no time to spare; propagate Verbena by layers, sow Hollyhocks, Petunias, Balsams, Celosia Gomphrena-Margold, Ipomoea Sunflower Torenias, and Zinnias, increase your stock of Chrysanthemums and Cannas by division or fresh supplies. Let the flower garden be well dug and manured; dig and manure round the roots of shrubs on lawns, &c. Let a shaded place of ground be prepared in which to put cuttings of Roses shrubs &c. Pits should not be less than 8 feet in diameter and depth. Too much care cannot be taken of seedlings, lest they get drawn during the dull days that may prevail; expose them to the light and air as much as possible. Top-dress all plants in pots, not intended to be re-potted with fresh soil and manure; re-pot and top-dress Roses in pots. Prune and manure garden Roses and put in cuttings, weed and use lawn mower if necessary. Water carefully on dry, clear days.

At south west monsoon stations continue to make successional sowings. Give plants that are making rapid growth weak liquid manure re-plant edgings and slip such edgings as require it. Put in cuttings of Orotons, &c. Attend to cleaning, as directed last month.

September.—Hollyhock, &c. sown last month should during this be fit for planting out choosing a dull & damp day. Continue to sow Balsams Hollyhocks and all showy annuals. Attend to cleanliness and keep the soil in flower beds open by hoeing. Layer bud and put in cuttings of Roses and such shrubs, trees and creepers as may be required. Sow seeds of trees and shrubs put in pipings of Carnations in boxes filled with moss and mixed with a little red earth. Let all creepers be neatly tied to the posts or trellises upon which they are trained, prune where required; prune and keep in proper form shrubs, &c. attend to cutting hedges and filling up gaps. Casuarina hedges neatly trimmed would look much nicer round flower gardens than unsightly bamboo trellises, it is astonishing they are not more generally planted, as they combine neatness with economy, and are easily raised, if the seed is not too deeply covered with soil. Use the lawn mower and roller over the lawns.

At south west monsoon stations, transplant Roses and other shrubs that have finished their rainy season growth.

Small sowings of imported annuals should be made. Cleaning up as indicated above should be undertaken.

October.—The operations of last month are applicable to this. Look after Dahlias in pot, stake them and water occasionally with liquid manure. Plant out Verbena Heliotropes and all other budding plants. Keep up a supply of Balsam Cockscumbe, &c. Plant trees and shrubs, attending to training and pruning creepers. This is a good time to get Roses, Fuchsias, Violets, &c., from the hills. Weed, mow and roll the lawns, and take advantage of dry days to grass it; straighten and trim the edges of walks and beds. Give everything a neat and clean appearance. Protect all newly planted trees from the wind.

FLOWER GARDENS—(Contd.)

At south-west monsoon stations, the budding of Roses and re-potting of plants should be done, continue to sow seeds as directed last month and keep garden neat and clean. Put in cuttings.

November—Continue to transplant seedlings into pots or boxes. Plant out annuals Verbena, Hollyhocks, Phloxes, and Ipomoea, if strong enough. Sow any flower seeds remaining on hand. Sow seeds of trees and shrubs. Decide early in the month positions for ornamental creepers and plant without delay. Attend to training creepers and pruning where required. Prune and manure garden Roses and put in cuttings. In pruning cut the old branches down to three or four eyes from the bottom. Top-dress all plants in pots not requiring re-potting; protect tender plants from heavy rain; activity is required during this month to obtain a good supply of flowers during the three following months. The finer varieties of roses in pots should be re-potted if necessary; they require a heavy soil mixed with well-decayed horse manure. Support all plants requiring it from the high winds.

At south west monsoon stations, all seedlings large enough should be transplanted and transplanted seedlings should go into the beds, or pots in which they are to bloom, such as are making vigorous growth in beds and pots should be given liquid manure once in a week or 10 days.

December—Plant out the remaining stock of annuals; sow a few Hollyhocks, Gaillardias, Dianas, Torenia, Amaranths, &c. A last sowing of Balsams may be put in. Sow Convolvulus of kinds and Petunias for flowering during the hot months. Attend to labials and encourage them by weekly waterings of liquid manure. Keep the flower beds and walks clean and neat. Water and eq the walks towards the latter part of the month; it will give them a neat appearance, at the same time they will be more comfortable to walk upon, use lawn mower and roller on lawns.

At south-west monsoon stations, attend to growing annuals and budded Roses; sow last lot of pot annuals and exote flowering plants to make rapid growth, so as to get them in flower before the cold season.

January—If the weather is favourable sowings of Cauliflower, Broccoli, Lettuce, Parsley, Spinach, Mustard and Cress may be made but must be well protected; in some stations the use of glass is used for the early crops, or a glass frame with bottom heat. Where the ground is covered with nothing can be done.

February—Small sowings, by preference in glass frames, or in the verandah, may be made of Beetroot, Carrots, Cabbage, Cauliflower, Cress, Turnips, Parsnips, Kewhole and Onions; if not sown last month if sown earth up and protect with top dressing of litter.

March—All kinds of European vegetable seeds should be sown now, but the beds must be prepared and transplant seedling sown during the past two months.

April—Continue to sow Vegetable seeds and transplant seedlings raised previously; sow Celery and other out in beds any seedlings that are strong enough. Plant main crop of Potatoes, give weak plants liquid manure to growing crops.

May—Make successive sowings of all seeds of European vegetables including Mais, attend to growing crops and keep soil round vegetables well hoed and free from weeds and insects. Make a new bed of Asparagus, propagate Rhubarb.

June—For a late crop, Peas and Beans may be sown. To keep up a supply of Cabbages, Cauliflower, etc., plant seedlings out once in eight or ten days and Cress and Mustard once in four, or five days. Water all growing vegetables freely and hoe and weed the beds. Wood Asparagus beds.

July—Small sowings of Cabbages, Cauliflower, Carrots, Lettuce, Dwarf Runner Beans, Endive and Turnips should be made. Take out Herbs and dry for use in Winter. Hoe the Asparagus beds, thin out Celery and Beet, stake Beans. Give growing crops drenchings of liquid manure.

August—If weather is favourable small sowings of Peas, Dwarf Beans, Cabbage, Cauliflower and Lettuce may be made. Onions should be taken up and Celery earthed up.

September—A sowing of some well known early Peas should be put down. In order to keep up a continuous supply of vegetables, sow all kinds once in eight or ten days. Cress and Mustard once in four or five days. Broccoli to go through the Winter may be sown now, earth up Celery.

October—Sow main crop varieties of Peas towards end of this month; sow Cabbages, Cauliflowers and Brussels Sprouts; if weather permits sow Cress, Mustard and Radish, earth up Celery, take up Potatoes, Parsnips, Turnips and Carrots and store them.

November—Put in a sowing of a late variety of Peas, Brussels Sprouts, Cabbage, Cauliflower, etc.

Top dress with well-rotted manure, Asparagus, Artichokes, Seakale, Rhubarb, etc. All leaves should be put into the last mould pit.

December—During this month all plants should be protected with straw, or grass, and water given very sparingly.

FLOWER GARDEN

January.—Cuttings raised last month should be now ready to be transplanted, or potted off; they should be protected and the watering done sparingly. If the weather is favourable, hardy bulbs, such as Gladioli Tulips, Snowdrops, Anemones, Crocuses, Hyacinths Ranunculi, Primulas, Cinerarias, Petunias, &c., may be planted and successive sowings of annuals may be made; seeds of germinaceous plants, may also be sown. Sow Sweet Peas at the end of the month. The roots of shrubs should be protected with straw leaves, or any rubbish. If the ground is covered with snow, all plants needing it should be sheltered in a house.

February.—Sow Antirrhinums, Asters, Cinerarias, Stocks, Calceolarias, Daisies, Phlox Potanias, Fancies, Primulas and Mimulus in pans in a sheltered portion of the verandah. Pot on plants that are fit to transplant, also layers of Carnations if it has ceased snowing; this is the best time for this work. Re-pot Roses, Geraniums, Camellias and pottedes, Pelargoniums and Fuchsias; put in cuttings of Chrysanthemums.

March.—All kinds of "hardy annuals" can be sown this month, seedlings raised in the past two months may be transplanted. Prune Roses and water all plants freely.

April.—Attend to the watering of growing annuals in pots, transplant seedlings, sow seeds of "half hardy" annuals and continue to sow seeds of "hardy" and "half hardy" annuals to end of May. Plant out Dahlias, and bud Roses. Pot off Gloxinias and Begonias.

May.—Plant out annuals ready to go into beds or into the pots in which they are to bloom. Sow seeds of annuals for autumn flowers. Stake Hollyhocks and other plants. Plant out Dahlias and put Chrysanthemums into the pots in which they are to flower.

June.—Such annuals as Balsams, Marigolds, Torennias, Fimias, &c. should be sown in amidst pation of the rains. Carnations and Rose cuttings may be put in and shaded on clear days.

July.—Put down cuttings of Roses, Geraniums, Fuchsias, and layer Carnations; a small sowing of annuals for flowers in September may be made. Geraniums and Chrysanthemums will be growing freely and should not be over watered, or manured, but Dahlias may be given liquid manure. See to weeds lawn grass and pathways.

August.—Sow seeds of Stocks, Petunias, Mimulus, &c. divide and pot off Lilies. If Chrysanthemums are in bud feed with liquid manure. re-pot Geraniums that have finished flowering. Radiate weeds, keep walks in order and mow lawns. If you do not put down cuttings of Geraniums and Fuchsias this month, they may not root early enough and be overtaken by Winter.

September.—Sow seeds of Dianthus, Petunias, Phlox, Sweet Peas, &c. Re-pot any Lilies that may require dividing, or re-potting plant the bulbs low in the pots, so that they may make strong roots to support their long stems and flowers. Sow Pinks, Pelargoniums, Primulas, Zonal Geraniums, Cinerarias and Calceolarias, so as to get strong plants before Winter. Chrysanthemum buds should be pinched off, if large flowers are wanted and liquid manure given.

October.—If the Hill station is below 4 000 feet, hardy annual seeds may be sown. Sow Pansies and Sweet Peas, most of the imported bulbs and roots can be put down. Pot Hyacinths in 7 inch pot, and place in a dark room. When the pots are filled with roots and the crowns show signs of growing, remove them into a warm place in the house. Allow Achemines to dry off gradually. Take up Dahlias carefully and store in a dry place attend to removal of lateral shoots of Chrysanthemums. Pot off Geraniums from beds. From this month until Spring most plants should be sparingly watered.

November.—All delicate plants and shrubs should be protected. Pansies and rooted Geraniums should be potted off. Dahlias not to be lifted should be top dressed and Begonias allowed to go to root. Be careful about watering.

December.—Plants that do not flower during this month should be very sparingly watered. All delicate plants should be kept in a warm place in a glazed verandah and not put out until after the end of March. Cuttings of Verbenas and Petunias may be rooted and potted.

SHIP'S TONNAGE

Is described as "Gross" and "Register," Gross Tonnage (does not include the entire space available on a ship—for from this measurement all spaces above deck, solely appropriated to the ship's machinery, deck house cabins, deck shelters, the galleys, wheel and chart houses, cable tiers, sail, carpenter's and boatwain's stores and a few minor spaces, are excluded. Register Tonnage excludes in addition to the above crew space Masters, Officers and Engineers accommodation, etc. and in the case of steamers, 25 percent. of the whole is also deducted for engine room allowance. In steamers, the difference between gross and register tonnage is often very great, the "Oceanic," for example, has a gross tonnage of more than 17 000 tons, while her register tonnage is only a little over 7 000. A "displacement ton" is 35 c ft.

France, Belgium, Italy, Greece and Switzerland constitute the "Latin" Union, and their coins are alike in weight and fineness, occasionally differing in name. The same system has been adopted by Spain, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania and Roumania, but they have not joined the Union. France and countries of France, Belgium and Switzerland are respectively designated liras and centesimi in Italy; drahms and lepta in Greece; dinars and paras in Serbia; pesetas and centimos in Spain; leva and bans in Roumania; leva and stotaks in Bulgaria.

The Scandinavian countries Norway, Sweden and Denmark, all employ coins of the same weight and fineness, their names being also alike. Most of the South American States possess a standard coin, equal in weight and fineness to the silver 5 fr piece generally termed a "peso" in Hayti the corresponding coin is a "goude."

In most of the British Colonies British money is current. The currency of Ceylon, Mauritius and the East African Protectorate is however based on the rupee of British India; that of the Straits Settlements is on a dollar basis. Canada and British Honduras coins are on the basis of the United States gold dollar. A British dollar, identical in weight and fineness with the Japanese "yen" is legal tender in the Straits Settlements, Hongkong, Sakawak, British North Borneo and Labuan.

The exchange value of the monies of many countries is determined by the rate of exchange for the day. The rate given in the exchange, notes of the newspapers generally represent the number of standard coins that are equivalent to one sovereign. The Spanish rate is given in terms of pence per dollar ("à franc"), the Russian in pence per rouble, Portuguese in pence per milreis and the United States rate in pence per dollar.

The exchange value of the Indian rupee depends on the rate for "India Consolidated" set by an Act of 1882, the British sovereign was made legal tender and equivalent to 1½ rupees, the rupee being then valued at 1s. 4d.

In "bi-metallic" countries pure gold is generally taken as being worth 156 times its weight of pure silver. This proportion corresponds to giving standard silver a constant value of 50½d. per oz.

BRITISH WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

Comparison.—An Act of King Edgar decreed that there should be but one Standard Measure, that of Winchester; and by the 27th section of Magna Charta, there was to be one weight for all England. Nevertheless, numerous customary weights and measures have continued in use—custom was stronger than law, especially with regard to land, tithes and wool. In 1394, however, an Act was passed rendering uniformly compulsory from the 1st of January 1395, since which time, the Imperial Metric System of Weights and Measures has been in general use although some remains of the older form still linger.

Avoirdupois Weight.

Dram .. $dr = 27\frac{1}{2}$ grains (37.4473).
Ounce .. $oz = 16$ drachms, 437.5 grains.
Pound .. $lb = 16$ oz, 256 dr , 7,000 grains.
Customary Stone of Butcher's Meat—6lb.
Legal Stone, &c.—Horseman's weight—14lb.
Quarter .. $qr = 25$ lb.
Cental or Quinteral, cont. = 100 lb.
Ton .. $T = 20$ cwt, 2,240 lb.

Avoirdupois weight is used in almost all commercial transactions and common dealings, but in addition to the above, there are special weights for various articles, the chief of which are—

A Quarter Loaf .. = 4 lb.
A Peck of Flour, 8 Gallons .. = 14 "
A Firkin of Butter .. = 56 "
A Firkin of Soft Soap .. = 64 "
A Box of Fish, about .. = 90 "
A Barrel of Gunpowder .. = 100 "
A Barrel of Potatoes .. = 112 "
A Sack of Glass, 24 stones of 5 lb. = 120 "
A Barrel of Butter—4 Firkins .. = 224 "
A Barrel (or pack) of Soft Soap .. = 224 "
A Faggot of Wood .. = 120 "
A Pig of Bacon .. = 85 "
A Fodder of Lead, London & Hull—194 cwt.
A Fodder of Derby—224 cwt.; New castle = 214 "
A Cask of Blacklead .. = 114 "
A Sack—Flour, 280 lb.; Coals, 224 lb., ton of Coals, 10 sacks.

Troy Weight.

Grain .. $gr = 17$ grains.
Pennyweight .. $dwt = 24$ grains.
Ounce .. $oz = 20$ dwt, 480 gr .
Pound .. $lb = 12$ oz, 240 dwt, 5,760 gr .
Hundredweight, cont. = 100 lb.

Troy is the weight used by goldsmith and jewellers. The grains Troy, Apothecaries' and Avoirdupois are equal, and the same in England, France, the United States, Holland, and in most other countries; but the ounce varies: in France it is 4.8 grains, in Holland 5.4 gr , and in the U.S. 5.2 gr . In the U.K. the Jewellery ounce is divided into 160 grains or 600 penny grains.

The oz Troy and Apothecaries' = 1.09714 oz avoirdupois; but the lb. Troy and lb. Apothecaries' = 1.09714 lb. avoirdupois; while 175 lb. Troy and Apothecaries' = 164 lb. avoirdupois.

Apothecaries' Weight.

Scruple .. $\mathfrak{s} = 20$ Grains = 20 gr .
Dram .. $\mathfrak{d} = 3$ Scruples .. = 60 "
Ounce .. $\mathfrak{z} = 8$ Drachms .. = 48 "
Pound .. $\mathfrak{lb} = 12$ Ounces .. = 5,760 "

The avoirdupois oz of 437½ grains, and the lb. of 7,000 grains, are the weights named in the British Pharmacopoeia; drugs are purchased by avoirdupois, but compounded by Apothecaries' weight. The Apothecaries' oz and lb. may now be considered obsolete.

Apothecaries' Fluid Measure.

60 Minims ss (drops) = 1 Fluid Dram $f\mathfrak{z}$ Marked.
8 Drachms = 1 Ounce $f\mathfrak{z}$
16 Ounces = 1 Pint \mathfrak{p}
8 Pints = 1 Gallon C , or Cong.

1 Drachm = 1 Teaspoonful. 8 Drachms = 1 Dessert-spoonful. 2 Drachms = 1 Table-spoonful. 2 Ounces = 1 Wineglassful. 3 Ounces = 1 Tumblerful.

Prescribing medicines by the spoon, glass or tumbler is unsafe, as all these vessels vary in size. Graduated glass measures may be purchased for a few annas.

Hay and Straw

Truss of Straw 86 lb. Truss of Old Hay, 66 lb.
Truss of New Hay (to September 1st), 60 lb.
Load 36 Trusses—Straw 11 cwt. 2 qr 8 lb. Old
Hay 18 cwt. New Hay, 19 cwt. qr 4 lb.

Wool

Clive .. $cl = 7$ lb.
Stone .. $st = 2$ Clives 14 lb.
Tod .. $td = 2$ Stones 1 qr
Wey .. $wy = 84$ Tod 1 cwt. 2 qr 14 lb.
Pack .. $pk = 240$ lb.
Sack .. $sk = 2$ Wey, 18 qr
Last .. $ls = 12$ Sacks, 56 cwt.

Since the advent of Buxton, some of the above weights have become nearly obsolete, although the terms are still in use with different values thus, 16 lb. = 1 St. 28 lb. = 1 Tod; 20 lb. = 1 Score, 12 Score or 240 lb. = 1 Pack.

Worsted Yarn.

Wrap 80 yards, Hank—560 yards—7 Wraps;
Counts or Numbers are the number of hanks in Counts—the number of Bunches of 43 lb. Bunches of 5 lb. or 10 lb. Bunches of Cotton vary from 80 to 1,760 bunches, but by the Act must be marked correctly. Bunches of Cotton are chiefly made up for export.

Liquid Measures.

The Gall contains 4 quarts or 8 pints.
The Pint contains 4 gills or 16 ounces.
The Gill contains 4 ounces or 80 drops.

Quart = 2 pints = 8 gills
Gallon = 4 quarts = 32 gills

Practically the only measures in use are gallons, quarts, pints, and gills, the others are merely nominal, e.g., the Rundlet of 54 gallons, old measure, contains but 52 gallons, 1 quart, 1 pint, and 8 1/2 gills imperial measure, and of wine six nominal quart bottles go to the gallon. Of wines imported in casks, the following are the usual measurements—

Rood = 40 rods = 1,210 yds = 12,100 ft.
Acre = 4 rods = 160 rods = 4,840 yards.
Yard of Land = 30 acres = 180 rods.
Hill = 100 acres = 480 rods.
Mile = 640 acres = 3,600 rods = 6,400 chains = 109,400 rods poles, or perches, or 8,067,600 square yards.

A 1/2 Acre roughly stated has four equal sides of 60 yds, accurate measurement gives each side 508 1/2 feet.

The sides of a square half-acre would be 167 1/2 feet, and of a square quarter-acre, 104 1/2 feet.

The above Imperial Land Measure is now employed as the standard in the United Kingdom in Canada, Australia, and the Colonies generally also in the United States, but occasionally some older measurements are still in use. Of these

The Longshire, or John Acre, each of 100 perches, contains 7,000 sq yards, equal to 1,500,000 Square Feet. A Statute Acre = 4,840 sq yds.

The Cheshire Acre of 100 perches, each containing 64 square paces = 25,600 square yards.

The County of York Acre, equal to 1,500,000 square feet, is equal to 0.7774 Statute Acre.

The Scottish Acre = 1,261,183 Statute (nearly 6,104 square yards).

Electrical Measures.

For practical and commercial purposes, the chief units are the—

VOLT—Electromotive force = about 92.5% of that given by one Daniell's battery cell.

OHM—Resistance of the resistance offered to the passage of 1 unit of electricity by a thread of mercury 106 cm. long, and 1 mm. cross section at the temperature of melting ice.

AMPERE—Current—the current 1 volt will drive through 1 ohm.

Coulomb—Quantity—1 ampere flowing 1 second of time.

Microfarad—Capacity = 0.00001 coulomb at 1 volt pressure.

WATT—Power—44 ft. lb. per minute

In incandescent lamps of 16-candle power, (nominally) about four watts are required, per candle power to give good economical results for domestic purposes.

One Board of Trade unit will keep a 16-candle, incandescent lamp alight for about 16 hours.

METRIC WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

The Metric System is based upon the (assumed) length of the direct distance from the Equator to the North Pole. The ten millionth part of this distance, as calculated in 1793, was adopted by the French Government as the unit of length and called a metre. All other measurements are derived from this unit: the cube of the tenth part of the metre is the unit of capacity called a litre; and the weight of a litre of water at a certain temperature is the unit of weight, called a kilogramme. The unit of land measurement is 10 000 sq metres, called a hectare. The above terms are now used in this country under the English names of metre, liter, kilogram and hectare.

ROUGH COMPARISONS.

10 centimeters = 4 inches	8 kilometers = 5 miles.
1 liter = 1.1 pints	1 cubic meter = 360 gallons.
1 kilogram = 2.2 lb	1,000 kilograms = 1 ton.
1 sq meter = 10 sq feet.	1 hectare = 2.5 acres.

In practical use this is found inconvenient because it is not a round number. The unit of weight now sold by the French and half kilo. The Kilogram of 1000 grammes is the English unit. But heavy goods are sold by the Tonne of 1000 Kilograms, which is 2240 lb. The Kilogramme being ignored in the English system and as the unit is generally reckoned as 100 lb., and the ton of 20 cwt = 2,000 lbs.

TABLE FOR CONVERTING METRIC WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

For the use of this table the following explanation is necessary. The figures in heavier type represent either of the only two columns beside them, as the case may be, viz., with Hectares and Acres in the first and second columns, 1 Acre = 0.4046 Hectares, and vice versa 1 Hectare = 2.471 Acres; similarly, with Kilogr. and lb. avoirdupois in the 4th and 5th columns, 100 Kilogr. = 220.46 lb. avoirdupois, and vice versa.

BRITISH INDIAN WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The Unit of the British Indian Ponderary System is called the Tola. It weighs 180 grains English Troy Weight, as does the Rupee. From it upwards are derived the heavy weights, viz., Chittak, Seer and Maund, and by its sub-division, the small or jewellers' weights called Masha, Batties and Dhane.

1 Dhane or grain	= 1/16 grain Troy	= 1/16 dr Avoird.
4 Dhane	= 1 Battie	= 1/4 " "
8 Batties	= 1 Masha	= 1/8 " "
1 Masha	= 1 Tola	= 7 dwt. 19 " "
15 Tolas	= 1 Chittak	= 1 oz. 17 1/2 dwt. Troy
16 Chittaks	= 1 Seer	= 2 1/2 lbs. Troy
40 Seers	= 1 Maund	= 100 lbs. Troy

TO CONVERT INDIAN WEIGHT INTO AVOIRDUPOIS.

Multiply the weight in Seers by 72, and divide by 85, the result will be the weight in lbs. Avoirdupois, or multiply the weight in Maunds by 80, and divide by 40 the result will be the weight in cwt. Avoirdupois.

TO CONVERT AVOIRDUPOIS WEIGHT INTO INDIAN WEIGHT.

Multiply the weight in lbs. Avoirdupois by 85, and divide by 72, or multiply the weight in cwt. by 40, and divide by 80, the result will be the weight in Seers in the former, in Maunds in the latter, in Maunds.

A Ton is equal to 27.225 Maunds, or 27 1/2 Maunds nearly.

Seer Weight—16 Chittaks are one seer, or 2 lb. 0 oz. 13 drs, and 40 seers, 1 maund or 80 lbs.

8 oz. 3 drs. 100 Seer Maunds = 100 Factory, and 1 1/2 Factory Maunds = 1 cwt.

Factory Weight—16 Chittaks are 1 seer, or 2 lb. 0 oz. 13 drs., and 40 seers, 1 maund or 80 lbs.

100 lbs. 11 drs. The Indian Maund = 80 1/2 lbs. Avoirdupois Weight.

BANGAL BAZAR WEIGHT.

1 Seer or Quarter Rupee Maund	= 1 Maund.
1 Chittak	= 1 Chittak.
1 Chittak, or 20 Tolas	= 1 Poppa.
4 Poppas	= 1 Seer
8 Seers	= 1 Pannas.
8 Pannas, or 40 Seers	= 1 Maund

To reduce Seer weight into Factory weight add 1-10th.

To reduce Seer weight into Cwt., add 1-10th, and deduct 1-10th of that sum, the remainder will be Cwt.

To reduce Factory Maunds into Tons divide by 80, and the quotient will be the answer.

3 Juckh .. 1 Gtrah	.. = 24 Inches.	2 Hathh .. 1 Gus	.. = 1 Yard.

A. B.—The Gas varies in different localities from 24 to 36 inches.

There appears to be no Indian measures of capacity for such Dry and Liquid goods as are sold by weight. Whenever, for the sake of convenience, measures are employed, they are intended to represent some gross weight of a Sac. Obitack, &c.

LIBERAL MEASURES

Notwithstanding that the cubit or human forearm is the basis or unit in Oriental and Western countries, there is no fixed standard established in India.

In Bengal the measure mostly used is the following:—

1 Hash (Cubit) = 18 Inches, 4 Hash = 1 Danda or = 2 Yards, 2,000 Dandas = 1 Cos.

The Coos or Bengal mile is equal to 1 mile, 1 furlong, 8 poles, $3\frac{1}{4}$ yards English.

The Indian Imperial Corp. is owned by 24 million nearly

Note.—In the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh the average distance is about 2 miles, but it differs in almost every province in the country. In Agra and Muttra, the coas is about 1½ miles, towards the Himalayas, the coas is a little more than a mile, in Bundelkhand it is three times as long as in other parts and is called a Pecoos coas, while in the Deccan it is the Gow Coas or as far as the lowering of a cry can be heard at the dead of night.

FOREIGN PASSPORTS.

RULES GOVERNING THE ISSUE OF PASSPORTS AND VISAS

British Indian passports are only issued to British subjects and to British-protected persons. Once issued they will be regarded for all ordinary purposes as constituting sufficient proof of the national status of their holders.

The primary object of a passport is to constitute official proof of the national status and identity of the holder, for purposes either of travel or of residence abroad. Full particulars of such national status should be clearly stated in the space provided for that purpose, and the description of the holder should be as full and accurate as possible.

Married women who are British subjects derive their British nationality from that of their husbands, irrespective of the nationality they possessed before marriage. In every case, therefore, full particulars of the husband's (or late husband's) nationality should be given.

In all cases where a passport is issued to a British-protected person, as distinct from a British subject, the fact that the holder is a British-protected person should be clearly and conspicuously stated, followed by particulars of the State or territory of which he is a native, e.g. — 'British-protected person, native of the Indian State of Baroda.'

All persons applying for British Indian passports are required to complete a declaration on form A., which can be obtained from all Collectors and the Secretary to Government, Law Department, Fort St. George.

The declaration, including the personal description, must be completed by the applicant in his or her own handwriting and signed in the space provided provision is made for the inclusion in the declaration of the wife of the applicant and his minor children under the age of 16, if they are accompanying him or residing with him abroad, and if it is desired that they should be included in his passport. Minor children under 16 may also be included, on similar conditions, in the passport of the wife, if she holds a separate passport, or in the passport of some other responsible person or official in charge of them. All other persons must apply for separate passports, and fill in separate declarations.

In the case of persons deriving their British nationality from a husband, father, or paternal grandfather born within His Majesty's Dominions, the particulars of the place and date of birth of such husband, father or paternal grandfather must be given in the body of the declaration, as well as those of the applicant's own place and date of birth. The latter particulars only, however, will appear in the passport itself.

Wives (including divorced wives) and widows of British subjects must in all cases give their own maiden surname and, if twice married, the surname of their former husband also.

Where application is made for a joint passport including husband and wife, the body of the application must be completed and signed by the husband, who must state that he is accompanied by his wife, as indicated in the margin of the form. The wife must completely and sign her personal description, giving her maiden surname. She must also give the place and date of her own birth but need not repeat the particulars of the date and place of her husband's birth, since these already appear on the form.

In the case of minor children under the age of 16 accompanying their parents or guardians, the names, ages and sexes should be given in the space provided at the bottom of the margin of the form. It must however, be clearly understood that the fact of a minor child having been included in a British Indian passport cannot in itself be claimed as evidence that the child is a British subject in contemplation of British law.

For children under the age of 16 who require separate passports a declaration is required from their parent or guardian, on form B. As the separate passport so issued will constitute permanent evidence of the child's British nationality, no less care should be taken in verifying the British nationality of the child concerned than in verifying that of an adult.

In the case of naturalised British subjects, or of persons deriving their British nationality from the naturalisation of their husband or father, full particulars of the certificate of naturalisation should be given in the body of the form, i. e., the place and date of its issue, and its serial number. In the case of persons who were themselves naturalised as British subjects, the production of the certificate itself should always be insisted on, and should the applicant be unable to produce it the case should be referred to the Government of India with a full statement of the circumstances which render the production of the certificate impossible. In the case of persons deriving their British nationality from the naturalisation of their husband, father or mother, the production of the certificate, or, failing that, of an official copy of it, should be insisted on as far as possible; but if the issuing officer is satisfied as to the bona fides of the applicant and considers that special circumstances make the production of the certificate or of an official copy of it genuinely impossible, he may, in his discretion, accept in lieu of it a statutory declaration from the applicant deposing to the necessary facts.

The subsidiary declaration of recommendation shown below, the declaration to be made by the applicant must be completed and signed by a Political officer, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or Police officer not below the rank of Superintendent of Police, Public resident in India. If there should be no such person in a position to make the subsidiary declaration at the place where the issuing officer resides, or if the issuing officer is satisfied from his own knowledge that the applicant is unquestionably a fit and proper person to be furnished with a passport, he may, in the exercise of his discretion, accept the recommendation of some other responsible British subject, or dispense with it altogether, signing on the form his reason for so doing. Should any of the statements contained in the declaration prove to be false, more particularly in regard to the nationality of the applicant, the consequences to both the applicant and the person recommending him may be serious.

The recommendation is intended to serve as a verification of the facts stated by the applicant, and of his identity. The particulars of any additional documents produced, such as birth or marriage certificates, should be recorded in detail.

To the completed form of application must be attached duplicate unmounted photographs (size approximately two and three quarters by two inches) of the applicant, and, if she is included the application of his wife. One copy of each photograph should be certified on the back by the person who recommends the application in the following terms:—

I certify this to be a correct photograph of

"(Signed)"

"(Place and date)"

The fee for the issue of a passport is Rs. 3

A passport is valid for five years from the date of issue and is renewable for a further period of from one to five years at the option of the holder, provided that in no case shall the validity of the passport be extended beyond ten years from the original date of issue. On expiration of that period or, if at any time the space provided for visas is covered and the holder wishes to travel to countries for which fresh visas are required, a fresh passport must be taken out. British subjects and British-protected persons applying for the renewal of their passports should be required to complete the form of application (Form 'B'). The fee for the renewal of a passport is Rs. 1 for each year, or portion of a year, for which the passport is renewed.

VISAS FOR ALIENS

British visas for aliens are of two types:—

(a) The transit visa good for one or more direct journeys through British territory undertaken for the sole purpose of reaching the territory of another State.

(b) The non-transit visa good for any number of journeys to British territory for any legitimate purpose during the period of its validity.

Both visas are valid for one year unless their validity is specially limited to a shorter period, except that in the case of the transit visa the period of its validity cannot exceed that of the validity of the visa of the country of ultimate destination.

The fees to be charged for British visas granted to aliens are (a) for the transit visa Rupee 1 and of the non-transit visa Rs. 7.

INDIAN RAILWAYS.

RELATION OF THE GOVERNMENT TO RAILWAYS IN INDIA

DIVERSITY OF RELATIONS BETWEEN THE STATE AND RAILWAYS.—One of the special features of the Indian Railway system is the diversity of conditions that prevail in the relation of the State to the various lines in respect of ownership and control. Of the important lines situated in British India or in which the Government of India is interested, three (the North-Western, Eastern Bengal and Oude and Behar and Railways) are owned and worked by the State; eight (the East Indian, Great Indian, Peninsular, Bombay, Baroda and Central India, Madras and Southern Mahratta, Assam-Bengal, Bengal Nagpur, South Indian and Burma) are owned by the State but worked on its behalf by companies enjoying a guarantee of interest from the Government; three important lines (the Bengal and North-Western, Rohilkhand and Kumaon and Southern Punjab) and many of less importance are the property of private companies, some being worked by the owning companies and some by the State or by the companies that work State-owned systems; several minor lines are the property of District Boards or enjoy a guarantee of interest granted by such Boards.

The diversity of conditions is in certain respects less important than might at first appear for the following reasons:—

The Government of India exercises under the Indian Railways Act, 1900, in respect of all railways in British India (and also by virtue of arrangements with India States, in respect of the chief railways passing through such States), certain general powers. Thus a railway may not be opened until a Government Inspector has certified that it has been constructed so as to comply with requirements laid down by the Government and can be used for the public carriage of passengers without danger to them. The Government of India can also, in the interest of the safety of passengers, require a railway to be closed, or the use of particular rolling-stock to be discontinued, or may prescribe conditions for the use of the railway or the rolling-stock. They can appoint a Railway Commission to investigate complaints on certain matters such as the withholding of reasonable traffic facilities or the grant of undue preference.

In addition, the Government of India (or in some cases Local Governments) exercise under the provisions of contracts detailed control over the management of all Railways in British India greatly exceeding that which is secured by the Indian Railways Act. They also have a certain financial interest in all companies in British India, and a preponderating interest in most of the railway which are of the first importance.

HARVEST OF RELATIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT AND COMPANIES.—The main causes which have led to the present diversity of conditions in regard to the agency by which railways are managed, and the relations of the Government with the various classes of companies now in existence, are summarised in the following paragraphs:—

The first proposals for the construction of railways in India were submitted in 1844 to the East India Company in England by Mr. M. M. Stephenson, afterwards Chief Engineer of the East Indian Railway and others; they included the construction of lines by railway companies to be incorporated for the purpose and the guarantee by the East India Company of a specified return. A contract for the construction by the East India Railway Company of an experimental line of 100 miles from Calcutta towards Mirzapore or Rajmehal at an estimated cost of 1,000,000 was made in 1849, and a return of 5 per cent. was guaranteed by the East India Company on the Capital; and a similar contract was made in the same year with the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company for a line from Bombay to Kalyan at an estimated cost of 500,000. But the policy of entrusting generally the construction of Indian railways to guaranteed companies was not adopted until 1864, on the recommendation of Lord Dalhousie, who, in a minute, dated 30th April 1864, explained his reasons for preferring the agency of companies under the supervision and control of the Government to the construction of lines on behalf of the Government by its own officers. He held that the State Engineer officers would make railways as well, and possibly as cheaply, and as expeditiously as companies; but that the widespread fraud which during the large number of officers required would be detrimental to the public interest, that the conduct of commercial undertakings did not fall within the proper functions of any Government and less still within the functions of the Government of India, since the demands of the population on the Government were, in 1864, one of the most pressing drawbacks to the advance of the country, and that the country would therefore benefit by the introduction of English energy and English capital for railway purposes, with the possibility that such energy and capital would in due course be absorbed to make in the development of India in other directions.

OLD GUARANTEED RAILWAYS.—The policy suggested by Lord Dalhousie was adopted, and between 1864 and 1899 contracts for the construction of Railways in India were made by the East India Company, or (after 1858) by the Secretary of State for India with the East India, Great Indian, Peninsular, Madras, Bombay, Baroda and Central India, Oude and Rohilkhand, Bengal, Punjab and Delhi, Eastern Bengal, Great Southern of India (afterwards, when amalgamated with the Carnatic Railway Company—see below—the South Indian) and Calcutta and North-Eastern Railway Companies. Under these contracts the railway companies undertook to construct and manage specified lines, while the East India Company (or the Secretary of State for India) agreed to provide land and guaranteed interest on the capital, the rate fixed being in various cases 5, 4½ and 4 per cent. according to the market rates prevailing when the various contracts were made. Half of any surplus profits earned was to be used towards repaying to the Government any sums by which it had been called upon to supplement the net earnings of any previous period in order to make good the guarantee of interest; and the remainder was to be along to the shareholders. In practically all matters of importance except the choice of staff, the companies were placed by the contracts under the supervision and control of the Government which had power to decide on the standard and details of construction, the rolling-stock to be provided, the number, time and speed of trains, the rates and fares to be charged; the expenditure to be incurred, the standard of maintenance; and the form of accounts. The railways were to be held by the companies on leases terminating at the end of 99 years, and on such termination the fair value of their rolling-stock, plant and machinery was to be paid to them. But provision was also made to enable the Government to purchase the lines after 25 or 30 years on terms calculated to be the equivalent of the companies' interests therein and also to enable the companies to surrender their lines to the Government and to receive in return their capital at par.

EARLY ATTEMPTS TO SECURE FUNDS FOR RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION WITHOUT A GUARANTEE.—An attempt to secure the construction of railways in India, on terms more favourable to the Government than those of the contracts with the original guaranteed companies, was first made in 1823, when a subsidy but not a guarantee, was granted to the Indian Branch Railway Company which proposed to make feeders to the trunk lines in Northern India, and did actually make one such line. Similar assistance was granted later to the Indian Tramway Company, which made a short line in Madras. In 1844, the terms granted to the two companies mentioned were taken as a standard for general adoption with a view to the encouragement of similar companies. The chief provisions were that the Government besides giving the necessary land free of cost, would grant an annual subsidy for 30 years at a rate not exceeding £100 per mile of line, with an addition in respect of large bridges costing more than £10,000. These terms failed to attract to the Indian Branch Railway Company which had begun work found themselves after a few years unable to proceed without further assistance from the Government. Consequently, in 1867, a contract was entered into with the Indian Branch Railway Company (which soon after changed its name to the "Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Company") by which the company was guaranteed interest at 5 per cent. per annum on the cost of certain lines to be carried out by it, on conditions similar to those laid down in the contracts of the period 1854-1860. Similarly, the Indian Tramway Company after having been given in 1856 a guarantee of 5 per cent. per annum went into liquidation in 1870, and became absorbed in a new company called the Gornatis Railway Company (afterwards amalgamated with the Great Southern of India Railway Company to form the South Indian Railway Company), with which the Secretary of State entered into a contract guaranteeing interest on its capital at 5 per cent. per annum. In 1869, Sir John Lawrence summed up the result of the experiments of the construction of railways by unguaranteed companies as follows:—"The Government of India has for several years been striving to induce capitalists to undertake the construction of railways in India at their own risk and on their responsibility, with a minimum of Government interference. But the attempt has entirely failed, and it has become obvious that no capital can be obtained for such undertakings otherwise than under a guarantee of interest fully equal to that which the Government would have to pay if it borrowed directly on its own account."

The attempt to encourage unguaranteed companies having thus been unsuccessful, it became necessary to decide whether the old practice of relying on guaranteed companies, of the type that had provided capital for, and had constructed the first railways in India, should be continued. The Government of India expressed their objections to this course. They doubted whether their power of control over such companies secured the greatest possible economy in construction. They also disliked the arrangements under which they guaranteed the interest on the capital of companies, and thus became responsible for loss on working while having only a comparatively remote prospect of profiting by the results of successful working. Two important changes were consequently made in the practice that had been followed since the beginning of railway construction in India:—

1. Arrangements were made with some of the most important of the guaranteed companies that in lieu of the provision that half of any surplus profits was to be applied in repayment of sum advanced by the Government under the guarantee of interest, half of the surplus profits for each half year should be the property of the Government. In consideration of this modification, the Government relinquished, in the case of three companies, the Great Indian Peninsula, the Bombay, Scinde and Central India and the Madras, its right to purchase the lines at the end of the first 25 years from the dates of the respective contracts.

2. It was decided by the Secretary of State that the time had arrived when in both raising and expending such additional capital as might be required for new lines in India, the Government should secure to itself the full benefit of its own credit and of the cheaper methods which it was expected that it would be able to use. Accordingly, for several years after 1869, the chief capital expenditure on railways was chiefly incurred direct by the State and no fresh contracts with guaranteed companies were made except for small extensions. Among the lines constructed or begun by State agency and from State capital between 1869 and 1890 were the Indus Valley, Punjab Northern, Rajputana-Merwara, Northern Bengal, Maaeroon and Irrawaddy Valley and Tirhoot.

PROGRESS IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILWAYS.—By the end of 1879, by about 25 years from the introduction of railways in India, 6,135 miles of railway had been constructed by companies which had expended, approximately, £67,573,500 (these figures include the Calcutta and North-Eastern and Rohilkhand Railways which were constructed by companies but were purchased by the Government in 1880 and 1892, respectively). By the same date 2,375 miles of railways had been constructed by the Government at a cost of £24,000,000.

INTRODUCTION OF LIMITED GUARANTEE TERMS.—In 1880 the necessity for great and rapid extension of the railway system was urged by the Famine Commissioners, appointed after the great famine of 1876, who estimated that at least 5,000 miles were still necessary for the protection of the country from famine. It was held by the Government of the time that a limit was necessary on the capital borrowed annually; and it was clear that the limit fixed was not high enough to allow of such progress in railway construction as was desirable. With reference to this difficulty the Famine Commissioners remarked: "that there would be manifest advantages in giving free scope to the extension of railways by private enterprise if it were possible, and, though the original form of guarantee has been somewhat modified, it may not be impossible to find some substitute which shall be free from its defects, and may secure the investment of capital in these undertakings without involving the Government in financial or other liabilities of an objectionable nature."

Action of the direction suggested by the Commission was taken by the formation of three companies without a guarantee (the Bengal Central in 1881 and the Bengal and North Western and Rohilkhand and Kumaon in 1880) and three new guaranteed companies (Southern Mahratta in 1880, the Indian Midland in 1882, and the Bengal Nagpur in 1887). The Bengal and North-Western and the Rohilkhand and Kumaon Railway Companies are referred to more fully, in a later paragraph. The Bengal Central Railway Company's operations were not successful at the outset, and a revised contract was entered into with the company, with effect from the 1st July 1885, under which the Secretary of State guaranteed interest at 5½ per cent. on the company's capital, the balance of net earnings remaining after payment of interest on advances by the Secretary of State and debenture capital (but not the share capital) being divided between the Secretary of State and the company in the proper shares of three-quarters to the former and one-quarter to the latter. The new contract gave the Secretary of State the right to take possession of the line on the 30th June 1905, or subsequently at intervals of 10 years, on repaying the company's capital at par. The rate of interest guaranteed to the Southern Mahratta Railway Company was also 5½ per cent.; in this case the balance of net earnings remaining after payment of interest on advances by the Secretary of State (but not on share or debenture capital) was divisible in the same way as in the case of the Bengal Central Railway Company. The guarantee to the Indian Midland and Bengal Nagpur Railway Companies was 4 per cent., and the Secretary of State was entitled to three-quarters of the surplus profits in excess of all interest charges. The lines constructed by the three companies last mentioned were declared to be the property of the Secretary of State, who had the right to determine the contracts at the end of approximately 35 years after their respective dates, or at subsequent intervals of 10 years, on repaying at par the capital provided by the companies.

The Assam-Bengal Railway Company was formed on similar lines in 1892, except that any surplus profits were to be divided between the Secretary of State and the company in proportion to the capital provided by each. The rate of guarantee in this case was 5½ per cent. for the first six years and thereafter 5 per cent. The Burma Railway Company was formed in 1897 to manage and develop the line in that Province that had been constructed by the State. Interest at 5½ per cent. was guaranteed on the share capital raised by the company, and the surplus profits were originally divisible in the proportion of four-fifths to the Secretary of State and one-fifth to the company, but since 1908 the division has been proportional to the capital invested by each in the undertaking. The contract with the Burma Railways Company is terminable by the Secretary of State in 1920, or on subsequent occasions, on repayment of the company's capital at par.

The terms of guarantee given to the companies formed since 1880 have thus been much more favourable to the Government than in the case of those formed before 1880.

TERMINATION OF CONTRACTS OF THE OLD GUARANTEED COMPANIES.—In dealing with the guaranteed companies formed before 1880 and with those formed in 1881 and subsequently it has been the practice (except in the cases mentioned above, when the purchase of some of the old guaranteed lines was postponed in order to secure to the Government a share in surplus profits) to use in some way or other at the earliest possible date the right reserved by the Government of terminating the contracts of the various companies. The method of making use of this right has differed in different cases. The Eastern Bengal, Oudh and Rohilkhand and Sindh-Punjab and Delhi lines were purchased and transferred to State management, the last named now forming part of the North Western Railway. Similarly, the Bengal Central line was purchased and made part of the Eastern Bengal Railway. The Madras and the Indian Midland lines were acquired but left, after acquisition, under the management of companies working other lines with which it was advantageous to amalgamate them. In all other cases (East India, South India, Great Indian Peninsula, Bombay, Baroda and Central India, Southern Mahratta, and Bengal-Nagpur), the course adopted has been to arrange for the continuance of management by the original company (or by a new company closely related to the old one), but to secure more favourable financial conditions for the State by one or more of the following methods:—reduction of the amount of capital retained by the companies in the undertakings, reduction of the rate of interest guaranteed by the State on such capital, and modification in favour of the Government of the clauses relating to the division of surplus profits.

ARRANGEMENTS BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND COMPANIES AT PRESENT.—The relations between the Government and the guaranteed companies now working railways may be summarised as follows:—

1. The lines that they work are the property of the State.
2. The greater part of the capital is the property of the Government, either through having been originally supplied by or through the acquisition by the Government of the greater part of the companies' interests on the termination of old contracts.
3. (a) On funds assigned for further capital expenditure, the Government has the option either of providing the necessary capital or of the company to provide them. The company receives, nevertheless, a share of the interest on such capital, and similar payments out of the surpluses made to the Government. (b) Dividends have been paid, and on the whole, they are divided between the Government and the companies in the proportions provided for by the contracts. The company's share is in all cases only a small fraction of the Government's share.

public; the Aspirant system which they are entitled to expect from so valuable a property until the whole financial methods are radically reformed. And the essence of this reform is contained in two things: (1) the complete separation of the Railway Budget from the general budget of the country, and its reconstruction in a form which frees a great commercial business from the trammels of a system which assumes that the concern goes out of business on each 31st of March and reconstitutes de novo on the 1st April; and (2) the emancipation of the railway management from the control of the Finance Department. The primary function of any such Department is to referee to a minimum expenditure in order to keep at the minimum the corresponding taxation. Its officials are not qualified either by training or experience to judge the essentially commercial and technical question when and where the circumstances of a railway undertaking justify bold expenditure of large sums, having regard not merely to the actual conditions of the physical machine at the moment, but to the prospects of development and the requirements of the future.

59 We think that the sentence which we have quoted above from the Report of Mackay Committee, to the effect that the Government of India provides all the money it can and distributes it in the manner which it deems to be most advantageous, is based on a misconception of the real position. It confuses two different things: the functions of the Government as a Government, and the functions of the Government as the owner of a great commercial undertaking. A Government as a Government always has before it many objects for which it would gladly spend money were the money available. No one will question that the expenditure of large sums on, for instance, sanitation and education would be greatly to the benefit of the people of India. Neither of these services are, however, directly remunerative. Their cost can only be met by taxation. The question for the Government is whether, especially having regard to the attitude of the taxpayer, the object is so essential and so urgent as to justify the imposition of new taxation. The railways are in an entirely different position. It is no question of new taxation. It is merely a question of allowing the railway undertaking to finance its own requirements out of its own resources and at its own time.

60 To say as the Mackay Report does, that the Government provides such money as it possibly can is to confuse the issue. Had the Railway Budget been separate from the general budget when that Report was written, there would have been no difficulty in providing all the money the railways needed on terms which would have secured for them a handsome profit after payment of interest on the loan. And its provision would have done nothing to check, would indeed have done much to promote, the growth of the ordinary revenue of the Government available for such purposes as sanitation and education. The Indian Government is now compelled—the further postponement of expenditure being impossible—to pay a high as 7 per cent. for money which before the war could have been had at or under 4 per cent.

61 We cannot but feel that the authorities ultimately responsible for Indian railway finance—how far that responsibility was located in Whitehall, and how far in India, we cannot say—have entirely failed to appreciate the position of the Indian railways as a commercial undertaking. The owner of a factory, with a record of success behind it, who found his entire output reduced and slowed down for lack of a certain new machine costing, say 10,000*l.*, and refused to buy this new machine, saying he could not raise more than 8,000*l.*, to pay for it except at a rate of interest to which he was unaccustomed, would ere long find himself in the bankruptcy court. And his fellow business men would say he had deserved his fate. This is in effect what has been happening in India from a date long before the war. With this difference the manufacturer only brings down a single factory. The Indian case is that railway undertakings, in which a great capital has been invested all over the country have been held up for lack of the relatively small new investment in new machinery required year by year to make the whole of the plant efficient and economically productive. And there is another difference. If the single factory goes down, the customers can go elsewhere to fill their wants. The unfortunate customers of the Indian railways have nowhere else to go to. They merely suffer. They are ceasing to suffer in silence.

62 INADEQUACY OF MAINTENANCE AND RENEWAL.—That the railway development and therefore the economic development of India has been starved, is not the only charge which we are compelled to bring against the system of financial control to which the railways have been subjected. It might have been expected that control purely from the financial point of view would at least have resulted in correct and unimpeachable financial orthodoxy. This has not proved so in practice. We have spoken above of the "Programme" expenditure and the method by which its amount is determined. Now in every commercial concern Capital expenditure and Revenue expenditure are constantly intermixed. And a prudent board of directors, especially when the concern which they are managing is prosperous and paying substantial dividends, takes very good care that Revenue is debited with its full share. The principle is clear that by the time the useful life of an asset or a building has expired, its full original cost should have been written off out of Revenue.

63 This has not been the case on the Indian Railways. There are scores of bridges with girders unfit to carry train loads up to modern requirements; there are many miles of rails, hundreds of engines, and thousands of wagons, whose rightful date for renewal is long overpast. Their cost has not been written off. They stand in the books at the original figure. The Government has formed no replacement reserve. It is not now physically possible within a short period of one or two years to replace all the plant of which the economic life is exhausted. If it were possible, it would be a burden upon current revenue too heavy to be borne without upsetting the normal railway finance. The position due to the various methods of the past must be reassessed gradually. It will never be possible to alter the present system of programme and capital grants and loans, but only when commercial accounting methods are introduced in the management of a commercial undertaking.

64 In our judgment a financial system which produces these results should self-correct itself. The system of grants and loans, even though the merits and in our judgment they are inferior to the Aspirant system, Railway management is a highly technical business. It should be placed in the hands of those who understand it. It has little in common with the raising of taxation on the one hand or with the control of the expenditure of ordinary Public Departments on the other.

74. PLANS FOR SEPARATE RAILWAY BOARD AND GOVERNMENT CONTROL MUST REMAIN.—We have proposed to discuss the manner in which reform should be carried out. At the outset we wish to disclaim any idea that the railway organisation should be independent, an imperium in imperio. This is quite out of question. The Indian Government owns the railways; the Indian Government must control them. But that is no reason why the control should take the form which is found suitable in respect of other departments of the State. What we propose is in outline that the railways should have a separate budget of their own and assume the responsibilities for earning and expending their own income. The first charge on that income, after paying working expenses, is interest on the debt incurred by the State for railway purposes. The amount of this debt is known—we may call it roughly 352,000,000. The annual liability of the Indian Government for the interest is 8,705,04,00. Whether the railways should pay precisely this amount, or a larger amount, in consideration of the fact that in early years taxation had to be imposed to meet that portion of the interest which the railway receipts did not then cover or a smaller amount, in consideration of the expansions which the railways have since incurred for non-railway purposes, is a matter for argument. We have no wish to express a positive opinion, though we think there is much to be said for letting by-gones be by-gones and fixing the payment to the Government at the same sum that the Government has itself to find at the present time for interest on the railway debt. The point is that the Railway Department subject to the general control of Government, once it has met its liability to its creditors, should itself regulate the disposal of the balance and should be free to devote it to new capital purposes (whether directly or as security for new debt incurred) or to reserves or to disburse it in the form either of reduction of rates or improvement of services.

75. We have expressed our own view that the only payment by the railways to the general Exchequer should be the interest at a fixed rate on the capital advanced. But we desire to point out that this is not necessarily involved in the separation of the railway budget. It would be possible, however undesirable, for the Government to impose a surtax on railway traffic such as is now in force, or even to call upon the railways for an emergency contribution to the necessities of the State. Neither method would involve interference by the Finance Department with the Railway Department's control of its own internal finances.

76. Naturally, the steps taken to raise new capital and in general the large questions of policy must continue to be controlled by the Government, i.e., by the Viceroy's Council and the Legislative Assembly, and in the last resort by the Secretary of State and the House of Commons. But there must be a Member in Charge of railways taking part in the Council deliberations, and able to discuss with his fellow Members railway questions equally where they concern finance as where they are management questions proper. Under the new constitution the Budget is to be voted by the Legislative Assembly. This right must, of course, be preserved. But there is no reason why the Railway Budget should not be submitted by the Railway Member as an annex to the general Budget instead of by the Finance Member himself. Even in England, though departmental estimates have to be approved by the Treasury, and the Treasury control over them is undoubted, the estimates for the War Department are submitted to Parliament, not by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, but by the Secretary of State for War.

Railways Requirements in South India.

For many years it has been recognised that there is a need for considerable railway extension in South India. In 1914 several projects for the relief of congestion on the existing lines and for the development of new country were approaching maturity but owing to the abnormal conditions caused by the war, funds for the proposed lines could not be found and they were held in abeyance. The question was re-opened in 1919, but financial stringency, the necessity for improving existing open lines and the urgency of certain new projects in the coalfields again prevented the provision of the necessary funds. Further the vexed question of the gauge to be adopted for trunk railways in South India had not been settled and it was, therefore, difficult to arrive at a definite scheme of development.

In July 1921, His Excellency the Governor of Madras had a meeting with Mr. (now Sir) E. A. S. Bell, a Member of the Railway Board to discuss the question of the railway communications which might be rendered necessary by the development of the ports of Tuticorin and Cochin and it was then decided that a State Railway Engineer should be appointed to investigate the matter during 1921-22.

Mr. J. Imit was appointed for this work and as the result of his investigation, submitted to the Railway Board several very valuable reports, covering the various problems connected with the whole question of railway extensions in South India.

The recommendations which Mr. Imit made have been carefully considered by the Railway Board after consultation with the Local Government, the Railway Administrations and public bodies in the Presidency. Final decisions on the various matters reported on were, however, deferred until the Chief Commissioner had had an opportunity of discussing these matters locally. As the result of recent tour in Southern India, it is now possible to indicate the lines on which it is proposed to undertake railway development and improvement in the area served by the South Indian Railway.

2. Amongst the immediate practical lessons of Mr. Imit's reports, in the first place, it is clear that the South Indian Railway system cannot carry all the traffic which now flows, and, secondly, owing to the nature of the country, the density of population and climatic conditions, thousands of new lines which would be encountered with the possibility of being constructed in the early future. First experience has shown that the opportunities for constructive expenditure of capital in South India are comparatively few and that the construction of new lines would relieve the congestion, others by bringing in increased traffic. Thirdly, it is suggested by the Government, that a new scheme in advance of the improvement of the existing lines should be formulated, so as to be necessary to lay out a scheme of development which may be followed on the opportunity arises of procuring funds. Many of the difficulties which have arisen in connection with the work in the south of India are the result of haphazard additions in order to secure new funds without regard to the ultimate effect on the country as a whole, and to avoid repetition of these errors, a decision has been arrived at regarding the general scheme of development for the future.

3. The most important matter which had to be settled was the question of the gauge to be adopted in future extensions and improvements. The adoption of the metre gauge for most of the lines in this part of the country has given rise to certain difficult problems in connection with interchange with broad gauge trunk lines and in fact this has been one of the main factors in restricting development in the past. In matters affecting proposed extensions, the question of metre gauge versus standard gauge has always arisen, and the subsequent discussion and uncertainty have led to delays and in most cases indefinite postponement of the projects.

4. The next most important matter, after settling the question of gauge, is the provision of adequate communications between the ports and the territory to be served by them, and a further subsidiary problem is the vexed question of the probable future development as regards the route to Ceylon via Dhamakodi and Tuticorin. It is considered that most of the smaller controversies which have arisen regarding new projects will find a natural settlement when the larger issues are decided once for all.

5. Coming first to the important question of the gauge to be adopted, the relative merits of the metre gauge and standard gauge must be a question of controversy for many years to come. It is proposed to follow certain broad principles which were enunciated in 1916-17 after a most exhaustive examination of the whole question. These principles may be stated as follows:—

- (i) It is essential to recognise that 'railways' cover a wide range and as their objects differ so do their requirements.
- (ii) For 'through communications' the broad gauge has the advantage over the metre gauge, and continuity of gauge is of great importance.
- (iii) Our aim should ultimately be to establish a system of through communications on the broad gauge throughout India, and while the circumstances in respect of convenience and economy of the two gauges in individual cases must be fully considered,
 - (a) when a new line is proposed alternatively on the broad and metre gauge in territory which is not already definitely in possession of the metre gauge, the burden of proof of advantage should be on the metre gauge;
 - (b) when the capacity of a single metre gauge line adjoining a broad gauge line is exceeded, the presumption should be in favour of conversion rather than of doubling or of building an alternative broad gauge line.
- (iv) On the other hand, it is unnecessary to aim at establishing a connected system of metre gauge lines throughout India, and this is not an object which need be held in view in considering individual cases of extension or of increasing the capacity of existing lines.
- (v) In the case of railways serving the purpose of local communications the points of general application are—
 - (a) continuity of gauge is of much less importance.
 - (b) on the other hand the introduction of a broad gauge is not a proper method of preventing competition with the main lines. And this is in fact an unnecessary expedient since the matter can be regulated by appropriate traffic conditions.

Applying these principles to the case of Southern India, the country which lies south of the Podanur-Madras Railway and east of a line drawn southwards from Podanur along the Travancore High Range as far as (say) Quilon shall be served by the metre gauge. It has to be remembered, however, that the metre gauge is only capable of development to a certain extent and that at some time in the future the traffic to be carried may be so dense as to warrant the conversion to broad gauge of certain of the lines within this territory. When coming to a decision on each individual project for new construction it will, therefore, be necessary to consider whether it is likely to form part of a through route which will eventually have to be converted and whether, therefore, it should be so constructed as to be readily convertible to standard gauge. It is necessary also to state at this stage that it is proposed to convert at an early date the branch line from Trichinopoly to Erode from metre gauge to standard gauge in order to give Trichinopoly a direct connexion with the broad gauge system.

6. This decision as regards the gauge question covers the major portion of the territory under consideration but leaves out of account the territory to the west of Podanur and the Travancore High Range. Extensions within this territory form part of the problem referred to in paragraph 4 above of providing adequate communications between the ports and the territory which they are designed to serve.

7. The utility and paying capacity of a port depend as much on the provision of adequate railway communications as the utility and paying capacity of the railways depend on the development of the ports with which they are in connexion. It is therefore considered, that not only is it necessary to decide on future policy as regards location and character of the railway lines connected with the port, but to make such arrangements as will ensure that the provision of the necessary means of communication shall proceed hand in hand with the development of traffic through the port.

8. Cochin is the principal port on this part of the West Coast and its natural advantages mark it out as the only port with the possibility of development. A considerable amount of practical work has been done in recent years with a view to developing it into a useful harbour where ships will be able to be handled in smooth water all the year round. In looking forward the future policy in the port of the country, therefore, it appears reasonable to assume that development of facilities through the port will be indispensable. It is not proposed to connect with the harbour by a line through the interior, a metre gauge line about 60 miles in length. The broad gauge line connecting with the harbour will, on the west, run up to Chittur through Beas and then on to the east of the line.

last part of the traffic to and from Cochin, and when the standard gauge line is built, it will be possible to run a separate service over this short reach of metre gauge line. The probability of eventually having a separate line to broad gauge is, therefore, taken as the basis of the policy for dealing with communications serving Cochin.

8. With this in view and bearing in mind that the extension of the projected Shannar-Kilambur line to Manattoddy in order to serve the Wynnad is not a comprehensive proposition in view of the heavy and expensive engineering work involved on the Chit section, it has been decided that the Shannar-Kilambur Railway shall be constructed on the broad gauge. It is expected that construction will shortly commence on this railway.

10. To give communication between the sea-board and Coorg, North Malabar and the North Wynnad, a line from Tallicherry to Manattoddy with branches northwards into Coorg and southwards into the Wynnad appears to offer considerable advantages. This line is at present being examined, and it appears probable that its prospects will not justify anything more expensive than a 3 gauge line which will form a feeder to the broad gauge system serving Cochin. The construction of an extension of this line to Nanjangud, which is now being surveyed, is a matter which mainly depends on the wishes of the Mysore Darbar.

11. The decision to serve Cochin by means of a standard gauge system necessitates interchange between metre gauge and standard gauge in order that the remainder of the territory which is naturally within the Cochin area can be given access to that port, for we are definitely opposed to the idea of having both standard and metre gauge lines running into the port through the same or neighbouring territory. The interchange point between the proposed new metre gauge line from Dindigul to Pollachi and broad gauge system will accordingly be situated eventually at the natural termination of that line, probably in the neighbourhood of Palghat or Olavakkott. The prospects of this line are now under re-examination and it is anticipated that it will prove capable of earning a return on capital which will justify its early construction. Extension of this metre gauge line from Pollachi to Trichur cannot be justified in view of the fact that it would be parallel to a broad gauge line at a distance of about twenty miles away.

12. As regards a connection between the Anamalais and the western slopes of the High Range with Cochin, it is considered that this can be best effected by constructing a narrow gauge feeder line to the broad gauge at or near Chalakudi and this project is likely to be examined again shortly. The above disposes of the problem of the communications required for Cochin and incidentally for practically the whole of the territory not dealt with in the general decision as regards the gauge policy defined in paragraph 8.

The construction of connections between Trivandrum and Nageroodi and between Quilon and Ernakulam are primarily matters for the Travancore State to decide upon and these projects are now under examination. They have no serious bearing on the general question on which decisions are now being made.

13. Proceeding now to consider the future development within the area decided on as metre gauge territory, there are four important factors—

Firstly, the best means have to be selected of relieving congested sections of the existing through routes, secondly, it is necessary to see that local interests within the area are adequately served, thirdly, the most remunerative location must be adopted from the point of view of internal traffic as well as from the point of view of port traffic, and lastly, the probable future trend of traffic as between the two established routes to Cochin via Dharmakodi and Tuticorin to and from the various parts of South India must be taken into consideration.

14. The need for improving or relieving the most congested sections of the South Indian Railway has an important bearing on the question of the new projects to be undertaken. The sections mostly in need of relief are the main lines between Madras and Trichinopoly and between Trichinopoly and Madras. Generally speaking in a country so productive as most of the country served by this railway, it is better policy to construct alternative routes than to double the existing lines, and wherever it is possible this course will be adopted.

15. The second factor referred to above, namely, adequate service for internal traffic is one which will control the location of new projects, each one of which must be dealt with on its merits, and as productiveness will be the primary criterion in deciding on the detailed location of any individual project, it can be safely assumed that the local traffic will be one of the principal factors in deciding on new connections.

16. As regards the rival routes for Cochin traffic, a considerable amount of money has been spent on the Dharmakodi route. The Government of Cochin have also spent considerable sums in order to make the route possible, and in connexion with labour traffic, has built extensive accommodation at Mantapam near Dharmakodi. Trade has definitely established itself by this route to the advantage of some of the most productive districts of the Presidency, and whatever development occurs at Tuticorin, it is probable that the demand for the facilities afforded by this route for traffic between those districts and the north of the island will continue and may possibly increase. Although it is stated, not without reason, that the establishment and working of this route has involved some loss in revenue, it has not been clearly established that the route cannot be made to pay its way, and it is, therefore, necessary to arrange the internal communications on the assumption that this route will continue to carry traffic even when Tuticorin is a fully developed port. Tuticorin will have its own traffic which is not necessarily competitive with the Dharmakodi route. New lines to be constructed must, therefore, be based on the fact that neither the Dharmakodi route nor the Tuticorin route is to be abandoned.

17. Amongst the many lines which have been proposed in Southern India, some have been already surveyed, some have only been recommended and in other cases the survey and construction have not even got as far as the survey and have to be revised and brought into line with modern standards.

These projects have been under systematic examination for some time past. Of the projects which have been examined in detail the construction of the Vijayanpur-Tiruchinopoly line (100 1/2 miles) has recently been sanctioned by the Secretary of State and the South Indian Railway are making every arrangement to commence construction. This line, while serving a country which is in urgent need of railway communications which will give a considerable amount of new traffic, will provide an alternative route for main line traffic and thus tend to relieve congestion. The Tiruchinopoly (Vijayanpur) Tanjore Railway (76 1/2 miles) has also been recently sanctioned.

18. The prospects of the Dindigul-Pollachi line are now being re-examined and if they are found to be substantially remunerative an anticipated, this connexion will be constructed as an extension of the South Indian Railway system.

19. Further relief to the main line of the South Indian Railway will be afforded by constructing a connexion between Arantangi and Karaikudi to Manamadurai, which will also give much-needed railway communication to a district which is capable of producing considerable traffic.

The prospects of a connexion from Tiruchinopoly to Karaikudi through Pudukottam will shortly be re-examined as a further means of relief to the main line and an examination is being undertaken of the proposed connexion from Manamadurai to Maniyachi which will eventually relieve the main line in respect of traffic to and from Tanjore.

In the neighbourhood of Madras it has been decided to double the main line as far as Tambaram and to carry out certain improvement works between Tambaram and Villupuram to increase the capacity of the line where traffic is congested.

20. The electrification of the Madras Tanjore section has been sanctioned and very considerable in volume it in the suburban services on this section may be looked for.

The South Indian Railway are further examining the prospects of electrification of the portion of the main line between Tiruchinopoly and Madras.

SECTION III.

MADRAS PRESIDENCY.

SHORT HISTORICAL SUMMARY.

THE territory included within the Presidency of Fort St. George, or the Madras Presidency, is the southernmost of the Indian provinces. The coast line extends on the east of the peninsula from Orissa in Bengal to Cape Comorin. On the west the narrow strip of country formed by the Indian States of Travancore and Cochin gives the coast line from Cape Comorin as far as the town of Cochin. After that Madras territory again forms the coast line until the Bombay Presidency is reached at the northern extremity of the South Kanara district. In the centre of the peninsula thus enclosed are the Nagpore country and Berar, the territories of the Nizam, known generally as the Deccan, and the provinces of Mysore; but all the country south and east of Mysore belongs to the Madras Presidency.

The Presidency occupies an area of 144,300 square miles; excluding the area occupied by five Indian States of Sandar, Banganapalle, Pudukottai, Cochin and Travancore.

The Presidency has a coast line of about 1,700 miles, and consequently there is a large area of country but little elevated above the level of the sea. Mountain ranges run northward from Cape Comorin along the Western Coast, attaining an elevation in some parts of from 4,000 to nearly 9,000 feet. Ranges of hills follow also the general line of the East Coast, but these, as a rule, are of lower elevation than the Western Ghats. The Anaimudi mountain in the Anaimalai range is now known to be the highest in Southern India, its summit being 8,837 feet above the level of the sea. The drainage of the peninsula is for the most part from west to east into the Bay of Bengal, the area of country drained by rivers running westward being only the narrow strip of territory between the Western Ghats and the sea. As a rule the country slopes gradually from the eastern base of the western mountain chain down to the Coromandel Coast, while the fall is sudden and precipitous on the western side of the mountains. The centre of the peninsula descends generally of undulating tablelands from 1,000 to 3,000 feet above the level of the sea.

The peculiar physical geography of the peninsula of India, with a huge mountain chain running from north to south along the western boundary, is of importance in regard to climate and the productions of the various districts. These hills have the effect of arresting the lower strata of rain clouds brought up from the Indian Ocean by the periodical winds of the south west monsoon, and of causing excessive rain precipitation on the narrow strip of coast line on the western side of the peninsula. Where the mountain range is of great height, as between Malabar and Coimbatore, the rain clouds are almost entirely diverted from the districts immediately below the mountains on the eastern side, and while the annual rainfall on the western side may be 160 inches, not more than 30 inches will be registered on the eastern side, immediately within the influence of the mountain ranges. Where the mountain chain is of lower elevation, the rain clouds pass over the hills, and rain is precipitated in uncertain and varying amount over the peninsula to the east of the Western Ghats; but, except in the northern districts, where the rainy season approximates to that of Bengal, the heaviest rainfall of the southern portion of the eastern division of the peninsula occurs during the period of the north-east monsoon. During the continuance of this monsoon, the western ranges of mountains have a smaller effect in arresting the rain clouds, so that at the season of the year when the Coromandel is deluged by heavy rain, the Western Coast districts enjoy fine clear weather.

To the physical barrier of the Western Ghats must be attributed, not only the vast differences of climate, but also those in the nature of the productions, in the eastern and western divisions of the peninsula. In the former the uncertainty and capricious character of the rainfall has taught the cultivators of the soil the necessity of making provision for the storage of water for irrigation purposes, and the existence of innumerable tanks or reservoirs, scattered all over the country, testify to the fact that, from periods of the remotest antiquity, the inhabitants of the tracts of country, which receive an irregular rainfall have exercised great ingenuity and readiness of resource in the construction of public works for the artificial irrigation of the soil. On the western side of the mountains, however, the necessity for such works has never arisen. There the periodical rains fall with great regularity as to time and quantity, and the earth yields her fruits so abundantly that, although in certain exceptional years there may be partial failures of crops, absolute famine, as a result of bad seasons, is unknown. Only three of the 36 districts of which the Madras Presidency is composed lie within the influence of the never-failing rains of the south west monsoon. In the remaining 33 districts nature demands the assistance of art in the collection, storage, and distribution of the condensed moisture of the heavens. In some of these 33 districts, however, as in the northern coast area, the periodical rains fall more regularly than in others, while in several of these the rivers running eastward, swelled by the south-west monsoon rains, are utilised in the fertilisation of districts in which the natural moisture is defective.

‘AMRUTANJAN’ Once tried always tried.

The chief staples of the Presidency are rice, cholam (a kind of maize), cumboo (a kind of millet), ragi and varagu amongst food-grains; ~~gingelly, sesamut, oil-seeds, and chillies~~; tobacco, sugar-cane, plantains, and betel leaf amongst garden crops. ~~Coccoloba~~ is a special crop, is cultivated to an extent almost equalling that of ragi. The trees most grown for their fruits are cocoanuts, areca-nut, jack, tamarind, and mango. Rice, as might be expected, is produced in largest quantities in the alluvial and highly-irrigated districts of Tanjore, East and West Godavari, Krishna and Guntur on the East Coast, and in Malabar and Kasara on the West Coast, where the rainfall is as abundant as to render irrigation by artificial means almost unnecessary. Cholam is most abundant in the table-land districts of Bellary and Kurnool, while cumboo and ragi are most extensively grown in the other inland, but less elevated, districts, such as Salem and Coimbatore. Coconut palms flourish most luxuriantly on the banks of the ~~extensive~~ ~~and~~ ~~backwaters~~ or salt-water lagoons of the western districts of Malabar and Kasara and areca-nut palms in the valleys intersecting the lower slopes of the Western Ghats.

Within the Madras Presidency there are six well-defined linguistic boundaries. In the northernmost district of Ganjam is included a portion of the Oriya-speaking population. The Telugu language is commonly spoken by the people of the Northern Circars, and in a portion of the Nizam's country, Kurnool, Cuddapah, part of North Arcot, Nellore and some parts of Bellary. Tamil is the common language of the districts from a few miles north of Madras to the extreme south of the eastern division of the peninsula. Malayalam is the language of the Indian States of Travancore, Cochin and the Malabar district. Tulu is spoken in a limited portion of the South Kanara district, and Canarese in certain portions of the Bellary, Coimbatore, Salem and South Kanara districts. Besides these six Dravidian languages, the hill tribes of certain districts have dialects of their own, also of a Dravidian type. From time to time colonies of Telugu and Canarese-speaking people have found their way down to the southern or Tamil country. In some cases they have been invited to settle as cultivators in localities where waste lands are available. In others they followed probably in the train of invading armies. In the same way people from the Mahabara country have settled in the south, and in all the large towns there are colonies of silk weavers from Gujerat, who still speak a language of their own amongst themselves. Along the border lines of the prevailing languages two or more languages are indifferently spoken by the people. There is no instance of the Tamil people pushing their colonies up towards the north. The migrations appear to have been always from north to south. In the large military cantonments of Secunderabad and Bangalore there are Tamil-speaking populations, but these people have settled as camp followers.

The earliest inhabitants of Southern India of whom any traces now remain were the prehistoric builders of the cairns, barrows, kistveens, and dolmens found in many districts; the makers of the rude stone weapons discovered in considerable quantities on the tops of the rocky hills of the Deccan; and the authors of the more finished utensils and implements now in course of excavation at the wonderful burial-grounds which have recently been discovered in Adilshahpur and other places in Tinnevely. Except that they may be declared to have passed from a Palaeolithic, through a Neolithic, to an Iron age, little is known or can be conjectured regarding these ancient peoples. Presumably they were of the stock named Dravidian, which is distinguished from more northern ethnic families by the comparatively low stature, its dark skin, its high nasal index, and its use of the languages, so predominant in the Presidency, known as the Dravidian family.

The great gulf which yawns between them and the earliest historical data is vaguely bridged by legends and traditions, such as the story of Rama's expedition through the Deccan and across Adam's Bridge to Ceylon in quest of his wife Sita (whom Ravana, the ten-headed king of that island, had carried off), or the many local parables which remain in the keeping of the temple priests. Some of these legends have been held to refer to the great immigration of conquerors and settlers from Northern India which undoubtedly took place at an early period, but they are scarcely serious history, and not until the Muhammadans appear upon the scene is the literature of the country of any real value to the analyst.

The gap is filled to some extent by the many inscriptions on stone which record gifts to temples, by coins, and by grants of bygone dynasties engraved on copper. The transcription and examination of these is now proceeding under expert supervision and in a systematic fashion, but the work has not yet proceeded far enough to enable any final account to be written of the early fortunes of the South of India.

The earliest historical evidence is that furnished by the edicts of the Buddhist Emperor Asoka which have been discovered at Jaugada in Ganjam and at a village in Mysore close to the border of Bellary. These perhaps go to show that about 250 B.C. at least the northern half of the Presidency formed part of the Mauryan dominions.

The south of it was divided between the Pandyas of Madura, who governed the extreme south, the Cholas, who held the country north and east of them, and the Cheras (Kerabs), who ruled the West Coast. At some period subsequent to Asoka, the dynasty of the Pallavas of Conjevaram rose into prominence and extended its sway along the East Coast as far north as Orissa.

In the north, Mauryans were succeeded by the Andhras. They were Buddhists, and by them were erected the splendid marble stupas at Amaravati and the other Buddhist buildings of which the ruins occur in Krishna and Guntur Districts. Their curious leaden coins are still found in some numbers in those parts. About the fifth century after Christ the Chalukyas, who were immigrants from more northern parts, began to grow in importance in the Western Deccan. In the seventh century they divided into two branches, a Western and an Eastern. The latter conquered the Pallava Kings of the Vengi country—the tract between the Krishna and Godavari rivers and south of Kallakurichi—and settled in that locality, while the former remained in the region of the Narmada.

Alongside it, in the south-west of the Deccan and the north of Mysore, the Kadambas, whose capital was at Shivanas in North Kanara, now rose to power. They defeated the Pallavas of Conjevaram and continually harassed the Western Chalukyas.

The latter were also vigorously opposed by the Rashtrakutas of Malkhed in the present Nizam's Dominions, who eventually overthrew them and were supreme in the Western Deccan from about A. D. 750 to 960.

At the end of this period the Western Chalukyas once more rose to prominence and maintained their position until A. D. 1189, when they were finally overthrown by two of their own feudatories, the Yadavas of Deogiri and the Hoyasas of Domesamundra, the modern Halebidu in Mysore.

Meanwhile, in the south and the east, the Cholas of Tanjore were rapidly extending their boundaries. By 999 they acquired by conquest the whole of the coast possessions of the Eastern Chalukyas. They had already subverted both the Pallavas and the Pandyas, annexing the dominions of the former and controlling the destinies of the latter. These events form the first great landmark in the history of Southern India. But the Chola expansion westwards was checked by the Hoyasas, and towards the end of the twelfth century their territory in the north was taken from them by the Ganapathis of Warangal (Orangal).

Thus at the end of the thirteenth century the three greatest dynasties of Southern India were the Hoyasas, the Cholas, and the Pandyas. At the beginning of the 14th century, however, a new power—the Muslims of Delhi—appeared suddenly upon the scene. In 1393 the ruling king of the Khilji dynasty of Delhi sent his first expedition into the Deccan, and seven years later, a date which makes the second landmark in the history of Southern India, the armies of his general, Malik Kafur, swept like a torrent down the peninsula. The Yadavas, Hoyasas, Ganapathis, Cholas, and Pandyas were in turn defeated and suppressed. Anarchy followed over the whole south—Muslim men Governors, representatives of the old ruling families, and local chiefs struggling for supremacy, until out of the confusion rose the kingdom of Vijayanagar, which from its capital at Hampi in the Bellary District for the next two centuries and a half checked the southward expansion of Muhammadan power.

The rise of this dynasty was dramatically rapid. The several Hindu chieftains everywhere admitted the sovereignty the more willingly in that the only alternative was a despotism of Muhammadans and from chiefs its rulers quickly grew into kings, and from kings into emperor. Within a century and a half from the foundation of the capital at Vijayanagar they governed the whole of the peninsula from the Kistna to Cape Comorin. The empire reached the height of its power under Krishna Deva (1509-1530), the greatest of monarchs, contemporary with Henry VIII of England.

The chief opponents of Vijayanagar had been the Sultans of the Bhamini dynasty, founded in 1347 by a rebellious subordinate of Delhi, whose capital was at Gulbarga in what is now the Nizam's Dominions. This line crumbled to pieces at the end of the fifteenth century and was followed by five separate Muslim kingdoms. For many years the mutual jealousies and animosities of these rendered it easy for the Vijayanagar kings to play off one of them against the other; but at length they combined, and in 1565 at the great battle of Talikota, the third historical landmark, they utterly defeated the Hindu forces and followed up their victory by razing the city of Vijayanagar to the ground and forcing its king to flee. The empire never recovered from the blow. One by one its local governors threw off their allegiance, and established themselves as independent rulers, and Southern India passed through a second period of anarchy, during which all local powers fell in many places into the hands of small chieftains called Naiks or Poligars, who usually harassed their subjects mercilessly.

The only governors of the fallen empire who established themselves in any permanency were the Naiks of Madure, and the suzerainty of the rest of the country fell gradually into the hands of the Sultans of Bijapur and Golconda. The former marched upon the country directly south of the Tungabhadra river and the latter took a line further to the eastward. By the middle of the seventeenth century the Bijapur Sultans had possessed themselves of most of the Carnatic which lay above the Ghats and of much territory below.

It was under this dynasty that the Marathas first came into prominence. Serving first as military vassals they eventually, in 1686, revolted openly against them and under the famous Shivaji established their independence.

In 1686 Aurangzeb, the Mughal emperor of Delhi, marched south to reduce Bijapur and Golconda, and to crush the growing power of the Marathas. He took Bijapur in that year and Golconda in the next, and the territories which had been won by these two kingdoms from the Hindus thus became a portion of the Mughal empire. But with the Marathas he was less successful. He seized Shivaji's son, Sambhaji, and put him to death in 1689, but the power of the race increased rather than declined, and they levied tribute throughout the Deccan and in other parts of the South as well, and do not disappear from Madras history until the beginning of the nineteenth century.

In 1794 Asaf Jah, the Viceroy whom the Mughal emperor had appointed to govern his conquests in the South and who bore the title of Nizam ul Mulk, threw off all real allegiance to his masters and made himself virtually independent. He and his successors are known in history as the Nizams or Subahdars of the Deccan, and their chief subordinate in the South was the Nawab of the Carnatic, otherwise called the Nawab of Arcot.

Meanwhile the Hindu kingdom Mysore, which had arisen from small beginnings on the ruins of the Vijayanagar empire, had become more and more powerful, owing largely to the exploits of a soldier of fortune in its army named Haider Ali. By methods which were none too scrupulous he rapidly gained supreme authority in the kingdom, and in 1761 he usurped its throne and began with more energy than ever to extend its possessions.

In the middle of the eighteenth century, therefore, the native powers in the South which had to be reckoned with were the Marathas under the Peshwa, Mysore under Haider Ali, and the Marathas. Meanwhile, however, various European powers had begun to establish a footing within its limits.

The Portuguese were the first nation to form a settlement there. By the beginning of the sixteenth century they had occupied Calicut and Goa on the West Coast. Vasco da Gama, the pioneer of maritime adventure, had visited that part of the country as early as 1498. For a century they prospered, but they were feebly supported at home after the union of Portugal with Spain, and eventually fell before the progress of the Dutch.

From the beginning of the seventeenth century the Dutch, who had long been powerful in the Eastern Archipelago, settled at Pulicat, Badras and other places along the East and West Coasts. They rapidly ousted the Portuguese; but their ideas were commercial rather than imperial, the remoteness of their headquarters at Batavia hampered them, and they soon dropped out of the race.

Another European nation attracted by the wealth of the East was the French. Their original settlement had been in Madagascar. This they abandoned in 1672 in favour of Mauritius and Bourbon. Later they came on to India, and in 1674 François Martin founded and fortified the town of Pondicherry, which has since been the French headquarters in the peninsula. In 1748 the famous Duplex succeeded to the governorship of the place, and rendered it the one European settlement in the South which was capable of offering any real resistance to the English East India Company.

The earliest settlements of the English within the Presidency were at Nizampatnam and Masulipatnam, at which places Captain Hutton of the ship Globe landed in 1611 and founded factories. Five years later settlements were planted on the West Coast at Orangaour and Olluit by the permission of the Zamorin. In 1619 another settlement was effected at Pulicat, but the jealousy of the Dutch compelled its abandonment. In 1623, two years after the massacre of the English by the Dutch at Amboyna, the Company's agents at Batavia in Java despatched a vessel to Armagon in the present Madras District and set up a small trading establishment there.

In 1639, owing partly to the annoyances caused to the Company's officers at Masulipatnam by the subordinates of the Sultan of Golconda, within whose territories that place lay, and partly to the desire to possess a factory nearer to the real centres of the weaving and dyeing industries of the country, François Day, the chief official of Armagon, sought for and obtained through a subordinate of the last representative of the old Vijayanagar dynasty, who was then living at Chandragiri in North Arcot, the grant of the land on which Fort St. George now stands. A small fort was at once erected, and two years later the place became the Company's headquarters on the Coromandel Coast. In 1638 Fort St. George was raised to the rank of a Presidency, independent of Batavia, and in 1648 the factories in Bengal were placed under its orders. In 1690 the Company purchased from the Marathas the land on which Fort St. David, near Cuddalore, now stands, and at the end of the century there were also English factories within the present limits of the Madras Presidency at Porto Novo, Madapollam, Vissapattam, Anjengo, Tellicherry and Calicut.

Up to 1740 the Company's agents had managed to keep themselves clear of the wars between the various native governments which were going on around them, and free from serious trouble with the other Europeans who had stations in the South. But in 1741 the war of the Austrian Succession lit the first flame of a conflict between them and the French, which lasted until the capture of Pondicherry in 1761, followed by the Peace of Paris in 1763.

The first notable event in this contest was the capture of Madras by La Bourdonnais in 1746. Under the orders of Duplex, who was then in command of the French possessions, the Governor and the chief merchants were taken prisoners to Pondicherry. Fort St. David became for the time the Company's headquarters in the South. Madras was, however, restored to the English under the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1748, and the Company set themselves vigorously to work to render it more defensible than it had been at the time of the French attack.

Peace being declared between the two nations, the forces which each of them had collected in the South engaged on opposite sides in the struggles between the native powers. Each espoused the cause of a different claimant for the Nawabship of the Carnatic, and each supported its own candidate for the office of Peshwa of the Deccan. The stirring details of the severe conflicts which ensued fill many pages in the histories of the period, and concern themselves with the exploits of many Englishmen—Olive and Byre Coote among the number—whose names will ever be famous.

In 1767 news reached India that war had again broken out in Europe between England and France and the forces of the two nations in the South were once more at each other's throats. The advantage at first lay with the French. They captured successively the English Forts of Vissapattam, Fort St. David and Devicottai (which last had been granted to the Company by the Marathas of Tanjore) and in 1768 they besieged Madras. Here, however, they were unsuccessful and eventually withdrew and meanwhile Col. Forde, who had been despatched by Olive from Bengal to the Northern Circars, had signally defeated them at Condore and captured Masulipatnam. This victory resulted in the cession to the Company of a considerable tract round about the latter town which led eventually, after many vicissitudes, to the whole of the Northern Circars being granted to the British by the Mughal emperor in 1768. Farther south the struggle culminated in the battle of Wandiwash, in which Byre Coote utterly routed the French under Lally. Gingee, Arcot and other minor French settlements fell in quick succession; and in May 1769, the English were in a position to attack Pondicherry itself. Lally called in the help of Haider Ali of Mysore, but events in his own territory prevented the latter from taking any important part in the contest. Pondicherry surrendered in January 1769. With the other French possessions, it was restored by the Peace of Paris in 1763. Thus the power of the French in Southern India was never again formidable, and it was thus in the Madras Presidency that the question was decided which of the European nations should be supreme in India.

We have now reached the middle of the 18th century, when, as has been said, the native powers which had to be reckoned with were the Mussulmans under the Nizam of the Deccan and the Nawab of the Carnatic, Mysore under Haider Ali and the Marhattas. The only European force of any consequence was that of the English, and between these four the struggle for the possession of the peninsula now lay. The Nizam and the Marhattas invited the English to assist them in clipping the wings of Haider who was encroaching upon their territories. Haider, however, bought off both Mussulmans and Marhattas, and then made a descent upon the English possessions in the Carnatic. Fighting followed on both coasts of the Peninsula, but the operations were indecisive and peace was eventually concluded in 1769 by a treaty based on mutual restitution of conquests.

In 1780 broke out the next war with Haider, who was again befriended by both the Mussulmans and the Marhattas. He descended upon the plains of the Carnatic in July of that year, burning crops and devastating villages, so that a cordon of blackened desert was formed all round the town of Madras, from Pulicat on the north to Pondicherry on the south and extending 60 miles inland.

Warren Hastings, then Governor-General of Bengal, despatched Sir Byre Cooke to Madras with reinforcements. His ability soon caused the tide of fortune to return, but age had sapped his old energy and it was not until after three years of severe fighting in every part of the peninsula that peace was at length made in 1784. As before, the basis of the treaty was a mutual restitution of conquests. Haider Ali had died during the operations in 1782, and was succeeded by his son, Tippu Sultan, a man in every way his inferior.

Six years later war once more ensued with Mysore, Tippu having provoked hostilities by raising the native state of Travancore, which was in alliance with the British. Lord Cornwallis, the Governor-General, commanded the forces in the field in person, and this time the British were assisted by the Nizam and the Marhattas. After two years' fighting, Seringapatam, the Mysore capital, was besieged, and thereupon Tippu, in 1792, agreed to cede to the allies one-half of his territories, and to pay an indemnity of three crores and fifty lakhs of rupees. The British share of the territory thus ceded included the country round Dindigul and the districts of Salem and Malabar.

Tippu then began to intrigue to draw to his own side the allies of the British, and even sent an embassy to Mauritius to invoke the aid of the French. Lord Mornington, now Governor-General, realised the danger to British supremacy in India which such action involved, and came south to deal with the situation. The Nizam and the Marhattas again joined the British. Tippu, after a feeble resistance in the field, retired to Seringapatam. The fortress was stormed on May 4th, 1799, and Tippu's body was found among the slain. A representative of the Hindu dynasty, whose rights had been usurped by Haider in 1761, was placed upon the throne of Mysore proper, and the rest of Tippu's territories were divided between the allies. The share of the British included Kanara, Coimbatore and Wynad.

In the same year 1799 the Marhatta Raja of the principality at Tanjore, in return for aid received in gaining the throne, executed a treaty resigning the administration of his kingdom to the Company in consideration of an annual payment. In 1800 the Nizam ceded to the Company, in return for a subsidiary force to be established in his dominions, all the territories he had acquired from Mysore at the partitions of 1762 and 1792. These tracts included the present districts of Bellary, Anantapur, Cuddapah, and part of Karnool, which are still known as the 'Ceded Districts'. When Seringapatam fell in 1799 a treasonable correspondence had been discovered between Tippu and the Nawab of the Carnatic, who was nominally the ally of the Company. In consequence, after many negotiations, a treaty was concluded with the Nawab in 1801, under which he resigned the government of his country to the Company, but retained the titular dignity and received a considerable stipend. The existing representative of the family bears the title of Prince of Arcot and has the position of the first native nobleman of Madras.

The Company had thus obtained possession of the whole of the present Madras Presidency from Cape Comorin to the Northern Circars, except a part of the Karnool District, the Danish station of Tranquebar, the existing French settlements at Pondicherry and other places, and the territories of the five native states still in subordination to the Madras Government, the history of which will be found in the separate articles regarding them.

In 1839 internal mismanagement and treasonable intrigues on the part of the Nawab of Karnool led to the annexation of his country. Tranquebar was purchased from the Danes in 1845. In 1863 the district of North Kanara was transferred to Bombay. Since then no alterations of importance in the limits of the Presidency have occurred.

The territories thus rapidly acquired at the end of the 18th and beginning of the 19th century were in most cases reduced to order with little trouble. The poligars in the Ceded Districts had to be suppressed by an armed force, and the turbulence of those in the extreme south necessitated more than one regular campaign. In the Northern Circars the hill chiefs gave trouble as late as 1836. The last occasion on which the employment of regular troops was necessary was the rebellion in the Rampa hill tracts of the Godavari Agency in 1849.

After the palaeolithic and neolithic implements which have been discovered in scattered sites, the oldest objects of archaeological interest in the Presidency are the pre-historic barrows, cairns, kistvans and dolmens found in almost all districts, the first three of which frequently contain pottery, ashes, arms, implements, personal ornaments etc. The chief remains of historic times consist (beside coins) of inscriptions, temples and forts. During the last twenty years much has been done to survey, describe, and preserve these links with the past. In 1863 the first list of antiquities in the Presidency was published and about the same time Archaeological Survey in charge of a specialist was set on foot, while a few years later a Government Epigraphist was appointed. These two officers make annual reports of the results of their works and also publish the more important of their discoveries in the Imperial Series of Reports of the Archaeological Survey of India and in South Indian Inscriptions.

the Archaeological Institute and elsewhere. The Epigraphist is systematically researching and publishing the countless inscriptions on the thousands of temples in the Presidency, and his work is doing much to elucidate the existing darkness of its early history. The Archaeological Survey embraces both pre-historic and historic remains. Such pre-historic antiquities as the Madras Museum contains including the well-known collection made in the Nilgiris by Mr. Bristow, have been catalogued and described by Mr. Bruce Foote and lately some extensive burial places had been discovered at Adichemalur in Tinnevely, the extraordinary variety and richness of the finds made in which are referred to in the notice of that place.

The Madras Presidency, according to existing boundary divisions, is made up of 26 districts namely, — Northern, including Ganjam, Visakhapatnam, East Godavari, West Godavari, Kistna and Guntur; East Central, including Nellore, Madras, Chingleput, Chittoor, North Arcot and South Arcot; Ceded Districts, including Kurnool, Bellary, Onddappah and Anantapur, West Central, including Salem, Coimbatore and the Nilgiris; Southern, including Tanjore, Trichinopoly, Madras, Tanjore and Tinnevely; West Coast, including South Kanara, and Malabar.

The first six districts are known as the "Northern Circars." Prior to 1859 and 1860 these Circars consisted of five districts, but in that year the three districts of Rajahmundry, Masulipatam and Guntur were divided to form the Godavari and Kistna Districts, with effect from 1st October 1860, the latter have been again split up into three districts, known as Godavari, Kistna and Guntur. To the first have been added the Nagar, Alibekacherla Taluks of the Sironcha Tahsil of the Chondra District in the Central Provinces and to the last, the Ongole Taluk which belonged to the Nellore District. The northern districts were formerly under the Nizam's Government, and in that time the divisions were as follows: Guntur, Condapilly, Ellore, Rajahmundry and Chinnacole. They came finally into British possession in the year 1858, by the payment to the Nizam's Government of Rs. 11,66,566 in lieu of an annual tribute. When these districts fell into the hands of the East India Company they consisted chiefly of large estates, held by renters or Zemindars, of lands called Havally, which were the old demesnes, or private estates, of former rulers; and of tracts near the principal towns which had been resumed by the Muhammadan Governors of the districts, and appropriated for the support of their numerous bands of soldiers and public establishments. For some years prior to 1855-56 these Northern Circars were under the charge of a separate Commissioner, but each district had then also its own revenue and judicial establishments. The appointment of Commissioner of the Northern Circars was abolished in June 1856. The Kistna district was split up into the districts of West Godavari and Kistna.

The part of the Presidency, usually known as the Carnatic appears to have been originally formed of three divisions, namely, Northern, extending from the river Pennar to the river Gundagama, and consisting of a portion of the Nellore District; Central, extending from the Coleroon to the Pennar river, and containing a portion of Trichinopoly, Chingleput, North Arcot, South Arcot, Madras and Nellore districts; and Southern consisting of a portion of the Trichinopoly and the whole of Tanjore, Tinnevely and Madras districts. These districts came into the possession of the British between the years 1799 and 1801.

In the year 1859-60 the two districts of Madras Town and Chingleput were amalgamated into a single district, the collection of Sea Customs revenue being separately provided for. In the year 1870 the Chingleput district was again divided as before leaving the administration of the Madras Town district in the hands of the Sea Customs Collector. The Chingleput District was obtained from the Nawab of Arcot in 1783 in return for services rendered to him and his father by the Company. The grant was confirmed by the Great Moghul in 1768, and for a long time the district was known as the 'Jaghire' of the East India Company. The site of the Town of Madras was obtained in the year 1660, by a grant from the descendants of the Vijayanagar rulers, subsequently confirmed by the Moghul Government.

The districts of Bellary and Cuddapah were ceded to the English by the Nizam in the year 1800 for the maintenance, in perpetuity of a body of troops known as the Hyderabad Subsidiary Force, and as payment for troops furnished during the Mysore wars. The territories so made over are still known as the Ceded Districts.

In 1800 the rights of sovereignty exercised by the Nizam over the Kurnool country as Subedar of the Deccan became vested in the East India Company. The Nizam in the treaty of partition, gave over to the British all his possessions south of the Tungabhadra and Kistna rivers below their junction. At this time the ruler of the Kurnool country paid a yearly tribute of one lakh of rupees to the Nizam. In 1839 the Kurnool district, through the rebellion of the then ruler of the country, was placed under British administration.

The districts of Salem and Coimbatore came into British possession, the former in 1798 by the Treaty of Seringapatam, and the latter in 1799 after the final defeat of Tippu and the partition of his territory between the British, the Nizam, and the legitimate successor to the Mysore Government—the Maharajah of Mysore.

The Nilgiri Hills, formerly a taluk of the Coimbatore District, was constituted a separate district under Act I of 1868.

The two districts of Malabar and Kanara, on the western side of the Ghats, fell into the possession of the British in 1792 and 1799 respectively. Kanara was in 1859 divided into North and South Kanara for administrative purposes, and in 1860 North Kanara was transferred, for convenience of administration, from the Madras to the Bombay Presidency. The taluk of Coondapoor, which formerly belonged to North Kanara, is now attached to South Kanara.

THE GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS

HISTORY OF THE ADMINISTRATION

The Executive Civil Government of the Madras Presidency is subject to the superintendence, direction and control of the Governor-General in Council. Under the Government of India Act, 1915 as amended by the Government of India Act, 1919, rules have been framed under which certain subjects have been declared to be provincial and these again have been divided into reserved and transferred subjects; the administration in respect of reserved subjects is in the hands of the Governor in Council and in respect of transferred subjects in those of the Governor acting with his ministers. The term "Local Government" means the Governor in Council or the Governor acting with his ministers, as the case may be. The Council includes the Governor, who is the President, and four members of whom one is appointed by the Governor as the Vice-President; one of the members at least must be a person who, at the time of his appointment, has been for at least twelve years in the service of the Crown in India. The Governor and the members of the Executive Council are appointed by the Crown. The terms for which they may hold office are not limited by any legal enactment. The Secretary of State has directed that a member of the Executive Council should hold office for five years exclusive of any time during which he draws less than full pay, not having himself been granted leave. The ministers are appointed by the Governor and hold office during his pleasure; but they must not be members of the Executive Council or officials, and no minister can hold office for a longer period than six months unless he is, or becomes, an elected member of the local legislature. When a vacancy occurs in the office of the Governor and there is no successor on the spot to supply the vacancy, the Vice-President or, if he is absent, the senior member of the Executive Council assumes office as acting Governor. If a vacancy occurs in the office of a member of the Executive Council and there is no successor present on the spot, it may be filled by the Governor in Council by the appointment as temporary member of any person qualified for such appointment. The Governor may make rules and orders for the transaction of business in his Executive Council and with his ministers. On questions brought before the Executive Council the opinion of the majority ordinarily prevails, the Governor or other presiding member having a second or casting vote in the event of an equal division of opinion; but when any measure is proposed which in his judgment affects the safety, tranquillity or interests of the province or any part thereof, and he differs from the opinion of the majority of the members of the Executive Council the Governor has power to act on his own authority and responsibility. The Governor in Council is not empowered to declare war or to make treaties and has no immediate control over the military administration of the Presidency. He corresponds directly with the Secretary of State except in certain cases. The authority of the Local Government is not superseded by the presence in its province of the Governor-General. The Local Government is empowered to undertake works of public utility, not being railways, which are not expected to cost more than fifty lakhs of rupees. The Governor in Council, or the Governor acting with the ministers, possesses all the civil patronage of the Presidency which is not retained by the Secretary of State or delegated to subordinate members of the administration. Despatches to the Secretary of State in the reserved departments are signed by the Governor and all the members of the Executive Council; despatches in the transferred departments are signed by His Excellency alone. Letters addressed to the Government of India and all orders of the Local Government are signed by an officer of the Secretariat. All correspondence regarding public business reaches Government through the Secretariat.

The year 1921 witnessed the introduction of the Reforms, which brought about a complete change in the financial relations between the Central and Provincial Governments, involving important changes in the general form of accounts and in the prescribed major heads. Till then the Provincial Governments had no separate revenues of their own, their resources being obtained mainly from a share of divided heads of revenue and from lump assignments from Imperial revenues. The transactions of the Imperial and Provincial sections were accordingly combined, but shown under distinct divisions, against each major head of revenue and expenditure, in the general accounts and estimates. Now, however, definite sources of revenue have been allocated to the Provincial Government and there has been a complete separation between the revenues and the expenditure of the Central and Provincial Governments, though all moneys received from sources of provincial revenue are paid to the public account of which the Governor-General in Council continues to be the custodian. The estimates and accounts of the Government of India now embrace the transactions of the Central Government only under each head of account, the transactions of the Provincial Government appearing in them merely as a net addition to or withdrawal from their banking account with the Central Government. The Provincial Government is concerned with central subjects only in so far as they act as agents of the Government of India in their administration and in such capacity are vested with certain financial powers.

Prior to 1921 all items of receipts and expenditure which were creditable or debitable to Government were either Imperial or Provincial according as they appertained to the Supreme or to the Local Government. This classification had no statutory basis and depended upon the terms of the

Even a school boy knows what "AMRUTANJAN" is

"Provincial Settlements" as they have been called, were introduced by the Government of India and the Local Government and approved by the Secretary of State for the distribution of revenue and expenditure between these two Governments were designated. The history of these provincial settlements, which may be divided into five periods, represents a succession of expedients by which the Central Government secured from local sources of revenue such share as, added to the profits of commercial departments and several other local sources of income, was available to the true incidence, was necessary to enable them to carry on the services which they must of necessity administer.

The permanent settlement was in force until 1881-82, when the complete separation between the finances of the Central Government and those of the Provincial Governments, which was found to be an essential corollary of the constitutional reforms, took shape in the system now prevailing. Divided hands were abolished and each source of revenue became either wholly central or wholly provincial, land revenue, excise and stamps being made to contribute the major part of the provincial incomes; but the resources left to the Central Government under this arrangement being insufficient to enable it to balance its budget, contributions are levied from the provinces to diminish the deficit. Under the statutory rule governing the matter, out of a total of 984 lakhs of rupees contributed to the Central Government by all the provinces the initial contribution of the Madras Presidency was fixed at Rs. 348 lakhs. The rule provides that the total of the contributions shall not exceed Rs. 988 lakhs and that if it is reduced below that figure the reduction shall be in the contributions of those provinces only which are now called upon to pay more than a certain specified proportion. Any reduction would therefore benefit Madras whose payment is now most in excess of the proportion to be aimed at, but there has hitherto been no reduction and the levy of such a large contribution as Rs. 348 lakhs has been the subject of strong and continued protests.

The power of borrowing was never conceded to Provincial Governments prior to the Reforms. That power has now been conferred by section 59 (1)(a) of the Government of India Act under which a Local Government may, on behalf and in the name of the Secretary of State in Council, raise money on the security of the revenues allocated to it under the Act and make proper assurances for that purpose. The only restriction on the powers of Local Governments to raise loans is that no loan shall be raised, in the case of loans to be raised in India, without the sanction of the Governor-General in Council or, in the case of loans to be raised outside India, of the Secretary of State in Council, and in sanctioning the raising of the loan the Governor-General in Council or the Secretary of State may specify the amount of the issue and may or all of the conditions under which the loan shall be raised. In practice it has been found more convenient for the Local Government to borrow from the Government of India than to go into the market separately.

In the pre-reform period the Government of India completely controlled the imposition of any taxation in British India apart from local taxes which were raised by Local Bodies. The scheduled taxes rules framed under section 80-A (3) (a) of the Government of India Act have, for the first time, given local legislature powers of taxation without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in respect of certain specified matters. Prior to the introduction of the Reforms, capital expenditure on major irrigation works was provided entirely by the Imperial Government either from revenues or from loans. The financing of famine expenditure has also been placed on a new basis under the Reforms.

Revenues.—The principal sources of revenue and the objects on which Provincial funds are expended can be learnt from an examination of the Provincial accounts for the year. The total revenues (excluding opening balance) received during the financial year 1st April, 1921 to 31st March, 1922 amounted to Rs. 2,465.85 lakhs of which the amounts credited to "Central" and "Provincial" were respectively Rs. 1,261.83 lakhs and Rs. 1,178.42 lakhs. These figures have been arrived at after adding to "Central" and deducting "Provincial" the Provincial contribution of Rs. 348 lakhs to the Government of India and the assignment to the Government of India of Rs. 85.81 lakhs on account of income-tax adjustments. The amount expended from Provincial funds was Rs. 1,280.34 lakhs, leaving a deficit of Rs. 106.92 lakhs. Nearly two-thirds of the Provincial revenue was derived from Land Revenues which amounted to Rs. 736.53 lakhs. The next important source of revenue was Excise which yielded Rs. 468.16 lakhs. Other important items of revenue were Stamps Rs. 159.85 lakhs, Forests, Rs. 48.57 lakhs and Registration, Rs. 33.56 lakhs.

Expenditure.—The principal items of expenditure were Land Revenue, Rs. 129.04 lakhs, General Administration, Rs. 134.06 lakhs, Police, Rs. 190.47 lakhs, Education, Rs. 149.79 lakhs, Civil Works, Rs. 129.78 lakhs, Administration of Justice, Rs. 94.18 lakhs, Forests, Rs. 51.94 lakhs, Medical, Rs. 24.46 lakhs, Excise, Rs. 80.88 lakhs, Superannuation Allowances and Pensions, Rs. 45.67 lakhs, Stationery and Printing, Rs. 24.26 lakhs, Public Health, Rs. 26.63 lakhs and Agriculture, Rs. 25.15 lakhs.

Budget.—The procedure in connexion with the framing of Provincial budgets and their passage through the Legislative Council has, under the recent Reforms, been materially changed in certain respects. For example, the sanction of the Government of India is no longer required. The procedure laid down in Part II of the Legislative Council rules is briefly summarised below. A statement of the estimated annual expenditure revenues of the provinces referred to as the "budget," is presented to the Council on a day appointed by the Governor. A separate demand has to be made in respect of the grant proposed by each department of the Government, and this demand should first contain a statement of the total grant proposed and then a statement of the detailed estimate under each grant divided into items. The budget is then dealt with by the Council in two stages, a general discussion and the voting of demands for grants. The general discussion begins on a day appointed by the Governor and continues till the day before the budget was presented, and is continued for such time as the Governor may allow for this purpose. The discussion may concern the budget as a whole, or any question of principle involved therein, but no motion may be moved at this stage, nor may the budget be voted upon. Then, after an interval during which motions for the reduction or omission of grants are submitted, discussion of demands follows for which a maximum of 15 days may be allotted. If the Legislative Council votes a reduction or omission of a demand relating to a reserved subject, it is open to His Excellency the Governor to restore the provision by giving a certificate that the expenditure provided for by the demand is essential to the discharge of his responsibility for the subject, but no such action can be taken when a demand pertaining to a transferred department is affected.

Committee.—Under a statutory rule a Committee on Public Accounts has been established to scrutinise the audit and appropriation accounts of the province, and to satisfy itself that the money voted by the Council has been spent within the scope of the demand granted by the Council. It is its duty to bring to the notice of the Council every re-appropriation from one grant to another grant, every re-appropriation within a grant which is not made in accordance with the rules regulating the functions of the Finance Department or which has the effect of increasing the expenditure on an item, the provision for which has been specially reduced by a vote of the Council, and expenditure which the Finance Department wishes to bring to the notice of the Council. An advisory Finance Committee has also been constituted to examine all proposals for new expenditure before they are placed before the Council.

The control of the Local Government over the funds at their disposal is limited by certain rules which prescribe that the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council is necessary before expenditure can be incurred on certain accounts. In this matter, a clear distinction has been drawn between powers to sanction and incur expenditure on transferred subjects and powers in relation to expenditure on reserved subjects. The Joint Parliamentary Committee appointed to revise the draft rules made under the Government of India Act of 1919 have stated that it is the intention of that Act that expenditure on transferred subjects should, with the narrowest possible reservations be within the exclusive control of the provincial legislature. The main reservations laid down are that the Secretary of State must retain control over expenditure on transferred subjects which is likely to affect the prospects or rights of the All India services which he recruits and will continue to control; and that he should also retain power to control the purchase of stores in the United Kingdom.

The recognised privilege, under which a person aggrieved by the action of any Government official may ordinarily appeal to the next higher authority by means of a petition and receive back a written reply, either refusing or promising redress, is of much importance in all branches of the administration, but especially in matters dealing with the land revenue, owing to the number of small holdings of land under the ryotwari tenure and the consequent multiplication of details in the administration of the land revenue. An aggrieved person may generally appeal in succession to the officers representing such grade in the department concerned, and may finally address in turn the Local Government, the Government of India and the Secretary of State. The three last named authorities have prescribed certain rules to check the indiscriminate presentation of petitions, in some cases a period is fixed within which the appeal must be filed, in others a restriction is imposed upon the number of authorities an aggrieved official may invoke with references to the status of such official, but there is, in general, no check except where a legal enactment or regulation provides for the appeal and imposes limits on its presentation. The Government do not act as a tribunal of communication for memorials addressed to Parliament.

The Civil Service.—The Executive and, outside the Presidency town, the Judicial administration are in the hands of the Civil Service in which are included both the Imperial branch called the Indian Civil Service and the provincial branch now known as the Madras Civil Service. The Indian Civil Service designated until 1890 the "Covenanted Civil Service of India," is the modern representative of the merchants, factors and writers who were employed under covenant by the East India Company. Until 1919 this service was recruited only by competitive examination in London. During the War, however, there were few recruits and to fill up vacancies power was taken for a limited period under the Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1916, to select candidates by nomination both in England and in India; and further changes have been introduced after the amendment of the Government of India Act in 1919, mainly with a view to provide fresh avenues of recruitment whereby effect may be given to the recommendation made by the Royal Commission on the Public Services in India (1915-1916) and amplified in the Report on Indian Constitutional Reforms that Indians should be appointed more extensively in the public services. The five methods of recruitment now are open competitive examination in London, separate competitive examination in India, nomination in India, appointment from the Indian bar and promotion from the Provincial Civil Service. The Provincial or Madras Civil Service was constituted in 1893 as a result of the recommendations of the Public Service Commission (1896-97) to fill appointments, some of which had till then been reserved for the Indian Civil Service while others had been held by what was then called the Uncovenanted Civil Service. It comprises on the judicial side Subordinate Judges and District Munsifs, recruited for the most part direct to the lower of these ranks from the legal profession and engaged in dealing with civil litigation, and on the executive side Deputy Collectors and Magistrates a few of whom have been recruited by competitive examination or direct nomination, but the majority by promotion from the Subordinate Civil Service. The lower administrative appointments above the ministerial grade form the Subordinate Civil Service.

At least one of the Members of the Executive Council of the Governor of Fort St. George must be a person who at the time of his appointment has been in the service of the Crown in India for at least 15 years and not less than one-third of the Judges of the High Court of Judicature at Madras must be members of the Indian Civil Service, as also, subject to certain exceptions which are noticed below, must be officers holding appointments of the following classes: (a) Secretaries to Government, except in the Public Works Department, (b) Members of, and Secretaries to, the Board of Revenue, (c) District and Sessions Judges and Additional Sessions Judges, and (d) Collectors and District Magistrates. There are a certain number of appointments of Sub-Collector claimed as "superior," the "inferior" appointments being regarded as posts in which officers are trained for positions of independent responsibility. The cadre of the Indian Civil Service also provides for certain other appointments which are not reserved by statute, such as those of the Commissioner of Cango, the Registrar of Co-operative Societies, the Registrar of the High Court, the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Governor, and the Collector of the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore. The Director of Industries and the Provincial Superintendents of Census Operations are usually members of the Indian Civil Service. In special circumstances a person not belonging to the Indian Civil Service may be appointed to one of the posts reserved by statute for that service but every such appointment must be reported to the Secretary of State with the special reasons for making it and it is only provisional until it has been approved by the Secretary of State in Council. Statutory rules were framed however as far back as 1893 under which a certain number of appointments ordinarily so reserved were scheduled as thrown open to members of the Provincial Civil Service and other persons domiciled in India. In the first instance fifteen appointments were thus thrown open to the members of the then newly formed Provincial Civil Service, including two posts of Collector and District Magistrate, four of District and Sessions Judges, one of Secretary to the Board of Revenue and eight of lower rank which have since been assimilated to the corresponding grades of the Provincial Civil Service, e.g., the Deputy Collector's cadre. Additions have subsequently been made to these 'listed' appointments and there are now eleven superior appointments listed, including five in the executive service and six posts of District and Sessions Judge. Of which two have recently been filled by direct nomination from the bar, while several "inferior" appointments such as those of Under Secretaries to Government which were formerly held by members of the Indian Civil Service are occasionally filled otherwise.

Besides the Indian Civil Service, the Imperial Service of the Public Works Department is now included in the Indian Service of Engineers, which is divided into two branches, consisting of officers recruited in Europe and in India. All appointments to the Indian Service of Engineers are made by the Secretary of State. Appointment to the Europe-recruited branch are made on the advice of a selection committee including at least one eminent representative of the engineering profession. Candidates for this branch must produce evidence that they have obtained one of the University degrees prescribed by the Secretary of State or that they have passed sections A and B of the A.M.I.C.E. examination or obtained such other diploma or distinction in engineering or general and technical (theoretical and practical) education as the Secretary of State may decide to accept in any particular case. Appointments to the India-recruited branch are made from two sources—graduates of the College of Engineering, Madras, and selected officers of the Provincial Engineering Service. Officers for the Indian Police Service are recruited by competitive examination in England and in India on the nomination of a selection committee, followed by a competitive examination among the nominees. Officers for the Imperial Agricultural Service are recruited in England and in India on the advice of a selection committee. Special qualifications of a practical and scientific nature are essential both for administrative and for research and instructional posts. Officers for the Imperial Veterinary Service are appointed by the Secretary of State. They must hold a diploma of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons. Officers of the Imperial Forest Service are recruited both in England and in India on the advice of a selection committee and are required to pass through the forestry course at one of the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge or Edinburgh.

Educational qualifications for admission to the Public Service—Admission to Government service in this Presidency is not as a rule dependent on success in a competitive examination but no person can in general be appointed to a post, the sanctioned pay of which is Rs 35 per mensem in the mofussil or Rs 40 per mensem in the Madras City or more unless he possesses the minimum educational qualifications laid down. Various examinations, public or departmental—are also prescribed for particular posts in each department.

Secretariat—There are eight Secretaries to Government, each of whom has ordinarily an Under Secretary and one or more Assistant Secretaries, though the exact arrangements differ in different departments; and at times of pressure a Deputy Secretary may be appointed to assist any one of them. The Chief Secretary deals with the correspondence relating to the Public Judicial, Political and Ecclesiastical Departments; the Second Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, with the administration of the Land Revenue, the Agency tracts and the Laccadives; the Court of Wards and Zemindars, Excise and Stamps; the Secretary in the Law Department with Civil Justice, Emigration, Jails, Legislation Elections Education and Registration; the Finance Secretary besides Finance, with Pensions and Central subjects, viz., Archaeology and Epigraphy, Customs Income-tax Marine, Meteorology, Opium, Post Office and Salt; the Secretary in the Development Department, with Agriculture, Co-operation, Forests, Factories, Industries, Fisheries and Veterinary and the Secretary to Government, Local Self-Government, with matters concerning Local Boards, Municipal Councils, the Medical Department, Public Health, Religious and Charitable Endowments, Tramways and Town planning. The Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, deals with Irrigation, all other Government public works, Depressed Classes and Labour.

The Collectors of Trichinopoly, Bellary and Kurnool are ex-officio Political Agents for the Indian States of Pudukkottai, Sengur and Banganapalle, respectively, and the Collectors of South Arcot, Tanjore, Malabar and Godavari are ex-officio Political Agents for the French Settlements of Pondicherry, Karikal, Mahe and Yanam. A Consul is appointed for Pondicherry and Karikal. The Collector of Madras is ex-officio Paymaster of Carnatic Pensions and in this capacity is under the Political Department of the Government. Officers in the service of Government are occasionally employed in the Indian States with the sanction of the Government.

Administration.—For purposes of general administration the Presidency is divided into 26 districts under the executive administration of a District Collector and Magistrate, who is generally a member of the Indian Civil Service. Each District, with the exceptions of Madras contains two or more divisions or sub-divisions; a division or sub-division again comprises one or more taluks, each of which is under the jurisdiction of a Tahsildar. Some of the Divisional Officers are members of the Indian Civil Service, the majority are, however, Deputy Collectors who are members of the Provincial Civil Service. The Collectors as Revenue Officers are subject directly to the control of the Board of Revenue which consists of the senior officers of the Revenue Department, usually Members of the Indian Civil Service. There are no officers corresponding to Commissioners of Divisions in other provinces who have charge of a number of districts. The revenue jurisdiction of each member of the Board of Revenue extends over the whole Presidency and the work of the Board is distributed among the members under Madras Act I of 1894. But orders on important matters are passed by the full Board. Two members of the Board are Commissioners of Land Revenue, and one of these is also Commissioner of Revenue Settlement; the third is Commissioner of salt and Loan Commissioner. Under the Commissioner of Land Revenue Settlement are the Director of Survey and Settlement Officers in charge of Settlement Farms and thirteen Special Assistant Settlement Officers. The Land Revenue and Settlement offices of the Board which were till recently separate have been amalgamated into one and the combined office is in charge of a Secretary, a member of the Indian Civil Service who is assisted by two Assistant Secretaries, both of whom belong to the Provincial Service.

Criminal Law.—The superior court for civil and criminal judicial work is the High Court at Madras. The High Court may consist of a Chief Justice and as many Judges not exceeding 20, as His Majesty may from time to time think fit and appoint. At present, in addition to the Chief Justice there are 11 puisne Judges. The Judges must be Barristers of five years' standing or members of the Indian Civil Service of ten years' standing who have exercised the powers of a District Judge or like powers for at least three years, or persons who have held judicial office not inferior to that of a subordinate Judge or a Judge of a Small Cause Court for five years or pleader of the High Court of ten years' standing: one third of the Judges including the Chief Justice must be Barristers and one third must be members of the Indian Civil Service. A Judge holds office during His Majesty's pleasure but has power to resign. The Governor in Council may make temporary arrangements if a vacancy occurs in the High Court. A High Court Bench may consist of one or more Judges, a Full Bench being a bench of not less than three of the Judges for the time being present as Judges of the Court. The High Court has framed rules showing what class of work may be disposed of by the various Benches: certain matters may be disposed of by a Judge in Chambers. A list showing the sittings of the various courts during the following week is published every Friday. For the administration of criminal justice there are 25 Sessions Judges in the mofussil, the High Court being the Sessions Court in the Presidency towns. Additional and Assistant Sessions Judges are sometimes appointed to assist courts in which the work is heavy. Sessions are held once a month at the head quarters of each judge but once a quarter in the High Court. Magistrates are of three classes—first, second and third. The powers of a first class Magistrate are more extensive than those of a second class Magistrate; for instance, a first class Magistrate can pass a sentence of imprisonment for two years, while the longest term for which second and third class Magistrates can pass sentences of imprisonment are six months and one month respectively. Village Magistrates are not included in these three classes of Magistrates, they may try persons charged with petty thefts when the value of the property stolen does not exceed one rupee and certain other cases of a trivial nature, they may sentence such persons if found guilty to be confined in the village choultry for a time not exceeding twelve hours. The Collector is always District Magistrate except in the Presidency towns, where there are three stipendiary Magistrates (including the Chief Presidency Magistrate). There are also four benches of Honorary Presidency Magistrates for the trial of petty cases. Divisional Officers are also Sub divisional Magistrates. These Magistrates generally exercise all the powers of a first-class Magistrate as well as certain other special powers. The bulk of the Magisterial work as far as the trial of original cases is concerned is disposed of by second class Magistrates. In taluks where the work is light the Tahsildar and Sarishtadar—head of the taluk office under the Tahsildar—exercise the powers of Magistrates including the power to try cases and to commit accused persons for trial before the Sessions Courts, but in other taluks Stationary Sub Magistrates are appointed for this purpose. Tahsildars are Magistrates of the second class ex officio and Deputy Tahsildars, and Sub Magistrates and taluk Sarishtadars are Magistrates of the third class ex officio. In important mofussil stations retired Government officers with judicial experience are appointed Honorary Magistrates and exercise the ordinary and certain special powers of stipendiary first class Magistrates. Benches of Magistrates are sometimes appointed in mofussil municipalities and other mofussil towns and villages with powers to try regularly cases under certain special Law and with summary powers to dispose of certain other classes of petty cases. Special third class Magistrates, chiefly selected from among Sub Registrars, are appointed to try such petty cases in mofussil towns and villages not within easy reach of a regular Magistrate's court. District Magistrates rarely take cases on their own. Divisional Magistrates dispose of cases triable by a first class but not by a second class Magistrate and of other cases which are of special importance for any reason or in which it is probable that a heavier sentence should be awarded than a subordinate Magistrate is competent to pronounce in view of the previous history of the accused or of the value of the property stolen etc. The District and Divisional Magistrates closely supervise the work of subordinate Magistrates. The judgments of Divisional Magistrates are perused by District Magistrates and Sessions Judges. District Magistrates and Sessions Judges transmit to the High Court copies of their judgments in certain cases. In three cantonments in the Presidency the station staff officers are appointed Magistrates of the third class and also cantonment Magistrates under the Cantonment Act to try petty cases including breaches of cantonment rules.

Police.—The head of the Police Department is the Inspector-General. The Presidency is divided into four Divisions, each of which is under a Deputy Inspector-General of Police. A Superintendent of Police is stationed at the head-quarters of each district and in most districts there are Assistant Superintendents or Deputy Superintendents, who are subordinate to the Superintendent and have under them local charges or are employed as Personal Assistants to the Superintendent. The police service is divided into two kinds—Indian (Imperial) and Madras (Provincial). Recruitment for the former is, as a rule, made both in England and in India, on the results of competitive examinations, open to European British subjects and to such Indians as are admitted by the Secretary of State in exceptional circumstances and to statutory natives of India respectively. Recruitment for the latter (Madras Police) is made partly by the promotion of Inspectors and partly by direct appointment. Under them are the Inspectors, the Sub-Inspectors and the subordinate police establishment. The railways form two separate districts for the purposes of the Police Department, a special force known as Railway Police being employed under two Superintendents for the detection of offences within the railway limits and for the maintenance of order at railway stations. A Criminal Investigation Department is constituted to deal with crime of a special character and criminal organisations of more than local importance. To enable old offenders to be recognised, the finger-prints of all convicts are taken and sent to the Finger Print Bureau at Madras. The Railway Police, the Criminal Investigation Department and the Finger-Print Bureau are under the control of a separate Deputy Inspector-General. A Provincial Training School has been established at Vellore for the training of probationary and Assistant Deputy Superintendents, Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors. General recruits' schools for the training of the constabulary have also been established at Vellore, Vissanagaram, Coimbatore and Ananthapur. The magistracy exercises a limited control over the work of the Police but have no power to initiate departmental punishments or to interfere directly in the internal administration of the department. The Madras City Police is controlled by a Commissioner assisted by two Deputy Commissioners and two Assistant Commissioners. The Commissioner is subject to limited control by the Inspector-General. In each village one or more village watchmen or talayaris are employed, they are under the orders of the village Magistrates and are appointed by Divisional Officers, they are not ordinarily under the control of officers of the Police Department but the Local Government may allow the powers of punishing them usually vested in a Divisional Officer, to be exercised by a Superintendent, or Assistant Superintendent of Police in a specified area. Among other duties, they have to patrol the village at night, to carry the village Magistrate's reports regarding crime and criminals to the nearest police station and Sub Magistrate to watch the cattle pounds and to assist in tracing offenders and detecting crime. They have no uniform but in some districts they are supplied with badges of office. In special localities the talayaris enlisted and controlled by the Police Department are employed to supplement the police in guarding roads. Such additional police are commonly spoken of as punitive police.

Prisons.—The Inspector General of Prisons controls the Jail Department. There are ten central jails (nine permanent and one temporary) and four district jails. The temporary jail was opened to ease the pressure in existing jails caused by the influx of Mappilla prisoners due to the Mappilla rebellion. There are also two special jails—the Borstal School, Tanjore for the confinement of prisoners of ages between 15 and 35, and the Civil Jail, Madras for civil prisoners admitted within the City of Madras. The Reformatory School Uthirapett has also been recently brought under the control of the Jail Department. Central jails are those in which prisoners sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for one year and upwards and prisoners sentenced to transportation are confined; they also serve the purpose of district jails for the districts in which they are situated. Two central jails one for the Tamil and the other for the Telugu districts, have been set apart for the confinement of habitual offenders. Each of the central and district jails (except one of the latter class which is managed by the District Medical Officer) is under the charge of a Superintendent. The appointment of Inspector-General of Prisons and four Superintendents of Central Jails are reserved for commissioned medical officers of the Indian Medical Service. The Surgeon General the Director of Public Health, the Deputy Director of Public Health, all Presidency Magistrates, the Commissioner of Police, Sessions Judges, District Magistrates, Subdivisional Magistrates and Inspectors of Schools are ex-officio visitors of jails within their jurisdiction. Non-official visitors are appointed by the Government for the jails in the City of Madras and by District Magistrates for the out-of-town jails. Remissions of sentence are granted for good conduct and diligence, the days gained being liable to forfeiture for prison offences. A diligent and well behaved convict may ordinarily earn three days remission in a month. Selected casual convicts may be employed as night watchmen, overseers and convict warders; they earn money gratuities and are granted special remission and other privileges. Elementary education is imparted in all jails to prisoners under 30 years of age by a paid teaching staff. Lectures on moral and religious subjects are delivered by honorary lecturers and on sanitary matters by the medical subordinate attached to jails. Technical instruction is given to convicts employed in the various industrial departments to enable them to earn their livelihood on release. Each jail is provided with a library and the prisoners are given facilities for reading and study. Recreation is provided for well behaved prisoners in association wards between lock-up and sleeping time. A Central Isolated Prisoners Aid Society has been organised at Madras and several district committees have been formed at various centres. At the head-quarters of each Sub Magistrate is a subsidiary jail, in which remanded or under trial prisoners and convicts sentenced to imprisonment for not more than one month are generally confined; these subsidiary jails are superintended by Sub Magistrates and inspected periodically by District Medical Officers. There is a Reformatory School at Uthirapett for the reception of juvenile offenders under the age of 15 years.

Civil Law.—The administration of civil justice is carried on by 34 District Judges 81 Subordinate Judges, two special Small Cause Judges and 133 District Munsifs. In addition there are at present on a temporary basis one District Judge, 19 Subordinate Judges, 1 Small Cause Judge and 14 District Munsifs. In the Presidency town there are a City Civil Court consisting of one judge and Small Cause Court consisting of a Chief Judge and two other Judges. The heads of villages may be appointed village munsifs, with power to hear petty suits of a value not exceeding Rs. 50 (or with the written consent of both parties, Rs. 200), or, alternatively, a panchayat court with similar powers may be constituted, in which case the village munsif ceases to exercise jurisdiction.

Registration—Registration Officer for the registration of documents have been established at convenient centres throughout the Presidency which for this purpose is divided into districts and sub-districts. The latter are under sub-registrars of whom there are 553. Including 7 officers working as clerks in the Inspector General's Office, 5 temporary and 3 ex-officio officers. Including 116 temporary and ex-officio officers, the remaining officers are divided into two grades, a lower and an upper on time scales of pay. The upper grade consists of 20 per cent of the total number. The districts are presided over by District Registrars, 53 in number, also on a time scale of pay. This number includes the three appointments of Personal Assistant to the Inspector General of Registration, Inspector of Registrars Office and Assistant to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies. The head of the department is the Inspector General of Registration, who is also ex-officio Registrar of Joint Stock Companies and Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages. The Assistant to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies is the Assistant Registrar of Joint Stock Companies for the Madras City and ex-officio Registrar of Provident Insurance Societies and Life Assurance Companies. All District Registrars are ex-officio Assistant Registrars of Joint Stock Companies within their jurisdictions. All registering officers are Registrars of Births and Deaths under the Births Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886. One hundred and ninety five officers are also notaries public. Several of them exercise magiserial powers of the third class for the trial of offences punishable under the local laws and some of them are members of local bodies. Sub Registrars stationed at the head quarters of Deputy Tahsildars are placed in charge of the sub-treasury during the absence of the Deputy Tahsildar on tour. At taluk stations, they are in charge of the double lock chests during the absence of the Tahsildar on tour if there is no Sub Magistrate at the station or when both the Tahsildar and the Sub Magistrate are absent on duty simultaneously.

Local Boards—A district board has been formed for every district. Taluk boards exist at all districts except the Nilgiris. Union boards have been established in areas which though more or less urban are not yet fit to become Municipalities. The area under a district board is ordinarily the revenue district excluding all municipalities, while that under a taluk board is usually not dissimilar with a revenue divisional taluk but in some districts, taluk boards have been constituted for single revenue taluks. The Madras Local Boards Act 1920 gives each class of local board (district taluk and union) an independent status and distinguishes their funds and functions. Not less than three fourths of the members should be elected. The president of a union board should invariably be elected, the president of a taluk board should be elected unless the Government otherwise direct, and the president of a district board may be appointed or elected at the discretion of the Government. The privilege of electing their president has been conceded to eight district boards and official presidents have been replaced by non official presidents in all districts but the Nilgiris. The Revenue Divisional Officer is no longer an ex-officio member of the district board or the ex-officio president of the taluk board and the privilege of electing its president has been conceded to all except 14 taluk boards. The total number of members of a district board is subject to a maximum of 53 and a minimum of 34. The president of every taluk board in the district is an ex-officio member of the district board. One fourth of the members of the district board are appointed by Government and the rest are elected by the taluk boards in all districts except in the Nilgiris where the two planters' associations and the tax payers and inhabitants of the district elect the members. The total number of members of a taluk board is subject to a maximum of 34 and a minimum of 18. Three fourths of the total number of members of taluk boards are elected by the tax payers and inhabitants of the taluk, and the rest are appointed by the presidents of district boards. The qualifications of voters have been considerably lowered and women are no longer debarred from voting or from standing as candidates at elections. Presidents vice president and members of local boards do not ordinarily receive any remuneration but they may be paid their travelling expenses. Presidents are responsible for seeing that the resolutions of their boards are carried into effect. Under the Madras Local Boards Act 1920, no village can be constituted into a union unless it has a population of 5,000. The total number of members of a union board is subject to a maximum of 15 and a minimum of 7. Three fourths of the members are elected by the tax payers and inhabitants of the union and the rest are appointed by the president of the taluk board. Union boards exist in all districts except the Nilgiris and South Kanara. The main source of income of district and taluk boards is a tax of one anna in the rupee on the annual rent value of all occupied lands in the district. The district board can levy an extra tax not exceeding 8 pies in the rupee on the annual rent value of occupied lands and the taluk board can levy another tax of three pies in the rupee. The levy of a railway cess has been abolished. The income of union boards is derived chiefly from a tax on houses. Local boards also derive an income from tolls and ferries, profession and companies taxes, pilgrim tax and fees or the use of markets, cart-stands and slaughter houses. A consolidated budget of all the local boards in the district has to be submitted to the Government but the local boards have a free hand in framing their budgets. Government cannot interfere in this matter unless a budget fails to provide for the due discharge of all liabilities in respect of loans or for the maintenance of a working balance. The main ordinary duties of local boards are the construction and maintenance of roads, bridges, avenues, hospitals, dispensaries, markets, water-works, wells, drains, latrines, the training of nurses, midwives, and vaccination, the supervision of sanitation and the diffusion of education. District and taluk boards employ engineering establishments for the construction and maintenance of public works vested in them under their control, but the services of officers of the Public Works Department are occasionally obtained with the permission of Government for the execution of special works considered to be beyond the powers of the ordinary local fund staff. The District Collector, the Surgeon General, the Director of Public Health and his assistants, the Sanitary Engineer and his deputies, the District Medical Officer, the District Health Officer, the Chief Engineer, the Superintending Engineer of the Circle, the Director of Public Instruction and the Inspector of Schools may, with the permission of the president, address a local board on any matter affecting the general administration, sanitation, public works or public instruction.

Municipalities.—The duties devolving on local boards are discharged in municipal areas by independent bodies styled municipal councils. Each council consists of not less than 16 and not more than 26 members. Under the Act the elective strength should not be less than three-fourths; the rest of the members are appointed by Government. The Revenue Divisional Officer is no longer an ex-officio member of the Council and official supervision has been largely relaxed. The property tax leviable on buildings and lands comprises a tax for general purposes and it may also comprise a water and drainage tax, a lighting tax and a railway tax. The rate of this tax is fixed by each council independently. Other sources of municipal income are a professional tax, tolls, taxes on vehicles and animals, a companies tax and in some cases a pilgrim tax. In hill stations a tax on private menial and domestic servants may in addition be levied. Unless a municipal council is indebted, it has a free hand as to the taxes to be levied and the rates at which they should be levied. The registration of births and deaths is compulsory in all municipalities and the vaccination of children, is also obligatory. Some councils employ paid chairmen, while others have paid secretaries to assist their honorary chairmen. Every rate payer is given a vote and is eligible for election to the council. Women can also vote at municipal elections but cannot at present stand as candidates at elections. They may, however, serve on special committees of the council.

Madras Corporation.—The municipal affairs of the City of Madras are administered by a council and a Commissioner. The council consists of 50 councillors of whom 30 are elected by the rate-payers and inhabitants of the 30 municipal divisions, three elected by the Madras Chamber of Commerce, three by the Madras Trades Association, two by the South Indian Chamber of Commerce, one by the Port Trust Board, one by the Anglo-Indian Association of Southern India, and one by the University of Madras. The remaining nine councillors are appointed by the Government. There are four standing committees, of seven members each dealing with taxation and finance works, health and education. The Commissioner, who is appointed by the Government, is a paid officer and is the head of the executive. He can attend meetings of the council or of any standing committee and take part in the discussion, but he has no right to move any resolution or to vote. At the first meeting after the first day of November in each year the council elects one of its members to be its president. The taxes leviable in the City of Madras are in general similar to those in the municipal municipalities, but the Corporation levies also a tax on timber brought into the city and a duty on transfers of property in the shape of an additional stamp duty. The council can itself fix the rate at which the property tax is to be levied. The present rate is 18½ per cent of the annual value of buildings and land. The three principal officers of the municipal corporation are the Revenue Officer, the Health Officer and the Engineer who are appointed by the council subject to confirmation by the Government. A special engineer has also been appointed by the council with the approval of the Government to carry out the extensive water and drainage schemes now in hand. Subject to confirmation by the Government the council has power in the event of any unusual mortality or the prevalence of any dangerous disease within the city to appoint a special health officer to investigate the causes thereof and to suggest remedies and to appoint a special revenue officer for the purpose of carrying out a periodical revision of assessment, introducing a new tax or discharging any extraordinary duty connected with the revenue administration of the Corporation. But no necessity for either of these appointments has so far arisen.

Marine.—The Marine Department includes the Presidency Port Officer and the Deputy Conservator of the Port of Madras, who are officers of the Royal Indian Marine, and 18 other Port Officers, one of whom is Personal Assistant to the Presidency Port Officer and Agent for Government Consignments, Madras, while the others are stationed at minor ports. The port of Madras is under the control of a body of trustees constituted under the Madras Port Trust Act II of 1905.

Civil Veterinary.—The Civil Veterinary Department has an executive and an educational branch. At the head of the executive branch is the Chief Superintendent, Civil Veterinary Department, who is a member of the Indian Civil Veterinary Department, with three Superintendents and four Deputy Superintendents under him. The college is presided over by another member of the Indian Civil Veterinary Department under whom are a professor of pathology and bacteriology, a professor of surgery and other lecturers. The whole department works directly under the Ministry of Development.

Horticulture.—Botanic gardens are maintained on the hills in immediate charge of the Curator of the Government Gardens and Parks, the Nilgiris, who works under the orders of the Director of Agriculture.

Cinchona and Quinine.—The Government have large cinchona plantations on the Nilgiris and a factory at Neduvattam for the manufacture of quinine. Quinine produced at the factory is supplied to the Medical Departments of Madras and Bombay and to hospitals and dispensaries throughout the Madras Presidency and elsewhere in India. It is also sold to the public in packet form through the agency of post offices. The plantations and factory are under the Deputy Director of Agriculture (Cinchona).

Public Works.—The Public Works Department is responsible for the construction and maintenance of buildings belonging to Government (except certain buildings in charge of the Forest, Salt, Excise and Separate Revenue Departments), navigable canals, and irrigation works which are con-sufficiently of irrigating more than two hundred acres of land, it does not as a rule maintain roads, though a few important roads are in its charge. At the head of the Public Works Department are two Chief Engineers, the senior of whom is the Secretary to Government and the junior Joint Secretary, one controls the general roads and buildings branch and the other the irrigation branch of the business of the department. No railways in the Presidency are worked by the State, but the Government are kept in touch with the Railway administrations by the senior Government Inspector of Railways who, for this purpose, is also a Secretary to Government. The Presidency is divided into five circles, over each of which there is a Superintending Engineer, who controls the district staff of executive and assistant executive engineers. These are employed both on irrigation and other public works. The superior officers belong to the Indian Service of Engineers and in addition a new provincial service was constituted in 1930 under the style of the "Madras Engineering Service" to include the bulk of the officers required for the charge of permanent subdivision and equivalent posts. There are, besides, specialist appointments, including the Sanitary Engineer to Government, the Consulting Architect and his assistant—and temporarily also a special Consulting Architect—the Electrical Inspector and the Electrical Engineer. A special Harbour Engineer was appointed in 1930 to advise the Government on important harbour works, but he and his staff were transferred in 1931 to the Marine Department. The Boiler Inspectors are under the control of the Public Works Department, which deals with questions relating to the working of the Steam Boilers and Prime movers Act. The accounts of the department are audited by the Accountant General. Payments are made by means of cheques drawn by officers on Government treasuries or the Imperial Bank of India, the expenditure being limited to the amount of budget allotments.

Audit—Under the Reforms the audit of the transactions of both the Central and Provincial Governments is a central subject, while that of local funds is a provincial subject. The audit of the former is entrusted to the Accountant General, who is an officer of the Government of India under the direct orders of the Auditor General in India. The audit of local funds is conducted by the Examiner of Local Fund Accounts working under the administrative control of the Local Government. The Accountant General is also ex officio Deputy Controller of the Currency and is assisted by a currency officer of the rank of Assistant Accountant General who is in immediate charge of the Currency Office. In this capacity as principal Audit Officer the Accountant General is assisted by two Deputy and three Assistant Accountants-General besides four Assistant Accounts Officers. One of the Deputies is in charge of the civil audit and the other in charge of the public works audit. Each year the Accountant-General reviews the result of the audit conducted by him during the past official year in his audit and appropriation reports which are transmitted through the Auditor General in India to the Finance Department to be placed before the Committee on Public Accounts for scrutiny and report to the Legislative Council.

Salt, Abkari and Separate Revenue—The manufacture and sale of salt and of intoxicating liquor and drugs including opium are controlled by the Salt, Abkari and Separate Revenue Department. The head of the department is the Commissioner who is a Member of the Board of Revenue. There are three Deputy Commissioners, who have charge of the Northern, Southern and Central territorial divisions, and an Assistant Commissioner of Distilleries who is responsible for the supervision of distilleries. One Deputy Commissioner and the Secretary to the Commissioner are usually Members of the Indian Civil Service. There are 11 Assistant Commissioners and 56 Inspectors. The manufacture of salt is a Government monopoly and one of the principal duties of the officers of the department is the prevention of the unauthorised manufacture of salt. The factories are of two classes, in factories for the manufacture of salt for sale to Government, salt is manufactured by ryots who are paid for their salt by Government, as soon as it is stored and this salt is again sold by Government normally at fixed rates and occasionally in public auction. In factories for the manufacture of salt for general sale private persons are permitted not only to carry on manufacture subject to the conditions of their licences but also to dispose of their salt at their own price and discretion. Salt which has been sold by Government and salt which is the property of licensees or of purchasers from them, may not be removed from the factories until duty at the rate fixed by the Government of India has been paid.

The manufacture and the sale of any intoxicating liquor or drug except under due authority are prohibited by law. In the case of imported liquors the duties leviable under the tariff for the time being in force are credited to Customs, and the excise revenue the reform is derived only from licensees for the privilege of vend. The right of vend in taverns licensed for the retail sale of liquor on and off the premises is sold in public auction. In other cases fixed fees are charged for licenses. A brewer must take out a licence and comply with certain rules, duty, which is at present fixed at 8 annas per imperial gallon, must be paid once in a quarter on the total quantity of beer brewed during the quarter, less 5 per cent. allowed for wastage.

The revenue derived from country spirit is levied partly by means of a still head duty and partly by licence fees and the sale of the right of vend country spirit is a rack which is generally distilled from sugary or molasses. Under the "contract distillery system," which is now in force throughout the whole Presidency with the exception of the major portion of the Agency division where the central distillery and warehouse system is in force, the exclusive privilege of manufacture and supply of country spirit throughout a district or other specified area is disposed of by tender to approved individuals and firms. Tenderers are required to state at what rate over and above the still head duty they are prepared to supply spirits of specified strength from a central source of supply (distillery and warehouse) in each contract area. The successful tenderer has the monopoly of supply of liquor of his own manufacture to retail vendors within the area of his contract at rates which are fixed by Government, and he must immediately establish wholesale depots at convenient places for this purpose, he must also pay the still head duty at the rate fixed by Government on all liquor so stored. The duty, which in certain low-duty areas, varies from Rs 6 14-0 to Rs 8 7-7 per proof gallon except in Madras City and the

In Madagat taluk of the Chingleput district where it is Rs. 16-10-9 per proof gallon; the annual fee for a licence to establish and maintain a distillery is Rs. 180 and licences for warehouses are issued free. If a distiller himself establishes a wholesale depot, no fee is charged, but to facilitate the supply of spirits to retail vendors in towns which are not within easy reach of a distillery or a warehouse licence are issued at the instance of the contractor to persons who are not distillers, on payment of a fee of Rs. 15 for the wholesale vend of country spirits, the licencees being allowed to sell only to other wholesale depot keepers and independent arrack shopkeepers in the districts or other towns to which the licence applies. The manufacture is separated from the sale of liquor. The right of retail vend of country spirits is sold annually in public auction by separate shops. The rates of still-head duty are fixed by the Governor-in-Council and may vary from year to year. Liquor may be issued and sold only at certain specified strengths, viz., 350 or 600 under proof, except in the low-duty area round Pondicherry in the South Arcot district and the Attapadi valley, where liquor of strength 480 or 400-proof may be sold.

Unfermented or "sweet" toddy—the sap of a coconut, sago, palmyra, date or dadisal palm—is not subject to any taxation, but it must be drawn in pots freshly coated internally with lime or containing sufficient lime to prevent fermentation. Fermented toddy is taxed by means of rents payable for the right of retail vend and also, throughout the greater part of the Presidency, by means of the tree-tax system under which a fixed fee is charged for every tree, from which it is intended to draw fermented toddy. The right of retail vend is sold in public auction. Under the tree tax system no palm tree may be tapped for the purpose of producing fermented toddy without a licence, upon issue of which the tree is given a distinguishing mark. The fees for licences to tap coconuts and sago palms are Rs. 4-5-0 and Rs. 2-0-0 a tree for each half year and the fee for a licence to tap a palmyra or date palm is Rs. 3 a year in the major portion of the Presidency; in some districts, fees are levied at five-sixths of these rates and in some at 25 per cent. in excess of these rates. Special rates are in force in the Agency.

An excise licensing board has been appointed for the City of Madras with power to determine the number and location of shops for the sale of intoxicants of all kinds. In district municipalities and unions of an urban character special local committees are appointed to advise the Collectors in respect of the number and location of shops. In other areas, the number and sites of shops are determined by the Collector in consultation with the District Superintendent of Police. Representations made by district or taluk boards, village panchayats and other public bodies are duly considered and weight is attached to local opinion and the opinion of persons specially interested, e.g., railway authorities and large employers of labour. Lists of shops proposed for any lease within the jurisdiction of municipal councils and district and taluk boards are placed before the body concerned three months before the date fixed for the auction sale and their views are taken into consideration. Instructions have been issued to Collectors, that, as a rule, rural shops must not be located without permission within a furlong of a metalled road, that when shops on a road-side are auctioned in rural areas the minimum distance between such shops should ordinarily be five miles; that sites selected should be so far public that persons entering shops do not escape observation but not so prominent as to compel attention and that where possible the shops should be located on Government land. The general rule is that shop licences are issued for a single year and the number and sites of shops are determined beforehand and are not altered except for very special reasons. Maximum numbers of shops to be opened in each district have been fixed according to requirements.

The cultivation of the poppy is prohibited, and the whole of the opium required for the Presidency is supplied by the Government factory at Ghazipur and stocked in district treasuries in the first instance and thence distributed to taluk cutcherries. It is issued to licensed vendors from taluk cutcherries at a price fixed from time to time. Import of opium or intoxicating drugs other than those used for smoking is permitted only—

(a) in the case of imports by sea by licensed dealers in spirit for medicinal purposes or by licensed chemist, or

(b) under special orders of the Board of Revenue to be obtained in each case.

The privilege of the retail vend of opium and of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drugs (other than smoking preparations) prepared therefrom is sold in auction by shops.

Licences for the cultivation of the hemp plant are issued only in the Bapatla taluk of the Guntur district and in the Polur taluk of the North Arcot district; elsewhere, its cultivation is absolutely prohibited. In towns where it is licensed, the cultivators are required to convey the produce to public storerooms whence removals are allowed only on pre-payment of excise duty at Rs. 30 per seer of ganja and Rs. 3 per seer of bhanga. Licences for the vend of these intoxicating drugs are sold in public auction.

Salt and Excise.—With effect from the 1st April 1924 the combined Salt and Akbari Department was bifurcated into Salt and Excise Departments with a separate staff for each. The Salt Department is in charge of an officer designated the Collector of Salt Revenue. For purposes of administration, the Presidency is divided into two Assistant Commissioners' Divisions. The Excise Department is now placed under the control of an Excise Commissioner who is a member of the Board of Revenue. There are 9 Assistant Commissioners, 63 Inspectors and 39 Assistant Inspectors.

Income-tax.—The assessment and collection of income-tax are controlled by the Commissioner of Income-tax, appointed by the Governor-General-in-Council; under the Commissioner there are Assistant Commissioners.

Stamps.—The Collector of Madras is also Superintendent of Stamps and Stationery and has under him an Assistant Superintendent who is a Deputy Collector. The net revenue from stamps during the year 1924-25 was Rs. 3,18,77,523. The charges were Rs. 6,01,225.

Customs.—The sea and land customs establishments are controlled by the Collector of Customs, Madras, he is assisted by two Assistant Collectors who are members of the Imperial Customs Service and eight Inspectors who are borne on the cadre of the Madras, Abkari and Customs Department.

Registration of Births and Deaths.—The registration of births and deaths is compulsory in municipal localities and may be made compulsory in rural areas by the Local Government under the Madras Registration of Births and Deaths Act (III of 1899) during the year 1901 this Act was in force in 5,735 towns and villages. In rural tracts the registers of births and deaths are maintained by railway station-masters or by headmen of villages according as the tracts are within or outside railway limits; where registration is not compulsory, the headman has to ascertain by careful enquiries the occurrence of births and deaths outside railway limits. The registers are inspected and checked by officers of the Land Revenue, Medical and Vaccination Departments and by chairmen of municipalities and unions but the officer responsible for the compilation of statistics for the whole Presidency is the Director of Public Health.

Labour.—A new Department of Labour was temporarily constituted in the year 1920 under a Commissioner of Labour who is an officer of the Indian Civil Service. This department deals with questions concerning the welfare of labourers and the depressed classes, the administration of the Factories Act, the management and control of criminal tribes settlements and the emigration of Labour. In his administration of the Factories Act, the Commissioner of Labour is assisted by one Chief Inspector, three Inspectors and one Assistant Inspector.

In 1926—27 a sum of Rs 54 lakhs was spent on the betterment of depressed classes, 8 lakhs on the reclamation of kullars and 2 lakhs on criminal tribes settlements. The cost of the establishment was of lakhs. There are now 16 District Labour Officers and Deputy Tasildars and 97 Special Inspectors.

Medical Sanitation and Vaccination.—The higher appointments in the Medical Department are usually held by commissioned officers of Indian Medical Service. The head of the departments is the Surgeon General with the Government who also superintends the Medical Colleges at Madras and Vellore and the Medical Schools at Royapuram, Tanjore, Calicut and Madurai. The branch of the department which deals with sanitation, vaccination and epidemics is superintended by the Director of Public Health and his assistants. The Government maintain all the important hospitals in Madras City and all the district head-quarter hospitals. The staff of the General Hospital includes three surgeons four physicians and a resident Medical Officer; one of the surgeons or physicians is also the superintendent of the hospital and draws an extra allowance on that account, and all the seven are usually professors of the college; one of the professors of the college is also Principal and draws an extra allowance. The professor of chemistry is also the Chemical Examiner to Government. Four medical officers are stationed in Madras town which is divided into four departmental districts, the Presidency Surgeon, 11th District, is Inspector of Emigrants and Superintendent of the Medical School, Royapuram. A District Medical and Sanitary Officer is stationed at the head quarters of each municipal district and Civil Surgeons are stationed in seven other towns. The District Medical and Sanitary Officers, Tanjore, Vellore, Madurai and Madras are also the Superintendents of the Medical Schools in the respective districts. Medical Officers receive special fees for the inspection of vessels. Mental Hospitals are maintained by the Government at Madras, Calicut, and Vellore. There is a separate superintendent for the Asylum at Madras but at Calicut and Vellore the District Medical and Sanitary Officer and the Medical Superintendent of the Central Jail, respectively, are the Superintendents. A Leper Hospital is maintained by Government at Madras in charge of an assistant surgeon working under the control of the Presidency Surgeon. The Public Health Board advises Local Boards, Municipal Councils and the Government itself on all matters of public health administration; a Sanitary Engineer is employed to investigate and report on sanitary projects. The salaries of officers in the subordinate grades including sub assistant surgeons, vaccinators and Sanitary Inspectors are paid wholly or mainly by Local Boards and Municipal Councils who maintain hospitals and dispensaries throughout the Presidency. Deputy Inspectors of Vaccination are paid wholly by Government.

Scientific Departments.—Appointments in connexion with science include the Superintendent, Government Central Museum, who is also Librarian of the Connemara Public Library, the Superintendent Archaeological Survey, and the Assistant Archaeological Superintendent for Epigraphy for the Madras Presidency the last two of whom have, under the Reforms, become officers of the Imperial Department.

Legislative Council.—When first constituted by the Indian Councils Act of 1861, the Legislative Council of Madras consisted of the ordinary members of the Governor's Executive Council and a number of additional members beside the Advocate-General, of whom not less than half were to be non-officials nominated by the Governor. The number of nominated members, exclusive of the Advocate-General was fixed at not less than four and not more than eight and thus the strength of the whole Council was so small that the Council could be described as "a mere committee for the purpose of making laws, a committee by means of which the Executive Government obtained advice and assistance in their legislation and the public derived the advantage of full publicity at every stage of the law making process." The Council could not inquire into grievances, call for information or examine the conduct of the executive; and even its legislative function consisted merely of registering the orders of the Government in a manner which ensured publicity and discussion. By the Councils Act of 1909 the minimum and maximum numbers of Additional members, exclusive of the Advocate-General were raised to 8 and 20, respectively. The Governor had power to nominate all of them, but he was to do so subject to certain regulations made by the Governor-General in-Council with the approval of the Secretary of State in-Council, and under these regulations seven non-official members were to be—established on the recommendations of various local, commercial, and learned bodies. Technically the function of the nominating bodies was to be that of mere representation, but in practice the nomination was always accepted and thus in course of time the system of election came to be firmly established. The Council was to contain an official majority, but it had the right of asking questions and of discussing though not voting upon the budget. The next stage in the development of the Council was marked by the Indian Councils Act, 1909, (The "Minto-Mcley Reforms"). The salient features of which were (1) a great expansion in the membership of the Council; (2) the legal recognition of the elective principle—51 members out of the 61 additional members were elected; (3) the abandonment of the official majority, though a combination of officials and nominated non-officials could obtain a majority over the elected members; (4) the grant of rights (a) to move resolutions on the budget and divide upon them, (b) to move resolutions upon matters of general public importance and (c) to ask supplementary questions.

The Government of India Act of 1919 made still further change in composition and function of the Local Legislative Council. The Council is no longer the Governor's Executive Council supported by a number of additional members for the purpose of legislation but is a separate body consisting of members nominated or elected as provided by the Act and having an independent existence of its own. The members of the Executive Council are ex-officio members of the Legislative Council but the Council contains in addition 25 elected and 50 nominated members. The Ministers are appointed by the Governor but must not be officials and must be at the time of appointment or become within six months elected members of the Council. Of the nominated members not more than 12 may be officials. 10 are nominated to represent backward communities which are mainly in any other way to secure representation and one to represent the inhabitants of the Agency Districts, which has been declared a backward tract. The Governor is not a member of the Legislative Council but has the right to address the Council and may for that purpose require the attendance of the members. Until the expiration of a period of four years from the first meeting of the Council as constituted under the Act, the President is to be a person appointed by the Governor and thereafter he as a person elected by the Council from among the members and approved by the Governor. The Deputy President is a member of the Council elected by the Council and approved by the Governor. Of the 25 elected members 12 represent Muhammadan and 5 Indian Christian communities, the Europeans and Anglo-Indians of the Presidency each have one representative, as also the Madras University and the planting community, commercial bodies have 5 and the larger landholders 4, and the remaining are elected by several non-Muhammadan communities. Twenty-eight of these seats are reserved for non-Brahmins, though at the elections held at the end of 1920 considerably more than this number were actually secured by non-Brahmins. For the rural constituencies the general qualification for a vote is the payment of Rs. 10 per annum in rent or revenue for urban constituencies the payment of taxes at the minimum rate, or in Madras, the occupation of a house of an annual value of not less than Rs. 50. In respect of these qualifications retired, pensioned or discharged officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of His Majesty's regular forces are entitled to vote. Generally speaking, a voter must be a British subject, not of unsound mind and not under 21 years of age. A sex disqualification which formed part of the original rules has since been removed. The total number of voters on the first electoral rolls was over a million and quarter, and though this is a small proportion of the population of the Presidency, the enfranchisement of this number must be recognised as a great advance on the former system of indirect election. The number that actually went to the polls was 2,03,553.

The general qualifications for election to the Council run on the same lines as the qualifications for the franchise, with certain additions. The age minimum is raised to 25, conviction for a serious offence is a criminal or not becomes a disqualification and no person who is already a member of any legislative body constituted under the Act is eligible for election. Government servants are debarred from election and the acceptance of any Crown office must be followed by resignation except in the case of Ministers. The rules provide for the settlement of election disputes by a court of three commissioners of high judicial standing. New members are required to take an oath of allegiance to the Crown. On any failure to take this oath the seat is declared vacant by the Governor, who may also declare vacant the seat of any member who is absent from India for a long period.

Powers of the Council.—Generally speaking the Legislative Council has power, subject to the provisions of the Act, to make laws for the peace and good government of the province, but no legislation which affects any Act of Parliament is permissible. Considerable latitude is now allowed in respect of legislation for the imposition of taxation. Previous to the passing of the Act the consent of the Governor-General had to be obtained for all such legislation. This restriction has been removed in the case of certain scheduled taxes such as those on non-agricultural land and luxuries. Under the concurrent powers of legislation now granted to the Central and provincial Legislatures it is open to the provincial Council to amend, in its application to their own province, certain forms of legislation passed by the Central Legislature. But it is obvious that to ensure uniformity in India and to safeguard the observance of the general policy of the country, a large measure of control over matters affecting broader issues must be retained in the hands of the Central Legislature. This precaution is ensured by the scheduled limitation of the powers of the local Council, thus the following forms of legislation are not within the province of the provincial Council—

- (d) Laws imposing new taxation, except such laws as are permitted by schedule (vide supra)

(b) Laws affecting the public debt of India or customs or taxes imposed by the authority of the Central Government;

(c) Laws affecting the Imperial forces or relations with foreign princes or States;

(d) Laws regulating central subjects;

(e) Laws affecting provincial subjects which are declared to be subject to the legislation of the Central Government or affecting the powers of the Governor General, or such laws as aim at repealing or altering legislation which, according to the rules provided under the Act, can only be altered or repealed with previous sanction.

Powers of the Governor—In pre Reform days it was generally possible for the Government to pass any measure which it considered necessary and to prevent the passage of any measure which it regarded as injurious or unsound. With a large non-official majority these powers no longer remain any other safeguards for use in emergencies have had to be provided by the Government of India Act and the rules framed thereunder. Where any Bill has been introduced or is proposed to be introduced, or any amendment to a Bill is moved or proposed to be moved, the Governor may certify that the Bill or any clause of it or the amendment affects the safety or the tranquillity of the Province or any part of it, or of another province and may direct that no further proceedings shall be taken in connection with it. Similarly, where the Council has refused leave to introduce, or has failed to pass in a form recommended by the Governor any Bill relating to a reserved subject, the Governor may certify that the passage of the Bill is essential for the discharge of his responsibility for the subject and thereupon the Bill is deemed to have been passed. A measure so passed must ordinarily be reserved for the signature of His Majesty's pleasure though where in the opinion of the Governor General a state of emergency justifies such action he may immediately signify his assent and the Act will come into force subject to subsequent disallowance by His Majesty in Council. And Act passed under these provisions must be laid before both Houses of Parliament. It is further open to the Governor or the Governor-General, when a Bill has been passed by the Legislative Council to withhold his assent; or the Governor may instead of declaring that he assents to, or withholds his assent from the Bill return the Bill to the Council for reconsideration in whole or in part, together with any amendments which he may recommend; or in certain cases for which provision is made in the rules, he may or must reserve the Bill for the consideration of the Governor General. A Bill so reserved, if it does not receive the assent of the Governor General within six months lapses unless within that period the Governor has returned, or notified his intention to return it to the Council for further consideration.

Financial procedure—The annual budget of the province is presented to the Council yearly on a day appointed by the Governor. There are two stages in the passage of the financial programme—a general discussion and the voting of demands for grants. But the following heads of expenditure are not subject to submission to the vote of the Council:—

(a) contributions payable by the Local Government to the Governor-General in Council;

(b) interest and sinking fund charges on loans;

(c) expenditure the amount of which is prescribed by law;

(d) salaries or pensions of persons appointed by or with the approval of His Majesty or by the Secretary of State in Council; and

(e) salaries of the High Court Judges and of the Advocate-General.

Normally a separate demand is made in respect of the grant required for each department, but the Finance Member may unite the grants of two or more departments in one demand. On the appointed day a motion for the granting of each demand is made by the responsible Member of Council or Minister. The members of the Legislative Council are then free to bring forward motions for the omission or reduction of a grant; but it is not open to them to move for the increase of any grant or for the alteration of its destination. There is a statutory provision for excess grants and for supplementary grants. As in the case of ordinary legislation the Governor has power to carry through demands in respect of reserved subjects when he is of opinion that such expenditure is essential for the proper discharge of his responsibilities and in the case of all subjects, to enforce such expenditure as he considers essential for the safety of his province.

Resolutions—Members have a right to move resolutions on matters of general public importance; fifteen days' notice must be given. Every resolution must be in the form of a recommendation to the Government, and no resolution may be moved on matters affecting relations with foreign States, relations with or the administration of, Princes or Chiefs under the suzerainty of His Majesty or on any matter which is sub judice. The Governor may disallow any resolution, before it is placed on the agenda, on the ground that the public interests would suffer thereby or that it relates to a matter which is not primarily the concern of the Local Government. The standing orders of the Council forbid the moving of a resolution which covers the same ground as a previous resolution of the same session.

Questions.—On giving seven days' notice a member may put a question on any matter of public concern with the object of obtaining information from the members of the Government within whose special cognisance the subject-matter lies. The limitations on resolutions mentioned above apply equally to questions and questions regarding controversies with higher authorities and answers there to are confined to matter and statements of fact. Any member who is dissatisfied with the answer given to his own or another member's question may follow up the question with a supplementary question.

Motion for adjournment.—It is open to any member to move for the adjournment of the business of the Council for the purpose of the discussion of a definite matter of urgent public importance. But the Governor may disallow such a motion on any of the grounds mentioned in the base of resolutions.

Education.—Public instruction is controlled by the Educational Department of Government. The control which Government exercise over the University of Madras is very slight and consists chiefly in an annual audit of accounts and in the statutory rule whereby all changes in the laws of the University have to receive the sanction of the Governor-in-Council. Colleges may be affiliated to the University in compliance with certain regulations. Certain institutions are maintained and managed by Government directly; they include at present 10 colleges for general education and 9 colleges for special branches of education of which 4 are not under the Educational Department. 86 secondary schools, 789 primary schools and 89 training schools for special education. Other institutions are aided by Government by money grants for various purposes on prescribed conditions. Government, local boards and municipalities make grants-in-aid to 8,63,22,839 schools respectively of the secondary and primary grade and to 201 other institutions under private management. Local boards and municipalities maintain in addition 2 colleges, 143 secondary schools and 9,109 elementary schools. Over these schools Government exercise considerable control by their scrutiny and sanction of the budgets of local bodies; the budget grants are made on the recommendation of the officers of the Educational Department. District boards and municipalities are subsidised by Government for the maintenance of secondary schools under their control, the net cost of those opened in 1918 and subsequent years being fully or partly met from Provincial Funds. The Madras Elementary Education Act of 1920 requires taluk boards and municipalities to constitute 'Elementary Education Funds' under their control and the Budget estimates relating to such funds are subject to the approval of the Local Government. The Government further grant second school leaving certificates to pupils of recognised schools, i.e., schools which are managed in accordance with certain conditions laid down by Government. The Government notify from time to time the text books which may be used in aided and recognised institutions. Scholarships are awarded annually by Government in recognised schools and colleges, some of them being reserved for females or members of the backward classes. In order to maintain a supply of competent teachers Government maintain 89 training schools and 3 training colleges for teachers grant stipends to a large number of their students and after examination issue leaving certificates, the staff of a recognised aided school must consist of teachers holding such certificates or having some equivalent professional qualifications. There are 30 training schools for masters and 15 for mistresses under private (mission) management. Sex does not affect a candidate's eligibility to appear for the Public and University Examination and women can obtain a degree on the same terms as men; girls may, as a rule, attend the elementary schools for boys and there are secondary and elementary schools for girls only 4 colleges for women are affiliated to the University. The education of backward and indigent classes is specially encouraged by the maintenance of schools and the grant of assistance in money to schools for such classes under private management at increased rates and on conditions easier than those prescribed for ordinary schools. Technical education is promoted by the maintenance of technical colleges affiliated to the University by a system of technical examinations by the inclusion in the secondary school leaving certificate scheme of technical subjects and by the award of scholarships to be held in technical schools and colleges. In elementary schools the pupils are usually taught in their own vernacular but English is the medium of instruction and examination in the high school departments of all high schools except a few vernacular high schools for girls and in all colleges affiliated to the University. Physical education is practically compulsory in all recognised schools. Four classes for the training of physical training instructors are maintained 2 by Government and 2 by aided high schools. The examinations for the higher grade teachers certificates include questions on moral training. Religious instruction is not included in any of the prescribed courses of instruction but while Government does not provide religious instruction in its own institutions with the exception of the Madras Muslim teachers in recognised schools may impart religious instruction at any time provided that secular instruction is given for the prescribed number of hours.

The head of the Educational Department under Government is the Director of Public Instruction. The department is broadly divided into (a) the superior service and (b) the subordinate service. The former consists of the Indian Educational Service and the Madras Educational Service. The Indian Educational Service consists of 61 posts, 11 of which are included in the Women's Branch. These posts are filled by persons appointed in England or in India with the approval of the Secretary of State. The Madras Educational Service consists of 63 posts 19 of which are included in the Women's Branch. These posts are filled by recruitment in India. There are also certain special posts, not included in the Indian Educational Service but recruited from England and others not included in the Madras Educational Service to which appointments are made by the Local Government. The pay of officers in the Indian Educational Service ranges from Rs 400 to Rs 1,765 per annum with allowances in special cases while that of persons in the Women's Branch ranges from Rs 400 to Rs 1,650. In the Madras Educational Service the minimum and maximum pay are Rs 250 and Rs 500 and in the Women's Branch Rs 300 and Rs 500.

For the purpose of the administration of the education of boys the Presidency is divided into 16 circles and for that of girls into 8 circles, each of which is under an inspector or inspectress of schools. There is an Inspector of European Schools belonging to the Indian Educational Service with a provincial assistant. The inspectors and inspectresses are members of the Indian Educational Service.

Where Inspector's circles include more than one district—each district has an assistant Inspector. Under these are 161 sub-constant inspectors; there are also 14 sub-assistant inspectors of Mahamadan and Mappilla schools and one sub-assistant-inspector for Bangalore. There are a Superintendent and 2 supervisors of Sanskrit Schools. For the supervision of Girls' Schools there are 3 provincial assistant inspectresses and 18 sub-assistants of the subordinate service. Except in the Agency and in connection with Sanskrit schools the office of supervisors of boys' elementary schools was recently abolished. An adviser with specialism and 8 touring demonstrators supervise physical training.

The Text-book Committee was appointed to take into consideration such books as may be referred to it by the Director of Public Instruction and to advise him on their suitability to advise the Educational Department on the steps to be taken for the preparation and publication of new text books when necessary and to help in forming under the control of the Director of Public Instruction (1) an educational library containing copies of all text-books approved from time to time by the department copies of text-books approved or prescribed in other provinces of India and in other countries and copies of works on the theory the practice and history of education and (2) an educational museum containing plans and models of school buildings and specimens of maps diagrams, apparatus and appliances suitable for schools. The committee consists of 40 members appointed by the Director of Public Instruction, who is the ex-officio president. The committee submits half yearly to the Director a list of books considered with its recommendations. The Director publishes lists of books approved for use in institutions under public management and approved for use in recognised institutions under private management.

Educational institutions are classified independently in three ways. First they are classified as private institutions and public institutions. All indigenous schools which have not accepted the departmental standard of instruction and all others in which the course of instruction however advanced, does not conform to the standards prescribed or accepted by the University or by the department are private institutions. Public institutions include all other institutions whether under public management (i.e. managed by Government by local boards or by municipalities) or under private management the latter may be either aided by Government by local boards or by municipalities or financially independent.

Schools not managed by Government are divided into 'recognised' and 'unrecognised.' The conditions of recognition (vide the Madras Educational Rules) deal with the general educational qualifications of the staff the prohibition of political activities among managers teachers and pupils the proportion of teachers to pupils the accommodation and appliances, sanitary inspection, fees, the admission promotion and withdrawal of pupils, discipline and registers.

Secondly public institutions are classified according to the standard of instruction provided into elementary schools (lower and higher) secondary schools special schools (art law etc.) arts colleges (second grade and first grade) affiliated to the University of Madras and professional colleges (law, etc.) also affiliated to the University. In second grade colleges the highest instruction is that required for the intermediate examination in arts and science while in first-grade colleges students are educated for the B. A. honours degree or pass examination. In each of the professional colleges instruction for the corresponding degree examination is given.

Lastly schools may be divided into 'English' and 'Vernacular.' English schools include all schools in which English is used as the general medium of instruction either throughout the schools or in one or more of the higher classes or forms. Other schools are vernacular schools.

Examinations are held annually to test the teaching qualifications of the candidates and certificates are granted on the results of these examinations. They are of three kinds—general teachers' certificates of ability to teach the subjects that are ordinarily contained in the curricula of schools for general instruction technical teachers' certificates of ability to teach in any one of the subjects included in the Government technical examination schemes; and physical training instructors' certificates. Teachers' certificates are of three grades—collegiate granted only to persons who have taken the degree of Licentiate in Teaching in the University secondary and elementary. There are two grades of technical teachers' certificates namely, lower and higher. In each grade, certificates are divided into first and second classes. Examinations for secondary and elementary certificates are held at different centres by the Commissioner for Government Examinations. The examination for the teachers' certificates comprises a written test in pedagogy for the secondary grade and in some subjects of general education also for the elementary grade. Successful candidates are called probationary certificated teachers. After not less than 18 months of satisfactory teaching work in a recognised school probationers are, if suitable confirmed after a further test. No candidate is admitted to the test for a technical teachers' certificate unless he has passed the lower and higher technical examination, as the case may be, in the subject in which he desires to be tested or an equivalent examination. The nature of the examination varies with the subject but must include a practical test in teaching a class in the subject.

Training institutions are divided into three classes, training colleges and secondary and elementary training schools according to the grade of teachers' certificate for which the pupils are trained. In addition to the colleges at Saidapet and Rajahmundry Government maintain at present 20 training schools for masters, 15 training schools for mistresses, and 2 for physical training instructor. Government also maintain in full the L. T. Class attached to the St. Joseph's College Trichinopoly, and aided secondary training classes attached to the Pithapur Raja's College, Coimbatore C. M. B.

Noble College, Madhavaram, S. P. G. High School, Nandyal and Thirupathi High School, Ambur. Local burses from time to time run seasonal schools for students of a few months; teachers monthly appointed for this work move from place to place, their object being to improve the general education of local teachers who have not secured the secondary school-leaving certificate and also to give instruction in the theory and art of teaching. Students from the Madras Presidency are admitted to the Government training institutions free; but outsiders are called upon to pay fees. A course usually occupies two years, but for the B. T. degree it occupies only one year. Stipends are granted by Government to the great majority of the students. Local Boards also may grant stipends.

Schools are classified, according to the aims and character of the instruction given in them, into secondary and elementary. Secondary schools prepare their pupils for the University and for professional, commercial and industrial careers. Elementary schools aim more at providing a foundation of general and useful knowledge than at preparing children specially for a course of secondary education; but the education in the three lowest standards is such as to constitute a common foundation for both elementary and secondary education. A much higher standard of staff buildings and equipment is expected of secondary than of elementary schools and the fees are correspondingly higher.

This simplification of classification and the change in the relations between the secondary and elementary schools have made public examinations marking the transition from one grade of education to another unnecessary and the old primary and lower and upper secondary examinations have been abolished. The University matriculation examination is still held, but the schools have universally taken up the secondary school-leaving certificate scheme and the number of candidates for matriculation from this Presidency has become negligible.

The need for leaving certificates as evidence of a course of education having been satisfactorily accomplished was, however, recognised. These certificates are of two grades: elementary and secondary. The first are granted on the result of an examination in the ordinary school subjects held in the elementary schools itself by an officer not lower in rank than a sub-assistant inspector. The second are granted by a board of which the Director is the president in accordance with the following scheme. The list of subjects includes all those now studied in schools and any others which seem useful.

With a view to enabling pupils of promise to prosecute their studies the Government award certain scholarships annually. Particulars regarding them are published annually in the Port St. George Gazette.

Special scholarships, tenable for one year, are awarded to deserving Mappilla pupils in the Ernad and Valluvand taluks in Malabar with a view to subduing by the spread of education, the ignorant fanaticism of the masses of this community. General scholarships are awarded annually to pupils reading in the higher standards of elementary schools. Special scholarships are given to encourage the education of the children of aboriginal backward and criminal tribes and classes such as the Koyas, Bavaras, Valayas and Koravars; Muhammadans and Adi-Dravidas and Adi Andhras. In secondary schools also have their allotted scholarships. Industrial Schools are under the control of the Director of Industries. These are aided institutions providing instruction to persons of both sexes in various industrial subjects. These institutions are scattered through out the Presidency and are under the immediate charge of a special inspector. In addition to the aided institutions, there are four Government institutions, three of which are situated in Madras and the fourth at Madurai. The Madras Trades School aims at supplying the industrial public with intelligent and skilled mechanics, electricians and plumbers equipped with a sound theoretical and practical training. Admission to the school is restricted to boys, journeymen and workmen who are actually engaged in the trade which they wish to study.

Technical examinations are held annually under the control of the Commissioner of Government Examinations in 88 subjects under the following heads:—civil engineering, mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, physical sciences, geology, biology, sanitary sciences, pharmacy, veterinary, sciences, commerce, vernacular shorthand, drawing, jeweller's work, printing, book binding, type founding, leather work, textile fabrics, glass and pottery, tailoring and dress-making and cookery.

With a view to providing facilities to men of suitable age and skill possessing exceptional initiative in any branch of industry and who seem likely to add considerably to their usefulness by a special training in Europe, eight State Technical Scholarships of the value of £200 plus 25 per cent bonus have been instituted. These scholarships are awarded for not less than two or more than five years. The examinations are made by a board specially constituted for the purpose. Fifteen scholarships of the value of Rs. 60 per annum tenable at the Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, have been instituted with a view to providing adequate facilities for the technical training of intending chemists. The scholarships are awarded for study in the departments of applied chemistry, bio-chemistry and electrical technology. Six scholarships per annum of the monthly value of Rs. 60 tenable at the Victoria Institute Bombay are awarded to students of this Presidency. The minimum educational qualifications required of the applicants is a completed secondary school-leaving certificate. The scholarships are tenable for a period of four years and are awarded for the study of applied chemistry, sanitary engineering and plumbing, and textile manufacture. Sixty scholarships tenable for five years are awarded annually by the Director of Industries to pupils learning a trade or profession in recognised industrial schools, or to selected apprentices (boys or girls) serving properly arranged apprenticeships for a specified term of training in workshops or mills where suitable provision is made for glass in education. The aim of these scholarships is to encourage deserving apprentices and pupils to complete their whole apprenticeship or period of training at one institution or workshop and so to some extent to check the present tendency of apprentices to move from workshop to workshop in search of a few such increase in wages to the detriment of their training and the annoyance of their employers. These relationships which are ordinarily awarded to the members of the artisan class or to children whose families are already engaged in the trade rise in value from Rs. 1-6-6 in the first year to Rs. 7-0-0 in the fifth year and a year 15 bonus is given for good work.

The Local Government exerts considerable influence over education not only directly by the tenure of institutions from provincial funds and by the exercise of the extensive powers of control vested in them over local boards and municipal councils by the Acts relating to those bodies, but also indirectly by making grants to managers of institutions under private management on condition of compliance with certain regulations and by allowing local boards and municipal councils to make similar grants towards the cost of maintenance of elementary schools on the recommendation of officers of the Educational Department. If aid is sought on behalf of an institution, the conditions of recognition must be fulfilled unless the institution has been exempted from their operation. The recognition of secondary schools vests in the Director of Public Instruction while the recognition of elementary schools vests in the District Educational Councils formed under the Madras Elementary Education Act. Text books which are not included in the authorised list of text-books may not be used in aided institutions without the express sanction of the Director. The whole income of an aided school must be devoted to educational purposes.

The systems of distributing grants differ in elementary schools for Indians, secondary schools for Indians, colleges and special schools and European schools. Teaching grants in elementary schools are given on the basis of the number of teachers and vary according to the grade of instruction given and the teachers' qualifications. The grants may be reduced or suspended in cases where there has been falsification of the registers or misrepresentation regarding the employment of teachers or the attendance of pupils, or violation of any of the conditions of recognition and aid or any other irregularity. They may also be increased by 50 per cent. for any improvement in efficiency, more especially for the introduction of any method of teaching calculated to train the children's faculties and powers of expression and observation, proper attention to physical exercise and generally any attempt to fit the children to their position in life and diminished by 30 per cent. for inefficiency. These grants are paid by District Educational Councils out of funds placed at their disposal by Government.

In secondary schools teaching grants are intended to supplement equally the income guaranteed from endowments, subscriptions, donations and other private sources and in practice the sum assigned usually amounts to half the net cost of the school excluding expenditure on account of which grants can otherwise be given, such as on new building furniture and apparatus and assuming that fees are received from all pupils at rate fixed by Government and called the standard rates.

The grants for colleges and special schools are fixed by the Director after taking into consideration all the facts of the case.

Grants for European schools are fixed for three years by the Director on general considerations. Grants are also made towards stipends, to managers of training institutions, to students in technical schools, for the maintenance of European children for school buildings for hostels or boarding houses for students for furniture, books and appliances required for schools, public libraries and reading rooms. In many cases the amount of grants depends on the sums contributed by managers of institutions or private persons. Full details regarding grants will be found in the Grant-in-Aid Code.

The Law College, Madras, is at present the only educational institution in the presidency itself which affords facilities for the study of law. It was founded in 1891 as it was found that the law classes formerly attached to the Presidency College were unwieldy and the course of instruction was inadequate. The ostensible aim of the college is instruction in the theory of law; practically it is intended to afford instruction to students preparing for the various examinations in law. It is affiliated to the Madras University. The rules regulating its constitution and working are sanctioned by the Local Government. The staff has been reorganised with effect from the beginning of 1925. The general management of the college is vested in a council subject to the general control of the Director of Public Instruction. The council consists of two or more Judges of the High Court, the Principal, the Advocate-General, two professors and such other members as may be appointed by Government, the executive management of the college is vested in the Principal who is independent of the council in all matters of discipline. The college contains four kinds of classes; (1) B.L. classes; (2) B.L. classes, (3) Pleadership classes and (4) Special classes for students attending the college but not preparing for the University or Pleadership Examinations. Fees are levied at half rates for Muhammadans and Oriyas. There are two terms a year. Lending and consulting libraries are attached to the college.

The Medical School established by Government in 1835 became a College in 1851. The control of the college was transferred in 1903 from the Medical Board to the Director of Public Instruction and in 1911 from him to the Surgeon-General. In 1857 the college was affiliated to the University of Madras. The government of the college is subject to the general control of the Surgeon-General, now vested in the Principal who is aided by a consultative council composed of all the professors and of any other members who may be appointed by Government. The staff consists of a principal, twelve professors, two lecturers, twenty three assistant professors and a physical training instructor. The college contains four departments, (i) the College department, in which students are prepared for the M.B.B.S. and the L.M.S. degrees; (ii) the Assistant Surgeons' department, consisting only of military pupils, selected by the Director-General Indian Medical Service, for qualifying as military Assistant Surgeons and of female pupils; (iii) the Chemist and Druggist department; and (iv) the Sanitary Inspector's department. Attendance at the lectures given in the Medical College is recognised in Great Britain as partial qualification for degrees and diplomas granted in that country. Numerous scholarships, medals and prizes are awarded to students of the college. Museums, a library and a gymnasium are attached to the college. Students have also the advantage of attending classes held in the General Hospital, the Ophthalmic Hospital, the Maternity Hospital and the Mental Hospital. A second Medical College has recently been established at Vinnagapattam.

In the year 1878 a School of Agriculture was established at Saidapet. Prior to this date instruction of an elementary character had been given to a few apprentices. In 1878 the name of the institution was changed into that of "Agricultural College." The Principal of the college was then also the Superintendent of the Government Farm at Saidapet. The educational side of his work was controlled by the Director of Public Instruction, while his practical administration was under the control of the Board of Revenue. In 1888 the farm was abolished and the college came under the sole control of the Educational Department. The growth of agricultural science and research led to the moving of the college to its present site at Coimbatore in 1906, the first batch of students entered the college in June 1906 and diplomas were first awarded in March 1911. Attached to the college are a hostel for students and quarters for the staff. The general farm and college estate occupy about 600 acres, of which about 340 acres are under cultivation. In addition to ordinary farm buildings there are a dairy, workshops and a veterinary hospital, and three plant breeding stations for cotton, paddy and sugarcane. The responsibility for the discipline and management of the college is vested in the Principal, subject to the control of the Director of Agriculture. There are a number of scientific sections of an instructional or scientific nature in the college each in charge of a member of the Indian Agricultural Service under the direct control of the Director of Agriculture. The instruction given at the college is designed to be a practical and scientific training for those who intend to make agriculture their profession. The college was affiliated to Madras University early in 1923 when the University degree of B.Sc. Ag. was instituted. The courses of instruction provided are (1) a two years' course of a practical nature in which scientific instruction as such plays no part a certificate of proficiency is awarded to competent students and (2) a three years' course leading up to the degree of B.Sc. Ag. in which a thorough training in the practice and theory of scientific agriculture is given. Students are required to have passed completely the intermediate examination in arts of the Madras University and should be qualified in Group I or II. Free tuition and lodging are given to students of the Presidency and of Coorg. A certain number of Government scholarships of the value of Rs. 24 per annum are offered to students entering the degree course and there is one private scholarship of Rs. 118 per annum for which students from Malabar are eligible. Successful students have the prospect of employment of managers or agents to zamindars, planters and estates (wars) or in the Government Agricultural Department.

In 1903 the Veterinary College at Vepery, Madras was instituted, in connection with the Society for Preventing Cruelty to Animals, to meet the pressing demand for subordinates trained in veterinary duties. The college affords theoretical and practical instruction with the object of training men for service under Government, municipalities, local boards or private employers. The present staff of the college consists of a principal, two other Imperial officers, an assistant principal, three lecturers and two assistant lecturers. The responsibility for the discipline and management of the college is vested in the principal who is under the direct control of Government in the Development Department. A veterinary hospital, a bacteriological laboratory, a shoeing forge and a hostel are attached to the college. The age limit for admission to the college are from 16 to 22 years. Except in the case of Europeans and Anglo Indians educational qualifications of a school final examination standard are demanded. All students are on probation for the first two months of the three years' course. During the first year students are given practical instruction in training, dressing, handling, castrating and securing animals as well as in the names of the instruments and appliances used in ordinary practice. In the second year they attend hospital practice and receive clinical instruction. They also attend at the forge and pharmacy carry out dissections and perform operations on dead subjects. During the third year they perform the duties of clinical clerks and dressers perform operations on dead subjects and afterwards on living animals conduct post-mortem examinations and carry out practically all the duties appertaining to their profession. The tuition is free to all students who execute an agreement binding themselves to serve Government for five years if required after completing their course in the college satisfactorily. All others are required to pay tuition fee in advance at the rate of Rs. 400 per annum. Forty students are admitted to the college each year and all are awarded scholarships. Five of the forty scholarships are reserved for Muhammadans. Students who are in the enjoyment of Government scholarships are required to refund the amount they have received as stipend and to pay tuition fees if they leave the college without sanction or are expelled for misconduct. A diploma of graduation in veterinary science is awarded to students who pass the final examination on the completion of their course. Graduates of the college are eligible for appointment to posts in the Provincial and subordinate services in this Presidency but Government are under no obligation to find employment for them.

The Engineering College at Guindy, Madras, established in the year 1794 as a Survey School developed into a Civil Engineering College in 1867. It received official recognition in 1886 and was affiliated to the Madras University in 1877. It affords theoretical and practical instruction in the professional duties of engineers and subordinate engineers. The responsibility for the discipline and management of the college is vested in the principal, under the control of the Director of Public Instruction. The full staff consists of a principal, six professors, a number of instructors and assistants, who are recruited from the cadre of the Department of Public Works, a workshop instructor and a instructor in physical training. The college contains two classes, a five years' Engineers class for training civil and mechanical engineers and a four years' course subordinate class for training subordinates for the Public Works Department, Revenue Department, Local Boards and Municipalities. Casual students are also admitted to the Engineer class. Students in the higher course of engineering are prepared for the B. E. degree examination of the Madras University. Government awards scholarships tenable in the college and there are also certain endowed scholarships. Some of the students of the engineering class who proceed to the Perambur Work Shops of the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway, the central power station of the Madras Electric Supply Corporation, the Madras Harbour works, or the Madras water supply and drainage works receive a refund of half the premium charged, if their subsequent work gives satisfaction. Four stipends are awarded annually to persons to be trained as teachers in technical or industrial schools. On his successful completion of a course in either of the two classes a student is granted a diploma, and this diploma gives him a prior claim to certain appointments in the Public Works Department and under Local Boards.

The Teachers College was established as the Government Normal School in 1886, was converted into a college and affiliated to the University in 1886. The staff consists of a principal, a vice-principal, five lecturers and instructors for manual training drawing and physical training and a number of assistants. The college is intended primarily for the training of graduate teachers from the Presidency, but if accommodation is available students from Native States are admitted. A secondary training class is attached to the college. The students, who receive stipends from Government ranging from Rs 19 to Rs 20 per mensem, according to their qualifications are trained for the L. T. degree examination of the Madras University. Instruction is also given to the students in physical training drawing and manual training and they may appear for public examinations in these subjects. A model school of the secondary standard is attached to the college and has an independent staff of teachers. There is also a kindergarten department presided over by a European lady. The college has a large library and an educational museum. Connected with the college are a Teachers Association, of which all the students are members, a reading room and a recreation club and a hostel. The college accommodation is extensive and it is provided with a well equipped laboratory for physical and natural science.

The Training College Rajahmundry which was abolished in 1911 was re opened in 1917 with a view to providing for the training of graduate teachers in Telugu districts. The staff consists of a principal, a junior professor of education three lecturers and instructors in drawing and physical and manual training. The college prepares students for the L. T. degree examination but has not been affiliated to the University. Attached to the college are a model school of the secondary standard with an independent staff of teachers and a secondary training section.

In the year 1856 Sir Henry Lawrence K. C. B. offered a donation of Rs 2000 and a subscription of Rs 1000 a year so long as he might be in India for the establishment at some hill station in the Presidency of an institution on the lines of the Lawrence Asylum of Sonawar and at Mount Abu for the benefit of children of soldiers of the British Army who were serving or had served in Madras. The Lawrence Asylum was accordingly established in 1868 at Ootacamund with the aid of the foundation money and of subscriptions raised in the army and in England. It was amalgamated with the Madras Military Male Orphan Asylum in 1871 on the completion of new buildings at Lovedale near Ootacamund. Though the Asylum does not belong to Government it is largely controlled by Governments who have sanctioned a code of rules relating to its management and constitution and furnished with two fixed annual grants in aid amounting to Rs 54 000. The institution consists of branches for boys and girls the maximum strength of the branches being 100 and 125. It is intended for European and Eurasian children especially the orphan children of Military officers and soldiers. The management of the Asylum is vested in a Committee of which the General Officer Commanding Madras District is ex-officio chairman and the principal is ordinarily the secretary. The staff consists of a principal a headmaster in the branch for boys a headmistress in the branch for girls and several assistant teachers in each branch. Instruction in literary subjects is given to boys as far as the standard of the European schools high school examination but only such pupils as would clearly benefit by a high school education are allowed to go beyond the middle school. Instruction is also given in technical subjects such as shorthand typewriting and telegraphy and special classes are held for pupils preparing for the medical and railway examinations. Religious instruction of a non-sectarian character is given, but visits from clergymen of the various denominations are permitted. Scholarships are awarded to pupils of promise to enable them to complete a course in arts or a technical college or industrial training in some well known firm or institution. Stipends are also given to girls to enable them to be trained as teachers.

No person can be appointed in this Presidency to a Government post carrying a salary of Rs 35 per mensem in the mofussil or Rs 40 per mensem in Madras City or more unless he has passed with success through the secondary stage of education. Government accept as evidence of this standard and pass in the matriculation examination of any Indian University in a school final examination, in the European schools high school examination, or in certain examinations held in Great Britain or a Madras secondary school leaving certificate showing knowledge in English elementary mathematics and vernacular composition and translation and in at least one of the other subjects selected by the candidate. Persons in the public service have to pass certain special tests before they can hold some of the higher appointments. These tests include translation accounts civil judicial, criminal judicial, revenue and jail tests.

For the conduct of examinations held by Government, the office of Commissioner for the Unemployment Civil Services examinations, etc., as the office is now called, Commissioner for Government Examinations was instituted in 1904. It was expanded at first to the Director of Public Instruction, subsequently to a Member of the Board of Revenue, and finally in 1930 to the Director of Public Instruction. Examinations are appointed by the Commissioner and are paid out of the fees realized from the candidates. Most of the examinations prescribed for entry into Government in the various departments of the public service are conducted by the Commissioner. The examinations are held at a large number of centres in the Presidency, and in some cases in the Native States.

The heads of the various Government departments are required to pass tests in such subjects as languages, law, and departmental rules, and high proficiency in the vernaculars is encouraged by the granting of rewards after examination. To conduct these examinations, the Board of Examiners has been constituted and the President selects examiners from the Board. The present Board consists of a President who is usually a member of the Board of Revenue, two ex-officio members, and a varying number of special members appointed by Government from time to time. The present Board consists of Inspector General of Police, certain Conservators of Forests, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, the Professor of Medical Jurisprudence in the Medical College, the Registrar of the High Court and the Translators to Government are ex-officio members of the Board. The Officers, who are examined by the Board include members of the Indian Civil Service, Police Officers, Forest Officers, Cantonment Magistrates, Officers of the Provincial Service, Officers of the Agricultural, Veterinary and Fishery Departments, European and Anglo-Indian Officers of the Educational Department and European and Anglo-Indian Officers of other Civil Departments in the Presidency. Military Officers including commissioned Medical Officers who are District Medical and Sanitary Officers are examined only in the vernacular languages. Ladies related to European Officers in the employment of Government, the railways, the Imperial Bank of India and certain firms are eligible for examination in the vernacular languages and for the rewards granted for proficiency. The examinations are usually held twice a year (in January and July, at Madras) but may, in some cases, be held simultaneously at other centres. The tests for Officers of the Salt, Akhbari and Customs Departments are also conducted by this Board through examiners appointed from the department.

The Pleadership examination was instituted in 1879 for the purpose of ascertaining 'the qualifications of persons desirous of becoming pleaders in courts subordinate to High Court with reference to the rules framed by the High Court under Section 6 of the Legal Practitioners' Act XVI of 1879. The Board consists of a Judge of the High Court, the Advocate General, the Government Pleader, the Principal of the Law College a Barrister and a High Court Vakil with the Deputy Registrar of the High Court Appellate Side as member and secretary. The examination is held once a year at Madras. The High Court from time to time prescribes the subjects of examination and determines the general qualifications and standard of proficiency for the first grade certificate. Examiners are appointed by Government to conduct each examination on the recommendation of the Examination Board.

Town planning—Under Section 7 of the Town planning Act, 1920, Government appointed a Director of Town planning, with effect from December 1, 1931, to advise the Government and direct and assist the several local bodies viz., Municipalities, District, Taluk and Union Boards on all matters concerning town planning and improvement schemes and housing schemes for the poorer and working classes. He is to investigate and report from time to time, on Town planning projects in the Presidency. He is to guide the Municipalities in the preparation of an important report (the Civil Survey). He is assisted by another provincial officer with high engineering qualifications who is designated as Personal Assistant.

WORK DONE BY DEPARTMENT IN 1926-27

AGRICULTURE

The year is noticeable for two outstanding features: the opening of the Freeman Buildings by H. B. Lord Goshen and the visit of the Royal Commission on agriculture. The Agricultural College, Coimbatore, and two agricultural middle schools were managed by the department. At the College, as the Certificate course came to an end in April 1928, only the Degree course was in progress during the year. This is the first year in which 40 students were admitted into the College. 26 out of 37 students passed the B.Sc. Ag. examination. The working of the Anakapalle has shown that the value of practical training in improved methods of agriculture is not sufficiently appreciated in that locality. Classes for juvenile and adult labourers were continued at the agricultural stations at Coimbatore, Palu and Anakapalle.

The research work of the department was carried on as in previous years both at Coimbatore and at the various experimental stations of which there are now thirty-one in the Presidency. Attention is chiefly devoted to the paddy and cotton crops and it is satisfactory that not only has research on these two crops found certain improved strains and better methods of cultivation but that the ryots are willing to take advantage of the results of the research. The demand for improved strains of paddy from the Adair station, for example was more than twelve times the amount which the station could supply.

HISTORY OF ADMINISTRATION.

The work on cotton has been chiefly devoted to the introduction of improved strains and to the administration of the Cotton Transport Act while it is directed to prevent the introduction of the virus. In this connection there are three areas, viz., the Marathwada and Western Ghats, the Trappan Chittur area and the Tanjore area, which are protected under the Act, and in each of these the Government have evolved and distributed improved types of cotton. The work of this department has been largely infructuous in the past owing to the introduction of inferior cotton from outside and it is to improve this state of affairs that the Cotton Transport Act has been brought into force. The working of the Act has given rise to certain difficulties and the question of amending the rules is at present under consideration.

Experiments on sugarcane, dry crops, coconuts, etc., continued during the year. There is nothing of special importance to be mentioned in the work of the various special sections at the Research Institute.

It is hoped that there will be considerable expansion in the Livestock Section when the Hosur Cattle Farm is working at full capacity. The Government have recently decided that this farm is to be run primarily for breeding purposes, and endeavours are being made to distribute the bulls bred there so that a definite effort may be made to effect a much needed improvement in stock. The number of bulls at present available for distribution is not large but will increase as time goes on.

The work of the Agricultural Department does not end with research; the improvements and knowledge which the department has at its disposal must be brought to the notice of the cultivator, and every effort must be made to induce him to make use of the advantages offered by the department. It is necessary to demonstrate that the methods of cultivation and the agricultural implements, recommended by the department are not only satisfactory in the research institute and on the farms managed by the department but can be proved to be satisfactory under the ordinary conditions obtaining in the village. It is with a view to show this that the department has inaugurated a system of demonstration plots of which there are now many hundreds in the Presidency. These plots are established on the ryots' own land so that the new methods can be contrasted with the old. It affords some satisfaction to the department to know that its work is bearing fruit, the number of these plots has increased and there is a constant demand for more. The work of demonstration, however, has been hampered in the past by lack of men and money, but there are signs that in the future there will be a sufficiency of money to enable the Director to bring the work of his department prominently to the notice of the ryot in all parts of the Presidency.

The Agricultural and Co-operative departments realize that their work is in certain respects interdependent. A special feature of the year has been the work of agricultural improvement taken up by certain co-operative societies in the Trichinopoly circle. These societies undertake the cultivation of an area of land, adopting the advice and improvements suggested by the department. They are formed with the object of demonstrating and advertising to the neighbouring ryots the results of the researches of the Agricultural Department. The Director reports that the results of working show that an increased profit can be obtained from the methods of agriculture advocated by the department.

REGISTERED COMPANIES

At the beginning of the year 789 companies were working. 53 companies were registered during the year, two companies were restored to the register, and 63 companies were either wound up or struck off the register. Of the 745 companies working at the close of the year, 667 had share capital and 83 had no share capital. There were more banking and loan companies than trading and industrial companies. The fall in the number of working companies was ascribed to the stringency of the money market, the depression in trade, the development of the co-operative movement and the effects of the floods in the southern and western districts. The aggregate capital of the new companies registered was Rs. 1 crore. Nearly 70 per cent of the new companies registered had an authorised capital of only one lakh each or less. The largest flotation during the year was the South Indian Farms Ltd., Trichinopoly with an authorised capital Rs. 25 lakhs. The second largest was the Chittavaleb Jute Mills Co., Ltd., Vinnagapattam (15 lakhs). The aggregate paid up capital of registered companies was Rs. 12.3 crores. At the end of the year there were 45 certified auditors of whom 35 possessed unrestricted certificates and 20 restricted certificates. Two firms were recognised as firms qualified to act as auditors. There were 14 provident insurance societies and six life assurance societies working at the end of the year.

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES.

GENERAL. The re-organisation scheme for the upper controlling staff came into full effect during the year there being 34 Assistant Registrars sections in addition to the special agency section. In April 1926 the appointment of a Joint Registrar was sanctioned for one year to deal with the non-credit work generally, subject to the control of the Registrar. Government also sanctioned the retention for a period of two years from 1st April 1926 of the special staff which was sanctioned last year for reclamation work in the districts of Tanjore and Trichinopoly. Excluding the posts of Registrar and Joint Registrar, the entire staff including menials was 538 at the end of the year. 46 Honorary Assistant Registrars were appointed during the year under review making a total of 232. The total cost of working the Co-operative Societies Act during the year was Rs. 7.80 lakhs. This represents 55 per cent of the working capital, as compared with last year's figure of 61 per cent.

NUMBERS OF SOCIETIES There were 11,978 societies of all classes at the close of last year and during the year 1,455 societies were registered the registration of 71 societies was cancelled leaving 13,327 societies at the end of the year. Of the societies registered during the year 1,390 are agricultural societies, 1,135 are non agricultural societies 33 local supervising unions and one propagandist union.

WORKING CAPITAL OF SOCIETIES The working capital of all the societies on the last day of the year was Rs 1,384 8½ lakhs as compared with Rs 1,028 80 lakhs in the previous year. The paid up share capital of all societies rose from Rs 1,33 9½ lakhs to Rs 17,43 lakhs deposits by individuals and institutions from Rs 477 4½ lakhs to Rs 2,06 17 lakhs and the reserve fund increased from Rs 46 90 lakhs to Rs 68 54 lakhs. Without taking into account the investments of one society in another the total working capital employed in the movement amounted to Rs 72,25 lakhs at the end of the year according to the following table —

	Lakhs of Rs
Paid up share capital of individuals	169 07
Deposits of individuals	506 1
Reserve Fund	58 23
Loans from Government	23 99
Total	7 30

There is a clear increase of Rs 193 lakhs over the corresponding figure of the previous year and this indicates the long used principle of the co-operative movement.

CENTRAL BANKS The number of central banks including the Provincial Bank remained at 12 during the year. The development of labour societies continued and 9 additional societies were registered during the year bringing the total to 57. In the course of the year the societies secured work contracts for Rs 6 68 lakhs. The work of the special societies formed last year for land reclamation work in Bangalore and Trichinopoly districts showed tangible results. There were 10 land mortgage banks at work. The special object of these banks is the provision of loans to small and medium land improvement work etc. and it is also hoped by these means to attract more large scale deposits.

An outstanding feature of the year was the organisation of a dairy milk supply societies in the Chingleput District in a suburb of Madras City.

	1920-26	1927-28
	Lakhs	Lakhs
Working Capital	39½	4 8
Deposits	346	429
Paid up share Capital	40 3	44 93
Reserve Fund	10 39	12 5½

From this it will be seen that the expansion noticed in former years as regards (1) deposits and borrowings (2) total working capital and (3) reserve fund has been steadily maintained during the year.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES The number of agricultural societies of all classes increased by 1,235. At the close of the year there were 11,436 agricultural societies.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT SOCIETIES The number of credit societies was 11,000 of which 46 were on a limited liability basis. Their position was as below —

	1927-28	1928-27
	Lakhs	Lakhs
Working Capital	399 23	499 5½
Paid up share Capital	48 91	59 27
Deposits	17 71	19 83
Loans from Central Banks	304 0	375 5½
Loans from Government	6 14	8 12

Progress during the year has been satisfactory. The total divisible profit earned by the societies during the year was Rs 9 26 lakhs. The total loss not yet recovered by the societies at the end of the year was Rs 9 1½ lakhs. Of the 10,038 societies actually working during the year 4,346 societies worked at a loss after excluding dividend interest from the profit. Of these only 1,153 worked at a real loss which amounted to Rs 8½ lakhs.

NON AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES, CREDIT SOCIETIES: The total number of societies of this class rose from 1,078 at the beginning of the year to 1,114 at the end of the year, 790 of these being on a Limited Liability basis, and 328 on an unlimited liability basis. There was a marked improvement in the transaction of the societies and their membership. Their position is set up below:—

	1926-27 Lakhs	1926-27 Lakhs
Number of members	1,70,592	1,84,780
Paid up share Capital	46,07,503	56,47,489
Deposits by individuals	88,11,189	1,00,53,148
Working Capital	1,07,90,395	1,24,58,355
Net divisible profit for the year	6,21,136	7,081,49

Fifty eight non-agricultural credit societies on a thrift basis mainly consisting of the Adi-Andhras accumulated savings of Rs. 24,844. There were 114 societies in South Kanara, consisting of field labourers and fishermen on a thrift basis. The wage-barners societies increased in number and continued to work satisfactorily. The reduction of arrears by pay disbursing officers has to a large extent reduced the arrears in these societies.

RESERVE FUND The total reserve fund of all societies will amount to Rs. 68.54 lakhs as compared with Rs. 56.50 lakhs in the previous year, after making contributions to reserve according to the audit instructions on the accounts for the year. This sum is made up as follows:—

	1926-26 Rs	1926-27 Rs
Madras Central Urban Bank (Provincial Bank)	6,00,000	7,00,000
District Central Banks	10,88,990	12,58,581
Agricultural Primary Societies	7,30,0,089	88,81,184
Non-agricultural primary Societies	18,10,445	18,58,614
Total	66,50,114	68,58,649

The reserve fund of the Madras Central Urban Bank is invested in Government paper while the district central banks have invested their reserve funds in the Madras Central Urban Bank. The reserve fund of primary societies are invested in the district central banks. The total reserve of all societies has increased by 21.28 per cent during the year and their working capital has risen by 17.79 per cent.

SUPERVISION: At the end of the year there were 86 local supervising unions to which were affiliated 10,709 primary societies out of a total number 12,000. The proportion of the cost of administering the Co-operative Societies Act which is borne by the societies continued to increase. This year the contributions made by societies amounted to 43 per cent. of the amount spent by Government.

MISCELLANEOUS: Two important amendments to the rules were made during the year. The first authorises the levy of audit fees on societies. The second prescribes the fund resources to be maintained when one society gives a cash credit to another. The 15th Provincial Co-operative Conference was held in April 1927 and there were a number of district conferences held. In addition several joint conferences were held in which officers of the Agricultural Industries and Veterinary departments took part and gave practical advice and lectures which were of great help in dealing with the purchase of agricultural requirements.

EDUCATION

The most important educational feature of the year was the progress made in pursuing the Government's policy for the expansion of Elementary Education. sanction was accorded for the opening in all of 1654 schools. Five hundred Elementary Schools were under the management of Village Panchayats—a development of the new agency in the sphere of Elementary Education.

The number of public institutions rose by 2,965 to 50,941 and their strength by 1,74,494 to 24,40,874. The number of public and private institutions taken together rose by 3,066 and their strength by 1,88,484 to 25,28,188. The percentage of those under instruction to the whole population was 6 as against 5.5 in the year previous.

The total number of students in arts colleges for men was 11,842 as against 10,836 in the previous year of whom 552 students were undergoing Honours course and 9 Post Graduate course. The number of public Secondary schools for Indian boys rose from 513 to 528 and their strength from 1,57,600 to 1,64,955. The number of girls reading in these schools was 2,765. The number of public elementary schools for Indian boys rose by 2,747 to 45,378 and their strength by 1,50,368 to 19,65,617. The total number of teachers employed in these schools was 58,260 of whom 59,913 were trained teachers.

The number of schools solely intended for Indian girls rose by 144 to 3,567 and their strength by 15,984 to 2,40,864. The number of arts colleges remained the same but their strength rose from 890 to 418. 2 women were studying in colleges intended for men, 56 were reading in the Medical College and 3 in the Law College.

The number of secondary schools for girls was 64 and their strength rose from 13,535 to 13,189. Including girls reading in boys' schools 15,601 girls were receiving secondary education. The number of elementary schools for girls was 8,883 and the number of pupils was 2,28,345.

The total number of institutions for Europeans was 57 and their strength was 1,080. Of the 57 institutions, 44 were deemed and certified. For the Madras High School Examination 109 candidates were examined and 145 passed. For the Middle School Examination 251 were examined and 145 passed.

There were 2,243 public institutions specially intended for Muhammadans and 1,87,493 pupils were studying in them. There were 10,045 public institutions for Adi Dravidas and Adi Andras and there were 2,55,556 pupils studying in these institutions.

The total expenditure on education was Rs 483.72 lakhs.

FACTORIES

The Department of Factories continued to be under the control of the Commissioner of Labour. There were 1,378 factories on the list of registered factories at the end of the year, the number at the end of the previous year being 1,198. This increase in registration is largely due to the extensive provisions of the amended Factories Act. Of the 1,378 factories, 890 are perennial and 488 are seasonal factories. 878 factories are connected with the cotton industry. The average number of operatives employed in factories was 1,27,411. The actual number is probably much higher as mill owners in the majority of cases omit to include contract coolies. The increase was due to the increase in the number of registered factories. The total numbers of women boys and girls employed in 1935 were 27,094, 37,765 and 23,656 respectively. The decrease in child labour is attributed to the enforcement of restrictions on such labour. Under the amending Act the minimum and maximum ages for children have been raised from 9 and 14 to 12 and 15 years respectively. The health of the operatives was generally good. The sanitation of factories was fairly satisfactory. Wages fluctuated slightly in different districts and trades. There were nine strikes during the year none of which were of an abnormal nature. The causes of the strikes vary. In eight cases the causes were demands for higher wages, and in one case a demand for the reinstatement of dismissed workmen. In seven cases the demand was partly met after the lapse of one month in one case the strikers resumed work on being promised an increase in wages and in another case the services of the strikers were dispensed with and fresh men entertained. There were 9 fires during the year but there was no loss of life. The number of accidents that occurred during the year was 123 as against 109 in 1934. There were 15 fatal accidents and an increase in the number of serious accidents. Of the 15 fatal and 35 serious accidents 7 and 20 respectively were caused by mechanically driven machinery. The owners and managers of 54 factories, 94 persons in all were prosecuted for evasions of the provisions of the Act. The importance of welfare work was realised. Many factories took steps to ameliorate the condition of their employees; in some cases these took the form of the provision of canteen rooms or the organisation of sports and amusements.

The net financial result of the working of the department in the year represents an excess of revenue to the extent of nearly Rs 30,000; this, however, is due chiefly to the larger revenue which accrued from the two pearl fisheries held during the year, as the other sections did not do as well from a financial point of view as last year. Expenditure has increased in many sections and the chief revenue-producing section under the Assistant Director (Inland) has sustained a drop in profit of over Rs. 5,400 in the year.

The control of the Nilgiri fisheries, which was hitherto under the Collector of the Nilgiris was transferred during the year to the Director of Fisheries. The two co-operative societies for which the Government sanctioned the grant of a loan of Rs 1,500 each for the purchase of boats and nets were also started during the year under review. The general programme of fisheries research in this Presidency during the next ten years was also approved during the year.

Manufacture was not recommended in the fisheries cannery at Ohalyam as Sir F. Nicholson was not able to take up the management of the experimental and manufacturing side of the cannery as was originally arranged. Owing to the unfavourable fishing season on the west coast and the consequent scarcity of sardines and mackerel the Tannur experimental station suffered a loss of more than Rs 1,000. Though as a research station it is not expected to bring in any great profit, the station can in a favourable season be expected at least to pay its way. Though the operations at the station during the year were on a smaller scale the value of sales rose to Rs 14,574. The problem of manufacturing suitable medicinal oil from sardine has not yet been completely solved, while the industrial uses to which fish oil should be put remain to be investigated.

The departmental work at the Tannur station has given rise to the establishment of many private oil and gano factories on the west coast. Their number increased from 463 in the last year to 594. Many factories did not work during the year owing to the poor sardine season.

The two pearl fisheries held during the year ending 30th June 1937 brought in a handsome revenue of Rs. 2,30,691. The revenue would have been more but for the several adverse factors that were encountered during the fishery. The net profit amounted to Rs. 1,90,119 for the two fisheries. Owing to the unfavourable season the chank fisheries suffered a set back and the total number of chanks fished during the year was only 1,35,968 against 1,92,948 in the previous year.

The inland section which is concerned with the improvement of fish in fresh water tanks and rivers brought in a profit of only Rs. 8,435 against Rs. 8,877 in the last year. The fall in revenue is attributed to the failure of the north-east monsoon which led to the loss of rentals in several tanks. The income from fishery rentals amounted to Rs. 1,01,683 as against Rs. 1,05,078 in the previous year. The Panna farm and the Mopad fish farm were taken over from the Public Works Department towards the close of the year.

Despite adverse seasonal conditions, good work was done in the fish farms and the results of the experiments in the Vallure and Chulabhat fort fish farms in the stocking and breeding of otila were encouraging. The hila hatching experiments have not yet been satisfactorily concluded, while the attempts at breeding gourami have been very successful and it is hoped that the assistance of the department in introducing this fish in private tanks and ponds will be availed of by ryots and land holders. One of the objects of the Mopad farm, viz. that relating to the demonstration of successful method of deep water fishing, has not yet been attended with success though the Director reports that the possibility of Mopad being used to provide a steady supply of fresh water tank fish in the neighbourhood of the area has to a great extent been realised.

The fish curing yards that are maintained by the department both on the east and west coasts of the Presidency numbering 108 at present came under the control of the Fisheries Department on 1st April 1914. These institutions are the outcome of a policy adopted in 1874 to encourage the fish-ers to resort to public enclosures where they could get not only salt for curing fish at rates lower than the market rates but also to obtain facilities for curing their catches on hygienic and sanitary lines; though the fiscal aspect of these institutions has been in the forefront during the early years of their existence, these yards now serve more or less as centres of demonstration of improved and scientific methods which the department has, as a result of its work at the Tanar station, been able to offer to the fishermen. Owing to the influence of the Fisheries Department the proportion of fishermen ticket holders has increased in these yards and requests are being made to the department to open fish curing yards primarily for the benefit of actual fishermen. The working of the yards was affected during the year by the unfavourable season. The quantity of fish cured in the yards decreased with a corresponding reduction in the salt used, and the revenue obtained from the sale of salt. The cost of maintenance of these yards was Rs. 2,14,510 in 1926-27.

With a view to exploring the possibilities of deep-sea fishing, the Government purchased a second hand trawler from the Admiralty at a cost of £ 1,000 and the vessel arrived in India in April 1914. For various reasons she has not been able to undertake on any large scale either deep sea fishing or research work. The huller went out of order on her first voyage and has now been set right but the vessel requires to be fitted with cabins laboratory and accommodation for inspecting officers. Experience has also shown that a refrigerator and cold store room are necessary if the large hauls of fish expected in the course of deep-sea cruises, which have to be kept on board for hours and even days at times are to be kept fresh until they are brought ashore and disposed of. These alterations will, it is hoped be carried out shortly; the trawler would then be in a position to undertake her duties regularly according to programme.

The Marine Aquarium continued to be a popular resort, the number of visitors increased and the receipts from fees rose by about Rs. 150.

No progress has been made in the consideration of schemes relating to the establishment of public aquaria in Rameswaram and Visnagapatam.

Sardine and Mackerel investigations were continued at the Calicut Research Station. Investigations have also been carried out on the development of edible oysters in Indian waters. The experiments at oyster culture will be abandoned at Ennore and confined to Ponnai. The Biological station proposed on the Kramada Island has not yet been sanctioned. Biological investigations have not progressed to any great extent and much remains to be done in the investigations relating to the oil sardines and mackerel, while the problem of the irregular occurrence of Indian pearl fisheries remains yet to be solved.

The combined oyster and biological section worked at a loss of nearly Rs. 800. The transactions connected with the supply of oysters alone brought in an increased revenue of over Rs. 750 as compared with last year, but the sales of biological specimens resulted in an increased loss during the year. It is not clear why the transactions relating to the supply of biological specimens should not be made self-supporting and the Director is requested to consider this question separately.

The Assistant Director on the West Coast is in charge of the activities which are calculated to improve the social and economic condition of the fisherfolk. On this educational and social ameliorative work mainly must depend the success of the attempts made by the department to propagate the knowledge of improved methods in the technical matters connected with the avocation of fishermen. The department has achieved some measure of success in awakening an interest in and desire for the education of the children of the community and demands are coming in for the opening of more elementary schools for the benefit of fisher children. The education imparted in these schools is general and in addition is heavily biased towards the chief occupation of the community. The co-operative movement, the Government regret to note has not made much headway especially in South Kanara District. The movement has shown some progress in Malabar, but it cannot be said to have taken a satisfactory hold on the community in general. Both membership and share capital decreased during the year with a corresponding diminution under loan transactions.

INDUSTRIES.

The Industries Department took part in a number of industrial and horticultural exhibitions in the province but the grant sanctioned by the Legislative Council to enable this Government to participate in the British Empire Industries Fair, 1927, had to be surrendered owing to the lack of interest on the part of the manufacturers and producers and the consequent difficulty of collecting sufficient exhibits for display at the Fair.

The year 1926-27 of Industries constituted under the Madras State Aid to Industries Act was most successful during the year and the Government take this opportunity of thanking the members of the first thirty or so very useful work done by them. During the year under review there was only one meeting of the Board and only three applications for loans were considered. The Carnatic Paper Mills has not yet been able to start manufacturing and their application for further financial assistance to provide the working capital and to purchase some additional equipment has been under the consideration of Government for some time. The Government have also taken up the question of amending the Act in order to provide greater facilities for the grant of aid under the Act to cottage and minor small-scale industries.

The work of the Bureau of Industrial and Commercial Intelligence is of a wide and diversified character, and from the nature of the enquiries answered it is apparent that it is appreciated by the industrial and commercial public.

Owing to the slackness of trade and unsatisfactory conditions of the money market there were few commencements of new companies and several failures among old ones. Of the new companies, only a small percentage included purely industrial undertakings. The cotton and jute industries seem to have worked successfully. The special reports of Miss Iweddle on the lace and embroidery industry and the possibilities of overseas markets for its products show why it is difficult to adopt effective steps for the encouragement of this industry. The products of the industry have chiefly to be marketed abroad and changes of fashion in consuming centres disastrously affect the industry even in countries which are in immediate touch with markets and have a large and skilled organisation devoted to stimulating and retaining the public taste. It will perhaps be necessary to concentrate attention on the production mainly of articles in constant demand for household use such as tea cloths, tray cloths, pillow and cushion covers and articles of this kind.

The development of the oil industry is not only of industrial importance but also of great direct benefit to agriculturists as oil cake is a useful fertiliser as well as valuable food stuff for cattle. There are of course difficulties in the way especially in the matter of marketing and the Director has referred to some of these. With a view to giving a stimulus to the oil milling industry by demonstrating the possibilities of oil expellers the Government have decided to instal as soon as the requisite funds are allotted, an oil expeller and roller mill in the premises of the Kallakuruchi Co-operative Industrial and Agricultural Society. The result of the proposed experiment will be awaited before further action is taken in the same direction.

A great deal of interest has been evinced during the year in developing the mineral possibilities of the Presidency. Forty prospecting licences were issued for the prospecting of various minerals and twenty three mining leases were granted, majority of which being as usual for the mining of mica which is chiefly carried on in the district of Nellore and to some extent in the Nilgiris. There has been a decrease in the output of manganese, magnesite, barytes and mica while there was an increase in the output of gold and silver as compared with the previous year.

As regards the manufacturing concern conducted by the Government of which there are now only two, the Kalare Soap Institute at Olanut and the Industrial Institute, Madras, which though primarily designed as a minor industries laboratory is now primarily concerned with manufacture of ink. Owing to adverse trade conditions, the Soap Institute sustained a small loss for meeting all indirect charges including an amount of Rs. 18,700 towards interest on the invested capital. The question of the most suitable arrangements for expanding sales has been engaging the attention of the Director. The Superintendent whose work has hitherto centred on the manufacturing work at the institute has been permitted to visit important concerns with a view to developing business. Though the institute has been in existence for some years and has also now and then been giving instruction in soap making, proposals for introduction of regular courses for apprentices were sanctioned early during the year and were brought into force shortly after the close of the year. The course introduced is one of two years and is purely practical in character adapted to the requirements of men with small capital and with moderate education. A shorter course of three months has also been since introduced for people who are not qualified for taking the longer course. The Industrial Institute (Ink Factory) was able to realise a profit of nearly Rs. 1,800 as against a loss of nearly Rs. 5,400 in the previous year.

The textile branch was engaged primarily in improving the conditions of the handloom industry through the agency of its peripatetic parties. The warp preparation section has not been able to increase its output of seamed yarn. Though the plant may be said to have demonstrated the economy of using power spun warps, there is considerable difficulty in inducing the weavers to purchase this yarn for use on their looms. The question of bringing about a settled organisation on a co-operative basis which would be in a position to undertake the distribution of the entire quantity of yarn which the plant is capable of making is being considered by the Co-operative Department.

The Coomoor Silk Farm was not able to do any satisfactory work owing to the attack of the mulberry plantations in Coomoor by a fungus which, in spite of careful treatment, seems to have disappeared in a violent form. The question of opening a new farm elsewhere is being examined. There are several centres in the Presidency where favourable conditions exist for the cultivation of mulberry and the rearing of worms. Work has already been initiated in some centres and with a view to securing closer control of the work already taken up and to developing the work in new tracts, Government have recently transferred the headquarters of the Bell Cultural Assistant from Coonoor to Madras.

The Industrial Engineering section received a larger number of enquiries and applications for advice and assistance. The number of plants erected during the year was only 66 as against 81 in the previous year but the area likely to be brought under irrigation as a result of the pumping plants erected during the year will be 497 acres against 400 in the last year. The number of compounder plants increased by 40. The number of loans sanctioned for the installation of pumping machinery increased from five to nine and the amount disbursed was Rs. 58,700 against Rs. 43,500 in the previous year. There was an addition of three power drills in the Boring Branch and the demand for the boring sets was the greatest during the year. Out of 450 applications received for boring plants 414 were disposed of and 768 borings were put down of which 584 were successful. Some progress was made in the tapping of underground water supplies but as the work at present done consists chiefly in tapping bore holes put down at the instance of the ryots on payment of fees no great headway could be made in the preparation of a map for the whole of the Presidency within a reasonable distance of time. The question of undertaking an experimental sub-sol survey in a compact area which was discussed at the Collectors Conference is now engaging the attention of Government. There was an addition of 13 pumping sets during the year and the number of applications registered increased from 61 to 86 while the number disposed of increased from 67 to 91. The Government have since the close of the year examined the question of fees levied for advice rendered and machinery hired to the ryots and have decided to reduce in many cases the fee at present charged and to remit them wholly in a few cases. It is estimated that the loss of receipts on account of the reduction will amount to about 25 per cent, and it is hoped that with a reduction in fees and an increase in the equipment in the possession of the department an extended use will be made of the services of the Engineering section by the agriculturists. The Industrial Engineering Workshop showed satisfactory results during the year and yielded a profit of more than Rs. 7,700.

The policy of Government in regard to the industrial education was continued in the development of that education mainly by means of aided institutions. The number of such institutions increased by seven during the year and the grants made to them for maintenance equipment and building were as shown below—

	Maintenance Rs.	Equipment Rs.	Building Rs.	Total Rs.
1923-24	19,035	Nil	Nil	69,035
1924-25	70,991	14,873	21,925	1,06,569
1925-26	82,750	15,214	40,600	1,38,564
1926-27	83,690	14,391	56,385	1,54,466

The expenditure has now exceeded the estimate which the Director of Industries considered fair in his report for 1923-24 and it represents a satisfactory advance towards the estimate of Rs. 2½ lakhs which the Committee on Industrial and Technical Education wanted to be earmarked as a beginning for a proper development of this branch of industrial education.

The institutions maintained by Government are the Madras Industrial Institute, the Madras Trades School and the Leather Trades Institute.

The Madras Industrial Institute which was reorganised in 1910-11 witnessed the passing of the second batch of the students during the year. It has now been placed on a permanent basis and an additional site has also been sanctioned. Originally the workshop alone was treated as a commercial concern but during the year both the institute and the workshop were treated as a combined unit and worked under commercial conditions.

The Madras Trades School retained its popularity during the year though it suffered in strength as shown by the decrease from 478 on the rolls of the school on 31st March 1926 to 408 on the corresponding date of 1927. The electrical engineering course seems to be gaining in popularity as compared with the mechanical engineering course. The Director is requested to report whether in view of the almost complete closure of the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute Bombay to the students of this Presidency in the electrical engineering department, the standard of instruction in the Trades School should not be raised to that of the Bombay Institute if it is now in any way lower. The question of improving the available facilities for study of electrical engineering is becoming important and the Director is requested to examine the question and submit a report as early as possible. The printing and the preparatory trades classes are also becoming popular.

The Leather Trades Institute failed to attract more than one student during the year. The question whether in view of the inadequate recognition by the trade of the usefulness of the instruction imparted in the institute it should continue to provide the present three year course of studies or whether the period of the course and the standard of education should be lowered has been examined and the Government hope to come to a definite conclusion at an early date.

The average attendance and the average number on the rolls in the School of Arts and Crafts have increased and it attracted a larger number of pupils from artisan classes.

The proposals to set up the first model Government Industrial Institute in the Northern Circars have been dropped and proposals have been made by the Director to open an industrial school at Oshant and a Trades School at Mangalore. He has also suggested that a school for the Ceded Districts which might be located at Bellary will prove successful and popular.

LABOUR AND DEPRESSED CLASSES.

Steady Progress was made by the Labour Department during the year. Its work, however, was in some cases hampered by misadministration of caste jealousy.

On the other hand, instances were happily not wanting of active co-operation from caste people.

The passing of the Trade Unions Act has given an impetus to the Trade Union movement in Madras. Seven unions were active during the year, or some part of it, as compared with two active unions in the previous year; in addition, two new unions were formed and a third formally re-associated.

Except for the strike on the Bengal Nagpur Railway which affected to some extent those Railway employees located at Virasagar's, no strike or lock out of a serious nature occurred during the year.

Special staff continued to work on behalf of the depressed classes in several districts. The main line of work was the provision of house-sites, assignment of waste lands for cultivation and the lease of valuable lands to organisations and the provision of co-operative societies, establishment of schools, construction of wells, repairs to ponds, and the provision of sites for burial grounds, latrines and pathways.

Six thousand two hundred and five house-sites were granted during the year of these, 2,789 were provided by the assignment of lands formerly reserved but no longer required for immemorial purposes, and 3,406 by the formal acquisition of lands.

The co-operative movement made further progress during the year under report. One hundred and forty four new societies were organised and registered, bringing the total number of societies under the control of the Department at the end of the year to 1,430.

The main lines of educational work of the Department during the year under report, the payment of special educational grants, Boarding grants, scholarships and stipends, and the maintenance of hostels. During the year, 221 new schools were opened as compared with 187 in the previous year. Nine hundred and twenty six schools were at work at the end of the year including 60 night schools and 79 combined day and night schools. No fees were collected from the people. Caste pupils were also admitted free of charge.

Twenty six thousand two hundred acres of lands were assigned during the year to members of the depressed classes. This brought the total extent of land so far assigned to 306,860 acres.

There were in the Presidency at the beginning of the year 8 settlements for criminal tribes one of which was abolished during the year. The total population in these settlements was 5,619. Agriculture is the main occupation but industries such as weaving and carpet-making have been started in several settlements in order to provide a subsidiary occupation for inmates. A school is maintained at each settlement at which attendance is compulsory for all children of school going age. It is interesting to observe that the number of children who attended the settlement schools per mile of the settlement population during the year under report was 188, whereas the number of children attending school per mile of the total population in the Presidency was only 55. The industrial schools have also been established, one for boys and one for girls and are under the management of the Salvation Army.

Five thousand five hundred and seventy persons were registered under the Act during the year and 4,713 were removed from the registers for good conduct and other causes. At the end of the year the total number of persons registered under the Act excluding the Kallars of the North but including persons confined in settlements were 40,141 (34,019 males and 6,122 females).

VILLAGE PANCHAYATS.

In the districts the immediate change of the work connected with panchayats continued to be in the hands mainly of Presidents of taluk boards and honorary organisers. There were 87 of the latter at the end of the year under review. It is vital to continue to work without travelling allowances which explains the irregular and unsystematic work which many of them did. A considerable number there were, however, who, in spite of the scarcity of time and money involved, did their work regularly and systematically.

The year 1926-27 opened with the number 493 of the panchayats whose constitution had been ordered; the corresponding number at the end of the year was 1924, an increase of over 100 per cent. 391 panchayats were ordered to be constituted in the year in 23 districts.

Three hundred and eleven of the 1924 panchayats did not function during the year. In 27 of these cases, the constitution was considered too late for elections to be held within the year. In 121 more elections were in various stages of delay on the part of Presidents or taluk boards and Honorary Organisers. There is definite information that, in the remaining 88 cases, the complete inactivity of the panchayats is due to the apathy of the residents of the village. Both apathy and faction have been responsible for the nominal functioning of a number of other panchayats. In these cases, the law is defective in not giving power to compel the proper functioning of an apathetic or recalcitrant body of panchayats or to enforce the rendering of the necessary services at the cost of a factional body of villagers who render panchayat administration temporarily impossible. As reported last year, reason and quiet argument, preaching and persuasion and an appeal to patriotism and the higher nature have been successful in eliminating these obstacles in many places. But in other cases, they have failed and the villages and the panchayats concerned have had to be left alone for the time being. The amendment of the law in this respect is overdue.

The need for an agency which can be relied upon to keep itself in adequate touch with panchayats and which can give them advice and guidance is, however great, still, in the absence of a Government paid or Government-subsidised agency, different attempts have been made in two equal roads to supply the need.

The number of elections held during the year was 798, at which 8810 panchayat members were elected. The elections were all conducted by honorary non-officials either presidents and members of taluk boards or honorary organisers.

Considerable progress was made in the election of Adi-Dravidas and Adi-Andhras as panchayat-dars. According to the administration reports that have so far been received 183 members of these classes were elected during the year to seats on 148 panchayats the corresponding figures reported in the last review being 89 and 15. They obtained one seat in each of 19 panchayats, two seats in each of twenty more, three in one panchayat, six in another and seven in a third.

No function is now obligatory on panchayats and they are free to choose what functions they will attend to for the time being. A considerable number of panchayats have taken up several of the functions indicated in sections 15 to 20 of the Act. Others have contented themselves with attending during the year to one or two only of them e.g. the election of panchayat members, the making of a road, the protection of a drinking water source, the performance of kudi marayat to irrigation sources, the running of a library or the maintenance of a school. But many panchayats which functioned in this restricted manner in the previous year extended their activities during the year under review and undertook additional functions. Though there has thus been great variation in the number of functions and in the extent of their activities, nearly every one of the functions referred to in the Act has been attempted by some panchayat or other.

The opening, during the year of 800 panchayat primary schools, 44 schoolless centres with a population of 500 and over marked not only a new departure in the activities of these bodies but also a great help and step forward in the field of elementary education.

The total amount disbursed as teaching grants during the year was Rs. 88,992 10 0 and as equipment grants Rs. 23,994-7-6.

The amount sanctioned and fully spent to panchayat libraries was Rs. 10,409 against Rs. 8,000 in the previous year.

The desirability of transferring to panchayats the income from profession tax from trees and from house tax and the whole or a share of the receipts from fisheries and markets was continually pressed on the Taluk Boards and as a result of this propaganda seventeen taluk boards sanctioned such a transfer in addition to the twenty-five which had done so in the previous year. The amounts realized by the panchayats from these sources were not considerable but the transfer has had the effect in several cases of inducing the panchayats to improve the income from these sources and to add to them resources of their own.

Actual working of panchayats has disclosed a number of defects in the existing Act whose amendment in several directions has been long overdue. The number of these most serious is growing at a rapid pace (it is to day 254) and their activities are expanding in many directions.

The question of a proper organisation and decentralisation of this work still awaits solution.

COUNCIL OF STATE

SINGLE TRANSFERABLE VOTE FOR NON-MUHAMMADAN CONSTITUENCY

Example of an Election conducted on the system of the single transferable vote

Let it be assumed that there are five members to be elected, and that there are ten candidates A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I and K.

The ballot papers are examined, and the valid papers are arranged in separate parcels under the names of the candidates marked with the figure 1.

FIRST COUNT

Each separate parcel is counted, and each candidate is credited with one vote in respect of each paper on which a first preference has been recorded for him.

The result of the count may be supposed to be as follows:—

	Votes		Votes		Votes		Votes
A	2009	D	746	G	157	K	98
B	982	E	468	H	122
C	989	F	341	I	118	Total	6000

THE QUOTA

It is found that the total of all the valid votes is 6,000. This total is divided by six (i.e., the number which exceeds by one the number of vacancies to be filled) and 1,001 (i.e., the quotient 1,000 increased by one) is the "quota" or the number of votes sufficient to elect a member.

A's votes exceed the quota, and he is declared elected.

FIGURE TRANSFER

A has 1,008 surplus votes (i.e., A's total 2009 less the quota 1001), and it is necessary to transfer this surplus [Regulation 47 (1)].

All A's 2009 papers are examined and arranged in separate sub-parcels, according to the second preference indicated thereon [Regulation 47 (2) (a)].

A separate sub-parcel is also formed of those papers on which no further available preference is shown, and which are therefore not transferable [Regulation 47 (3) (c)].

The results is found to be as follows:—

A next available preference is shown—

for D on	257 papers.
for E on	11 "
for F on	20 "
for G on	1706 "

Total of transferable papers 2006 papers.

Total of non-transferable papers 994

Total of A's papers 3000

Since the total number of transferable papers (2004) exceeds the surplus (1008), only a portion of each sub parcel can be transferred, and the number of papers to be transferred from each sub-parcel must bear the same proportion to the total number of papers in the sub parcel as that which the surplus bears to the total number of transferable papers.

In other words, the number of papers to be transferred from each sub-parcel is ascertained by multiplying the number of papers in the sub parcel by 1008 (the surplus), and dividing the result by 2004 (the total number of transferable papers)

The process is as follows —

D's sub parcel contains 257 papers and his share of the surplus is therefore —

$$257 \times \frac{1008}{2004} \text{ or } 129 \frac{540}{2004}$$

E's sub parcel contains 11 papers and his share of the surplus is therefore —

$$11 \times \frac{1008}{2004} \text{ or } 5 \frac{168}{2004}$$

F's sub parcel contains 28 papers and his share of the surplus is therefore —

$$28 \times \frac{1008}{2004} \text{ or } 14 \frac{168}{2004}$$

G's sub parcel contains 1708 papers and his share of the surplus is therefore —

$$1708 \times \frac{1008}{2004} \text{ or } 849 \frac{228}{2004}$$

Total 1008

The numbers of papers to be transferred as determined by the preceding process contain fractions and since only whole papers can be transferred so many of the largest of these fractions taken in order of their magnitude as will make the total number of papers to be transferred equal to the surplus are reckoned as of the value of unity

Thus as the whole numbers determined above amount to only 1007 viz (129 + 5 + 14 + 849) or one short of the surplus 1008 the largest fraction $\frac{1016}{2004}$ is reckoned as unity and the numbers of papers to be transferred are as follows —

To D	129 papers	To F	14 papers.
To E	5 "	To G	849 "
		Total being, A's surplus	1008

The particular papers to be transferred to D, E, F and G are those last tied in their respective sub parcels and therefore, at the top of the sub parcels. The papers to be transferred are to be marked so as to indicate the candidates from and to whom the transfer is made

These papers are added in separate sub parcels of D, E, F and G

The totals of the votes credited to these candidates then become —

Votes		Votes
D	146 + 1 = 147	F	141 + 14 = 155
E	493 + 5 = 498	G	10 + 849 = 1016

The remainders of the papers in the sub parcels (i.e. those papers not transferred) together with the papers on which no further available preferences were marked, are collected together and formed into one parcel representing A's quota of votes (1001) and these papers are set aside as finally dealt with. The parcel is made up as follows —

The remainder of D's sub parcel, 257 less 129 =	128
The remainder of E's sub parcel 11 less 5 =	6
The remainder of F's sub-parcel, 28 less 14 =	14
The remainder of G's sub parcel, 1,708 less 849 =	849
Non transferable papers.	6
Total being A's quota	1001

The operations involved in this transfer are summarised in the following table —

TRANSFER OF A'S SURPLUS

Surplus	1008
Number of transferable papers	2004
Proportion to be transferred	Surplus
	No of transferable papers
	1008
	2004

Names of candidates marked as the next available preferences.				Number of original papers	Number of papers transferred.	Number of papers retained for A's quota.
B
C	..			257	129	128
D	..			11	6	5
E	..			28	14	14
F	..			1708	889	819
G	..

K	..
Total number of transferable papers				2004	1008	996
Number of non-transferable papers				5	..	5
Total				2009	1008	1001

The state of the poll on the conclusion of the transfer is as follows:—

	Votes.		Votes.		Votes.		Votes.
A	1001 elected.	O	989	F	255	K	98
G	1016 ..	D	875	H	182
B	952 ..	E	499	I	118	Total	8000

G now has 1016 votes, a number which is more than the quota. He is accordingly declared elected.

Second Transfer

G's surplus (1016 less 1001, or 15) would have to be transferred were it not for the provision of regulation 47 (5) (c). Under the latter rule, the Returning Officer need not transfer a surplus which is less than the difference between the two lowest candidates on the poll, and where therefore, the transfer could not alter the relative position of these two candidates, even if the whole surplus were transferred to the lowest candidate. In this case the difference between I and K, the two lowest candidates, is 26 (118 less 92), and therefore G's surplus need not be transferred.

The Returning Officer proceeds to distribute the papers of the candidate with the smallest total of votes.

K's parcel of 98 papers is therefore examined. It is found to contain 90 papers on which F is the next preference and 8 on which O is the next preference.

Therefore 80 papers are transferred to F and 8 to O.

The poll now stands as follows:—

	Votes.		Votes.		Votes.
A	1001 elected.	C	948	F	444
G	1016 ..	D	875	H	182
B	952 ..	E	499	I	118
				Total	6906

Third Transfer

The poll shows that as a result of the second transfer no further candidate obtained the quota which would entitle him to election, and the next operation has to be determined upon.

The difference between I and H (118 less 118, i.e., 0) exceeds G's surplus (15), which therefore, is still allowed to remain untransferred [Regulation 47 (5) (c)].

Candidate I is lowest on the poll and his papers have to be distributed in the same manner as K's [Rule 46 (1)]. But as the combined totals of H and I together with G's surplus (182 + 118 + 15 = 315) are less than 444, the total of F, the next highest candidate, the Returning Officer avails himself of regulation 46 (5), and distributes the papers of both H and I in one operation.

The papers (182 + 118, or 300 in all) in the parcels of H and I are examined in one operation, and it is found that—

B is marked next preference on	..	Papers.
D is marked next preference on	..	119
Non-transferable papers	..	107
		44
Total	..	270

Do you see any mistake in the book? Please let us know.

It should be stated that on some papers some or one of the candidates A, G, I, H and K may have been marked as next in order of preference on the papers examined, but, as all these candidates are already either elected or excluded, any papers so marked pass to those of the other candidates for whom the next available preferences have been recorded.

The operation is completed by the transfer of 119 papers to B, and 107 to D, whilst the 44 non-transferable papers are set aside as finally dealt with [Regulation 49 (1)].

The poll now stands as follows:—

Votes.			Votes.
1001 elected.	D	982	444
1016	C	948
1071 "	E	569	Non-transferable papers .. 44
			Total .. 6000

B has now 1071 votes, a number which exceeds the quota, is accordingly declared elected

Fourth Transfer

B's surplus (70) exceeds the difference (55) between E and F, the two candidates lowest on the poll, and it is, therefore, necessary to distribute it.

For this purpose, only sub-parcel of papers last transferred, containing 119 papers, is taken into account.

These are examined and arranged in sub-parcels (in the same manner as A's papers were examined and arranged) with the following result:—

A next preference is shown for E on 54 papers

No further preference is shown on 55 papers.

The total number of transferable papers (84) is thus greater than the surplus (70), and the proportion to be transferred is 70/84. But there is only one candidate, E, entitled to participate in the transfer. E accordingly receives the whole of the surplus, and the 70 papers last filed in B's sub-parcel are therefore transferred to him, after being marked so as to indicate their transfer from B to E [Regulation 47 (4) (e)].

The remainder of the papers in B's sub-parcel, together with the non transferable papers, are placed with B's original parcel. The whole constitutes B's quota, and these papers are set aside as finally dealt with [Regulation 49 (1)].

B's quota is made up as follows:—

Original parcel	582
Remainder of B's sub-parcel	14
Non-transferable papers	25
Total	1001

The poll now stands as follows:—

Votes.			Votes.
1001 elected.	D	982	444
1016	C	948
1091 "	E	569	Non-transferable papers 44
			Total 6000

Fifth Transfer

No candidate is elected as the result of the transfer, and the next operation has to be determined upon.

G's surplus is still not distributable, being smaller than the difference between the totals of E, and F, the two lowest candidates [Regulation 47 (5)(e)].

F is lowest and his papers have to be distributed.

On examination it is found that of F's 444 papers, 355 show a next preference for C, and the remainder 89, contain no further preference.

The operation is completed by the transfer of 355 papers to C, whilst the 89 non transferable papers are set aside as finally dealt with [Regulation 49 (1)].

The poll now stands as follows:—

Votes.			Votes.
1001 elected	C	1293	444
1016	E	982
1091		569	Non-transferable papers 185
			Total 6000

(9) Where during the passage of a Bill the Governor makes a recommendation in respect thereof, and any clause of the Bill has been agreed to, or any amendment has been made, in a form inconsistent with the form recommended, the member in charge of the Bill may move any amendment which, if accepted, would bring the Bill into the form recommended.

(4) Where the Council refuses to take a recommended Bill into consideration, or makes any alteration therein which is inconsistent with the form recommended or refuses to agree to any alteration or amendment which, if accepted, would bring the Bill into the form recommended, the President shall, if so requested by the member in charge of the Bill, endorse on the Bill a certificate to the effect that the Council has failed to pass the Bill in the form recommended.

(5) Subject to the provisions of this rule and of rule 20-B, the ordinary procedure of the Council in regard to Bills shall, so far as may be, apply in regard to recommended Bills.

21. If the Governor certifies that a Bill or any clause of a Bill or any amendment to a Bill affects the safety or tranquillity of a Province or any part thereof, and directs that no proceedings or no further proceedings shall be taken thereon, all notices of motions in connection with the subject-matter of the certificate shall lapse, and if any such motion has not already been set down on the list of business it shall not be so set down. If any such motion has been set down on the list of business, the President shall, when the motion is reached, inform the Council of the Governor's action, and the Council shall forthwith without debate proceed to the next item of business.

21 A. On the dissolution of the Council every Bill which has been introduced in the Council and has not been passed by the Council shall lapse.

22 (1) The Governor may within the period of notice disallow any resolution or any part of a resolution on the ground that it cannot be moved without detriment to the public interest, or on the ground that it relates to a matter which is not primarily the concern of the Local Government, and if he does so the resolution or part of the resolution shall not be placed on the list of business.

(2) The Governor may disallow on grounds as aforesaid any motion for adjournment under rule 11, notwithstanding the consent of the President, and if he does so the adjournment shall not be permitted by the President and no further discussion of the motion shall take place.

26. (1) A separate demand shall ordinarily be made in respect of the grant proposed for each department of the Government, provided that the Finance Member may in his discretion include in one demand grants proposed for two or more departments, or make a demand in respect of expenditure, such as Famine Relief and Insurance and Interest, which cannot readily be classified under particular departments. Demands affecting reserved and transferred subjects shall, so far as may be possible, be kept distinct.

(3) Each demand shall contain, first, a statement of the total grant proposed and then a statement of the detailed estimate under each grant divided into items.

28. (1) On a day to be appointed by the Governor subsequent to the day on which the Budget is presented and for such time as the Governor may allot for this purpose, the Council shall be at liberty to discuss the Budget as a whole or any question of principle involved therein but no motion shall be moved at this stage nor shall the Budget be submitted to the vote of the Council.

(2) The Finance Member shall have a general right of reply at the end of the discussion.

(3) The President may, if he thinks fit prescribe a time-limit for speeches.

29. (1) Not more than twelve days shall be allotted by the Governor for the discussion of demands of the Local Government for grants.

(2) Of the days so allotted not more than two days shall be allotted by the Governor to the discussion of any one demand. As soon as the maximum limit of time for discussion is reached, the President shall forthwith put every question necessary to dispose of the demand under discussion.

(3) On the last day of the allotted days at 5 o'clock, the President shall forthwith put every question necessary to dispose of all the outstanding matters in connexion with the demands for grants.

30. (1) No motion for appropriation can be made except on the recommendation of the Governor communicated to the Council.

(2) Motions may be moved at this stage to reduce any grant or to omit or reduce any item in a grant, but not to increase or alter the destination of a grant.

(3) When several motions relating to the same demand are offered they shall be discussed in the order in which the heads to which they relate appear in the Budget.

(4) No motion shall be made for the reduction of a grant as a whole until all motions for the commission or reduction of definite items within that grant have been discussed.

31. When money has been spent in any service for which the vote of Council is necessary during any financial year in excess of the amount granted for that service and for that year a demand for the excess shall be presented to the Council by the Finance Member and shall be dealt with in the same way by the Council as if it were a demand for a grant.

32. (1) An estimate shall be presented to the Council for a supplementary or additional grant when—
(i) the amount voted in the Budget of a grant is found to be insufficient for the purposes of the current year; or

(ii) a new service during the current year for expenditure for which the vote of the Council is necessary upon some new service not contemplated in the Budget for that year.

(3) Supplementary or additional estimates shall be dealt with in the same way by the Council as if they were demands for grants.

2. The Committee on Public Accounts shall consist of such number of members as the Government may direct, of whom not less than two-thirds shall be elected by the non-official members of the Council according to the principle of proportionate representation by means of the single transferable vote. The remaining members shall be nominated by the Governor

The number of members has been fixed at ten, of whom seven are elected by the non-official members of the Council and three nominated by the Governor.

3. The Finance Member shall be Chairman of the Committee and, in the case of an equality of votes on any matter, shall have a second or casting vote.

4. In scrutinising the audit and appropriation accounts of the province, it shall be the duty of the Committee to satisfy itself that the money voted by the Council has been spent within the scope of the demand granted by the Council.

5. It shall be the duty of the Committee to bring to the notice of the Council

(i) every re-appropriation from one grant to another grant;

(ii) every re-appropriation within a grant which is not made in accordance with the rules regulating the functions of the Finance Department, or which has the effect of increasing the expenditure on an item the provision for which has been specifically reduced by a vote of the Council; and

(iii) all expenditure which the Finance Department has requested should be brought to the notice of the Council.

6. The Finance Department shall lay the Audit and Appropriation reports before the Committee on Public Accounts, and shall bring to the notice of the Committee all expenditure which has not been duly authorised and any financial irregularities.

The Appropriation report will deal with provincial finance and with changes of classification in the amounts and will contain statements comparing the grants voted by the Council with the actual expenditure under each grant. Explanations will be given in the report with regard to excesses over the sanctioned grants.

7. Copies of the Audit and Appropriation reports will on receipt be forwarded by the Finance Department to the concerned departments of the Secretariat. The latter will examine those portions of the report which relate to matters under their control and will prepare such statements or evidence as may be required for the information of the Committee.

8. The Finance Department may report any type of financial irregularity to the Committee. In particular the following classes of cases will be referred —

10. If the Committee desires to pursue any financial irregularity or unauthorised appropriation the Secretary to Government in the department concerned or the Head of the department shall be examined as a witness. The Committee may also call for the evidence of any other Government officer.

11. The dates of the meeting of the Committee will be fixed by the Finance Member. Seven days' notice of each meeting shall ordinarily be given, but such notice may in cases of urgency be dispensed with. A copy of the agenda together with the papers relevant thereto shall so far as possible be circulated to the Members of the Committee with the notice of the meeting.

Women's Indian Association,

Head-quarters: Adyar

The organisation consists of a President, Vice-President, Honorary General Secretary, Treasurer and a Committee of an Advisory Council of the Secretaries of all the branches. It now has 80 branches in all parts of India and nearly 2,000 members. Subject to the adherence to the general aims and objects of the association, the branches are self-governing, arrange their own programmes to suit local conditions and desires and manage their own finances. The official magazine of the Association is called Str. Dharma. Through correspondence with the Head-quarters Secretary and through the official magazine, the branches and members are linked into a unified sisterhood with a sense of strength, courage and inspiration which could not be got by entirely independent isolated educational centres. The political policy of the Association is to work for reforms through the Legislative Council. The aims, ideals and work of the Association are on a religious basis.

Objects—To present to women their responsibility as daughters of India; to help them to realise that the future of India lies largely in their hands; to secure for women the vote for Municipal and Legislative Council as it is or may be granted to men; to secure for women the right to be elected as members on all Municipal and Legislative Councils, and to band women into groups for the purpose of self development, education and for the definite service of others. Membership.—Women who agree and co-operate with the objects of the Association may become members. Groups of women having the same aims can be affiliated to the Women's Indian Association. Members are asked, but not obliged, to pay a subscription of 12 annas a year to the Head-quarters of the Association. The Association has started a "Women's Home of Service" in Madras, for the teaching of home industries to adult women. Over 100 pupils attend it, and a flourishing Baby Welfare Centre forms part of its activities. At 2 other Centres in Madras, and in several municipal Towns, the members also carry on Baby Welfare.

The General Hospital Madras, originated as an amalgamation of two formerly existing hospitals, viz, the "Garrison Hospital" and the "Old Naval Hospital". It was used as a Military Garrison Hospital for sick sailors of Her Majesty's Fleet and of the Honourable East India Company's ships were also treated there. In course of time the building was reconstructed and a portion was allotted to the troops in the Fort and this was subsequently styled as the Station Hospital. Later on a block for infectious diseases was built and also a new out-patient dispensary. It has undergone several modifications in its structure and since 1899 the whole block of buildings became a purely civil institution.

Mental patients admitted to this hospital are of two classes (1) Voluntary Boarders, (2) Patients admitted under reception order: A voluntary boarder is a patient who suffers from some mental disorder and wishes to enter the Mental Hospital for treatment. Such a patient must apply to the Superintendent for a form, which he (the patient) is required to fill up sign and have countersigned by two official visitors before he can enter the Mental Hospital as a voluntary patient. To secure the admission of a patient by his relative the relative is required to fill in the form I Application for reception order and present it to a first-class Magistrate of the district or division in which the patient resides, together with two medical certificates in the prescribed form, signed respectively by the Gazetted
 Medical Officer and by a recognised Medical Practitioner who must have examined the patient separately within the previous 7 days. Two more documents are also necessary one a form filled up and signed by the Magistrate after his inquiry into the case and the other an engagement in writing from the petitioner or some other person for the payment of the cost of the maintenance of the lunatic in the Mental Hospital.
 But before applying for the reception of a patient into the Mental Hospital inquiry should be made as to whether accommodation is available. If in possession of means, voluntary boarders are required to pay at the rates laid down in the Mental Hospital rules. Destitutes are admitted free; the rates at which patients are admitted are graded according to income; in the case of poor patients with families dependent on them, a reduction of charges will be made; voluntary boarders may leave the Mental Hospital at any time, on giving the Superintendent 24 hours' notice in writing and patients admitted under reception order can be removed by the relative who petitioned for their admission on making an application in writing to the Superintendent who will give permission at his discretion; friends or relatives permitted to visit patients on Saturdays between 9 and 4 P M, generally; further information regarding rules of admission and the charges levied can be had from the Superintendent, Mental Hospital, Madras;

The Pasteur Institute

(COONCOOR)

The Pasteur Institute of Southern India, for the treatment of persons bitten by rabid animals, was rendered possible by the allotment by His Excellency the Viceroy (Lord Curzon) of one lakh of rupees out of the sum placed at his disposal by Mr. Henry Phipps of the United States. Director - Lieut. Col. J. H. Gloster, I.M.B. Asst. Director - W. A. Beer, I.M.D. Sub Asst. Surgeons - M. Ramen Nambeyar, and S. Sitarama Sastri.

Accommodation - There are several hotels and boarding houses which are open all the year round and also residential clubs.

Europeans and Eurasians are not accommodated at the Institute but must make their own arrangements for board and lodging about which there is no difficulty. Persons who cannot afford hotel rates can find inexpensive lodgings in the town within three-quarters of a mile of the Institute.

Well-to-do Indians can find houses in convenient situations and others can arrange for lodging and meals in the town. Indigent patients are accommodated in the free quarters in the Institute compound and will be provided with blankets and cooking pots.

Patients who are sent by or at the expense of private employers, friends or other private persons or associations should be provided by them with the cost of their return journey and also with sufficient money to pay for their food during the course of treatment, which lasts 14 days. If desired, money for these purposes may be sent to the Director of the Institute and this course is strongly recommended in the case of menial servants and illiterate or other irresponsible people.

Treatment - All persons who desire to proceed to Coonoor for anti-rabic treatment at the Pasteur Institute may do so at their own expense. Those who do not desire to do so and all indigent persons may obtain anti-rabic treatment at the Headquarter Hospital of the District and in Madras City at the General Hospital. Treatment at the General Hospital and at the Headquarter Hospital will be free only to indigent persons. All others will be charged Rs. 10 for the course of treatment; if they are admitted as inpatients, the usual nursing and dieting charges will be levied in addition.

Veterinary Officers who have to undergo anti-rabic treatment as a result of infection incurred while discharging their official duties shall be exempted from payment of the charge for anti-rabic treatment.

Military officers and their families who are entitled to free medical attendance under section 408 of Civil Medical Code shall be exempted from payment of charges for anti-rabic treatment.

PANJAB INSTITUTE.—(Contd.)

Arrangements have been made to send out the anti rabic vaccine to the Superintendents of Government Head-quarter Hospitals, and some Mission Hospitals in Southern India so that the treatment may be given at local centres and the bulk of the patients saved from the necessity of having to travel to Coonoor for treatment.

SWADESAMITHAN, THE.—The founders of the "Hindu" in 1880 a couple of years after that paper was launched, started the 'Swadesamithan' as a Tamil weekly for enlightening the masses in public affairs and the paper was continued as a weekly till the dissolution of partnership between the late Messrs G Subramania Iyer and T Viraraghavachariar. The 'Swadesamithan' then passed into the hands of the former who began to give his whole attention to it and edit it himself. He converted it immediately into a tri weekly and very soon into a daily newspaper. He continued to edit it for a number of years when in 1915 a few months before his death, he passed it into the hands of Mr. A. Rangaswami Ayyangar, B A, B L, then the Assistant Editor of the "Hindu". Under him it has been much improved and is now an up-to-date newspaper expectantly awaited by village folk every morning. It has the largest circulation of any vernacular paper in South India and enjoys the confidence of the Tamil reading public. It is now the property of a Limited Company with a large capital organised a couple of years ago to give it the strength it needed to cope with present conditions. Circulation 11,000.
